Attorney for Petitioner

QUESTIONS PRESENTED

Five questions are presented:

1. Is aggravation of attorney discipline resulting in disbarment based in part on exercise of core political speech by an attorney on a blog or web site a prohibited official reprisal and a violation of the First, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment Due Process clauses under Hartman v. Moore, 547 U.S. 250 (2006) and Crawford-El v. Britton, 523 U.S. 574 (1998)?

2. Is a state professional discipline proceeding which provides pre-filing discovery only in favor of the prosecution – a "one-way" street – while providing no post-filing discovery to the accused attorney resulting in disbarment a violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment Due Process clauses under Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319 (1976) and Wardius v. Oregon, 412 U.S. 470 (1973)?

3. Is the failure to identify and connect alleged specific wrongful conduct to enumerated violations of Rules of Professional Conduct in a Specification of Charges where no discovery is granted to the accused attorney resulting in disbarment a violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment Due Process clauses under In Re Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544 (1968), Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319 (1976) and Wardius v. Oregon, 412 U.S. 479 (1973)?

4. Is the absence of any allegations in an attorney discipline Specification of Charges of a failure to perform duties in a proceeding where no discovery is granted to the accused attorney when, after the fact, identification of specific duties and their failure to be performed is the basis for professional discipline resulting in disbarment a violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment Due Process clauses under In Re Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544 (1968), Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319 (1976) and Wardius v. Oregon, 412 U.S. 470 (1973)?

5. Are adversarial, state attorney disciplinary proceedings of a quasi-criminal nature with proofs determined by a "preponderance" instead of a "clear and convincing" evidence standard resulting in disbarment which provide pre-filing discovery only in favor of the prosecution – a "one-way" street – while providing no post-filing discovery to the accused attorney a violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment Due Process clauses under In Re Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544 (1968), Addington v. Texas, 441 U.S. 418 (1979), Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319 (1976) and Wardius v. Oregon, 412 U.S. 470 (1973)?

CITATIONS FOR OPINION BELOW

The opinion of the Supreme Court of New Mexico (Appendix A) is reported as In the Matter of Stein, 2008-NMSC-013, 177 P.3d 513. The recommendation of the intermediate appeal to the Hearing Panel of Respondent Disciplinary Board (Appendix C) and the recommendation of the Hearing Committee appointed by Respondent Disciplinary Board (Appendix B) were not reported.

BASIS OF JURISDICTION OF COURT

28 U.S.C.A. § 1257 grants this Court jurisdiction to review on certiorari a judgment by the highest court of a state in which any right, privilege or immunity is claimed under the Constitution of the United States. The date of the Supreme Court of New Mexico opinion was February 20, 2008. There was no Motion for Rehearing filed directed to the opinion.

CONSTITUTIONAL AND STATUTORY PROVISIONS AT ISSUE

The Petitioner alleges that the Respondent violated his rights under the First, Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution, the relevant parts of which read as follows:

> The First Amendment: Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press, or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.
> The Fifth Amendment: No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in case arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offense to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.
> The Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1: All persons born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside. No state > shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States; nor shall any State deprive any person of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor deny to any person within its jurisdiction the equal protection of the laws.

STATEMENT OF THE CASE

A complaint was made against Petitioner Stein by a state court judge to the New Mexico Office of Disciplinary Counsel. Investigations of complaints are conducted by disciplinary counsel. N.M.R.A.17-105.B and N.M.R.A.17-307.A. Appendix G and J. The Rules of Professional Conduct require that all lawyers cooperate with disciplinary counsel in their investigation:

> D. Cooperation and Assistance; Required. A lawyer shall give full cooperation and assistance to the highest court of the state and to the disciplinary board, hearing committees and disciplinary counsel in discharging their respective functions and duties with respect to discipline and disciplinary matters.

N.M.R.A.16-803.D, Rules of Professional Conduct. During investigation of a complaint disciplinary counsel has rights of discovery, including (a) service of interrogatories to the targeted lawyer, and (b) the issuance of subpoenas to witnesses or the targeted attorney for documents and testimony. N.M.R.A.17-306.A. Appendix I. A targeted or respondent lawyer has no ability under the Rules Governing Discipline to initiate any discovery prior to the filing of formal charges. Charges are brought by the filing and service of a Specification of Charges. N.M.R.A.17-309.A. Appendix K.

A Specification of Charges was filed against Petitioner on February 22, 2007. Appendix BB. The Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts of New Mexico are used in formal disciplinary proceedings except where clearly inapplicable or inconsistent with the Rules Governing Discipline. N.M.R.A.17-301.B. Appendix H.

Once formal charges are filed, discovery, from that point forward, was controlled by the following rule:

> Upon a written showing of need, either party may apply to the chairman of the hearing committee for permission to conduct discovery proceedings prior to the date set for formal hearing.

In motion practice prior to the start of the hearing on the charges, Petitioner filed an Alternative Motion to Dismiss Specification of Charges and/or Motion for More Definite Statement and/or Dismissal for Failure to Follow the Rules Governing Discipline. In pleading practice prior to the hearing, Petitioner served his Answer and Counterclaim to the Specification of Charges on July 3, 2006. An Order was entered which denied the Request for Discovery. Appendix S.

During a break in the proceedings, Petitioner served a Second Request for Discovery again requesting the ability to propound requests to produce, request for admissions, interrogatories and depositions. Appendix R. Objections of Disciplinary Counsel to Respondent's Second Request for Discovery was served on September 19, 2006. Appendix Q. The second request for discovery was denied. Appendix P.

Disciplinary counsel requested no discovery from the Chair of the Hearing Committee after the filing of the Specification of Charges.

The hearing on the Specification of Charges took seven days from August, 2006 to January 2007. At conclusion of the proceedings, the Hearing Committee issued Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law finding Petitioner violated certain provisions of New Mexico's Rules of Professional Conduct. The Hearing Committee then set a hearing to consider factors in mitigation or aggravation prior to recommending sanctions for the violations found.

At the hearing on mitigation and aggravation, disciplinary counsel, for the first time, raised and introduced copies of Petitioner's web/blog site as a factor in aggravation. Transcript, Appendix EE, page 223. No allegations were made that anything on the web/blog site was false or untrue. Objections to their introduction based on the First Amendment to the United States Constitution were raised and overruled. Appendix EE, page 225.

The Hearing Committee entered its Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Recommendation for Discipline. It recommended a six-month suspension with automatic reinstatement to the Disciplinary Board. Appendix C.

An intermediate appeal was automatic to a three-member Hearing Panel of the Disciplinary Board.

N.M.R.A.17-314.A, Appendix M. Petitioner requested briefing and oral argument. N.M.R.A.17-314.B, Appendix M. At oral argument disciplinary counsel again raised the web/blog site before the Hearing Panel in an effort to increase the sanction from the six-month suspension to disbarment. Transcript, Appendix DD, page 220. Petitioner's objections were repeated. Appendix DD, pages 220-221. At this intermediate appeal, the Hearing Panel of the Disciplinary Board accepted disciplinary counsel's demand for Petitioner's disbarment and recommended same in its decision forwarded to the Supreme Court of New Mexico. Appendix B.

Petitioner requested a hearing before the Supreme Court of New Mexico under N.M.R.A.17-316.A.(1). Appendix N. The request was granted. The hearing was held on December 19, 2007 before the full panel of the Supreme Court of New Mexico. And, for a third time, Petitioner's web/blog site was raised at oral argument. Transcript, Appendix CC, pages 210; 213. Petitioner responds. Id. at pages 215-216. A small recess was taken after argument and, upon the court taking the bench, Petitioner was immediately disbarred. Transcript, Appendix CC, page 217.

The opinion of the Supreme Court of New Mexico on the disbarment of Petition was issued on February 20, 2008. In the Matter of Stein, 2008-NMSC-513, 117 P.3d 513, Appendix A. Content of the web/blog site was referenced as an aggravating factor. Id., In the Matter of Stein, 2008-NMSC-513 ¶ 71; 117 P.3d 513 at 529.

This Petition for Writ of Certiorari followed.

REASONS FOR ALLOWANCE OF WRIT

This case presents questions concerning the New Mexico attorney discipline system procedures that violate the First Amendment and the Due Process Clauses of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments. New Mexico attorney discipline procedures are similar to those in other states. The questions presented for review will have national impact.

Review is warranted to determine whether or how the exercise of core First Amendment criticism of an attorney discipline system on a web site or blog can be applied, if at all, for aggravating attorney discipline upon a finding of ethical violations.

Review is further warranted to determine implications of Due Process on the degree of specificity required to be given in a charging document; what amount of pre-hearing discovery, if any, is required to an accused attorney; and the required weight of the evidence to be used in finding a violation in this quasi-criminal proceeding.

I. REVIEW IS WARRANTED FOR FIRST AMENDMENT ISSUE.

This Court has recognized special protection when government seeks to extract punishment for exercise of core First Amendment rights. These protections are deeply embedded in American jurisprudence. After being entangled in what he believed an unconstitutionally applied attorney discipline system in New Mexico, Petitioner established a web site to voice criticism of the system and make suggestions for improvement. This political speech directed to the handling of attorney discipline by the New Mexico Supreme Court, its appointed board members and counsel – the third branch of government – is at the core of the First Amendment. Virginia v. Black, 538 U.S. 343, 123 S.Ct. 1536, 155 L.Ed.2d 535 (2003).

> Official reprisal for protected speech "offends the Constitution [because] it threatens to inhibit exercise of the protected right," Crawford-El v. Britton, 523 U.S. 574, 588, n. 10, 188 S.Ct. 1584, 140 L.Ed.2d 759 (1998), and the law is settled that as a general matter the First Amendment prohibits government officials from subjecting an individual to retaliatory actions, including criminal prosecutions, for speaking out, id., at 592, 118 S.Ct. 1584; see also Perry v. Sindermann, 408 U.S. 593, 597, 92 S.Ct. 2694, 33 L.Ed.2d 570 (1972) (noting that the government may not punish a person or deprive him of a benefit on the basis of his "constitutionally protected speech").

The Supreme Court of New Mexico used evidence of the web site, an exercise of Petitioner's First Amendment rights introduced over objection at the Hearing Committee, as a factor in aggravation to raise the punishment sanction in a professional discipline case to disbarment. Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013, ¶ 71, 177 P.3d at 529. This was constitutional error. Hartman v. Moore, 547 U.S. 250 (2006) and Crawford-El v. Britton, 523 U.S. 574 (1998). To hold, without allowing notice or hearing on the content, that the web site of Petitioner " . . . expressed disdain and contempt for the disciplinary board . . . " as a basis for disbarment is, on its face, a Hartman violation requiring review and reversal. Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013, ¶ 71, 177 P.3d at 529. If there was a prohibition by statute or rule against out-of-court expression of "disdain and contempt" for a government official, judicial or otherwise, it would be quickly set aside as unconstitutional; akin to the Alien and Sedition Acts. 1 Stat. 566, 570, 596; New York Times Co. v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254 at 274, 84 S.Ct. 710 at 723, 11 L.Ed.2d 686 (1964).

"Only those false statements made with the high degree of awareness of their probable falsity demanded by [New York Times Co. v . Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254, 84 S.Ct. 710, 11 L.Ed.2d 686 (1964)] may be the subject of either civil or criminal sanctions. . . . Truth may not be the subject of either civil or criminal sanctions where discussion of public affairs is concerned." Garrison v. Louisiana, 397 U.S. 64, 74, 85 S.Ct. 209, 13 L.Ed.2d 125 (1964). Without subjecting the content of Petitioner's web site to the criteria outlined in New York Times Co. v. Sullivan at an evidentiary hearing and using the site which expresses opinion on the New Mexico attorney disciplinary system as a factor in aggravation violates Petitioner's First Amendment rights and constitutes an issue requiring review.

II. REVIEW IS WARRANTED FOR DUE PROCESS ISSUES.

Disbarment destroys a lawyer's reputation and means of livelihood, both recognized liberty interests. "Where a person's good name, reputation, honor, or integrity is at stake because of what the government is doing to him, notice and opportunity to be heard are essential." Wisconsin v. Constantineau, 400 U.S. 433, 437, 91 S.Ct. 507, 510, 27 L.Ed.2d 515 (1971). It is firmly established that an attorney is entitled to procedural Due Process in disciplinary proceedings. In Re Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544, 88 S.Ct. 1222, 20 L.Ed.2d 117 (1968). However, what minimal process is due in attorney discipline proceedings has not been established. This determination is subject to a three-part balancing analysis:

> First, the private interest that will be affected by the official action; second, the risk of an erroneous deprivation of such interest through the procedures used, and the probable value, if any, of additional or substitute > procedural safeguards; and finally, the Government's interest, including the function involved and the fiscal and administrative burdens that the additional or substitute procedural requirement would entail.

Mathews v. Eldridge, 424 U.S. 319, 335, 96 S.Ct. 893, 903, 47 L.Ed.2d 18 (1975). Each of these factors was ignored in the New Mexico administrative process that resulted in Petitioner's disbarment in an unconstitutional violation of his Due Process rights.

Review by this Court is necessary to address procedures used in attorney discipline matters for the introduction of attorney web sites as aggravation of punishment; requirements for specificity in charging documents; discovery and level of proofs required to adequately pass Due Process muster under the First, Fifth, and Fourteenth Amendments.

A. First Amendment Hearing.

Before any admission of core political speech as an aggravating factor against an attorney who is the subject of a professional discipline proceeding, Due Process requires an evidentiary hearing with adequate notice, production of the materials sought to be introduced with a burden on disciplinary counsel to meet the criteria outlined in New York Times Co. v. Sullivan, 376 U.S. 254, 84 S.Ct. 710, 11 L.Ed.2d 686 (1964) and Garrison v. Louisiana, 397 U.S. 64, 74, 85 S.Ct. 209, 13 L.Ed.2d 125 (1964) before the materials can be introduced in evidence. This was not done. It was a Due Process violation requiring review and reversal by this Court.

B. Specificity of Charges – Violation of Court Order.

The case was based on a complaint letter to the Disciplinary Board by a state District Court judge who was assigned the guardianship and conservatorship case over Petitioner's client: the proposed ward in the case, Bruce Clinesmith. Petitioner made an appearance representing Mr. Clinesmith and his wife Ruth Clinesmith. The complaint was investigated by disciplinary counsel who prepared his entire case before filing any charges. He was able to do so under the authority and powers granted by the New Mexico Rules Governing Discipline and the compelled cooperation of lawyers under the New Mexico Rules of Professional Conduct.

A Specification of Charges was filed. Appendix BB. This charging document connected no actions, failure of actions, duties or failure of duties of Petitioner to specific violations of the New Mexico Rules of Professional Conduct. A Motion to Dismiss was filed. Appendix AA. It was denied. Appendix X. Discovery was requested. Appendix V. It was denied. Appendix S.[3] [3] The Opinion found that Petitioner " . . . received the entire disciplinary board file prior to the hearing." Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013, ¶ 57, 117 P.3d at 526. The finding is incorrect. First, the Opinion omits the fact that the materials – filling three,

Petitioner was never charged with or held in contempt of court by the judge who initiated the complaint letter or any judge involved in the matters in which Petitioner represented the Clinesmiths. Nothing in the Specification of Charges specifically claimed that Petitioner violated any court orders. Yet, it was upon a claimed violation of a court order argued by disciplinary counsel that was accepted by the Hearing Committee and the Supreme Court of New Mexico as basis for disbarment. Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013 ¶ 63, 117 P.3d at 517.[4] three-inch binders – were delivered less than two working days before the hearing began because of a subpoena Petitioner was able to get issued. However, the subpoena duces tecum, which would have also supplied testimony to identify what was supplied and if it was complete, was subsequently quashed on the first day of the hearing on a motion presented by the New Mexico Attorney General on behalf of the Disciplinary Board. Second, the finding in the Opinion that it was the entire file is in error. On the third day of hearing other materials not previously supplied were ordered by the Hearing Committee to be subsequently delivered to Petitioner. There is nothing in the record to support the statement that Petitioner was ever supplied the entire disciplinary board file.

[4] The Specification of Charges contained no quote from any court order that was claimed to be violated by Respondent. Appendix BB. The Opinion, however, twice identifies and quotes two sentences from one district court order that Petitioner allegedly violated. Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013 ¶¶ 10 and 63, 117 P.3d at 517 and 528. Specificity in writing of a violation of a portion of a court order was articulated by the Opinion only after the case was completed. Disciplinary counsel claimed that Petitioner failed to follow a court order at the hearing, but such charge was not contained in the Specification of Charges.

The theory of collateral estoppel was abandoned on the record by disciplinary counsel. Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013, ¶¶ 52, 53, 117 P.3d 513 at 525, 526. Although not identified by name, the theory of "collateral bar" was wrongfully claimed as the basis of violation of the court order by disciplinary counsel and echoed in the Opinion. Id. (In re Philip Kleinsmith, 2005-NMCA-136, ¶ 11, 238 N.M. 601, 124 P.3d 579 ("citing State v. Cherryhomes, 114 N.M. 495, 498, 840 P.2d 1261, 1264 (Ct.App. 1992))"). Both cases discuss the "collateral bar" theory. The sine qua non for use of "collateral bar" is a finding of contempt in the lower court. The Opinion, in citing Kleinsmith, correctly quotes the language but ignores the contempt requirement for "collateral bar" to apply. Id. See, Walker v. Birmingham, 388 U.S. 307, 87 S.Ct. 1824, 18 L.Ed.2d 1210 (1967). The Opinion affirms disciplinary counsel's power to administratively punish an attorney with disbarment under the collateral bar theory for violating a court order without a finding of contempt by a court.

Petitioner was never put on notice before the proceedings began that he was on trial for violation of court orders.[5] "The charge must be known before the

[5] The Chair of the Hearing Committee agreed on the record that there was no charge of violating a court order in the Specification of Charges, but lack of a written charge did not stop that ultimate finding in the Opinion and disbarment. Petitioner twice subpoenaed the complaining trial judge to testify at the hearing. She could have explained why Petitioner was not held in contempt if he violated any order she issued.

proceedings commence." In Re Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544, 551, 88 S.Ct. 1222, 1226, 20 L.Ed.2d 117 (1968). See also, Zauderer v. Office of Disciplinary Counsel, 471 U.S. 626, 654, 105 S.Ct. 626, 654, 85 L.Ed.2d 652 (1985) ("[W]hat is important is that the Board's recommendations put appellant on notice of the charges he had to answer to the satisfaction of the Supreme Court of Ohio."). The charges changed after the hearing began.

Not identifying with particularity that Petitioner was to be tried for failure to follow a court order in the Specification of Charges was a Due Process violation. Prior to trial if such a charge was leveled in the Specification of Charges and "collateral bar" identified as the theory upon which the prosecution relied, a short Motion for Summary Judgment on the issue would have been dispositive. The non-existence of any finding of contempt defeats the charge that Petitioner violated an order under any theory, including collateral bar.

C. Specificity of Charges – Fraud and Misrepresentation.

Petitioner raised in his Motion to Dismiss that the Specification of Charges did not articulate with adequate particularity what actions or failure of actions corresponded to each specifically charged violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct to place him on notice to prepare his defense, including claims of fraud and misrepresentation. Appendix AA. The Motion to Dismiss was denied. Appendix X.

The Opinion refuses to apply N.M.R.A.1-009(B) requiring specificity when alleging fraud in attorney disciplinary proceedings. Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013, ¶ 46, 117 P.3d at 524. Attorney disciplinary proceedings in other states require such specificity. See, Columbus Bar Association v. Dougherty, 99 Ohio St.3d 147, 149, 789 N.E.2d 621 (Ohio 2003); Oklahoma Bar Association v. Eakin, 914 P.2d 644, 649 (Okla. 1995) (citing federal Due Process) and In the Matter of Conroy, 1 Cal.StateBarCt.Rptr. 86 at page 5, 1990 WL 95660.

To support the conclusion that the filed Specification of Charges was adequate notice of fraud or misrepresentation for Petitioner, the Opinion cites three civil cases: Steadman v. Turner, 84 N.M. 738, 740, 507 P.2d 799, 801 (Ct.App. 1973); Romero v. Sanchez, 83 N.M. 358, 359, 492 P.2d 140, 141 (1971) and Delgado v. Costello, 91 N.M. 732, 734, 580 P.2d 500, 502 (Ct.App. 1978). Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013, ¶ 46, 117 P.3d at 524. Each cited case, however, was decided on motions to dismiss or summary judgment, were reversed and sent back to the trial court for further action. "Further action" allowed full discovery under the New Mexico Rules of Civil Procedure when it went back to District Court. No defendant in these cited civil cases needed permission to conduct discovery; it would be their right under the rules.

Under the Rules Governing Discipline, Petitioner had to request permission to conduct discovery – interrogatories, depositions, requests to produce, requests for admissions. N.M.R.A.17-311, infra at page 4, see Appendix V. Permission was denied. Appendix S. Petitioner requested permission to conduct discovery a second time. Appendix R. Permission, again, was denied. Appendix P.

Petitioner located no case holding that Due Process is satisfied to defend a fraud or misrepresentation claim, no matter how articulately described in a civil or quasi-criminal matter, when there is denial of all pre-trial discovery. The issue is an obvious and self-evident Due Process violation and ripe for review by this Court.

D. Due Process Discovery; Mathews v. Eldridge Balancing.

Respondent Disciplinary Board, through its counsel, was required to and did investigate the complaint against Petitioner prior to the filing of a Specification of Charges. N.M.R.A.17-105.B, Appendix G and N.M.R.A.17-307.A, Appendix J. In this pre-filing period disciplinary counsel obtained discovery consisting of confidential court records including pleadings, orders and transcripts.

Discipline counsel obtained help in his investigation from the judge who initially made the complaint against Petitioner and other attorneys who were involved in the matter. In addition to the court items, noted above, there was further help in the form of letters and conversations with those persons. Lawyer members of the State Bar of New Mexico are required to give "full cooperation and assistance" to discipline counsel in their duties under the Rules of Discipline. N.M.R.A.16-803.D, infra, page 3.

In a New Mexico civil setting, discovery is allowed as a matter of right, without leave of court or tribunal. N.M.R.A.1-026 et seq. Without discovery and clearly outlined violations in the Specification of Charges, Petitioner went to trial without knowing his transgressions and only finding out the case and theories of the state as the hearing continued and after it concluded.

The impact of the lack of Due Process discovery became devastatingly evident with the issuance of the disbarment opinion of the Supreme Court of New Mexico. It articulated facts, duties and obligations not pled with any particularity in the Specification of Charges or mentioned in the holdings of the Hearing Committee or Hearing Panel. Compare, e.g., Appendix A, Opinion ¶ 36, 39 with Appendix BB, Specification of Charges, Appendix C, Hearing Committee's Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law and Recommendation for Discipline, Appendix B, Decision of Hearing Panel.

Failure to have adequate Due Process notice of the actual charges, facts, duties and obligations articulated in the Opinion perhaps could have been cured with discovery, but all pre-hearing discovery was denied. Regardless, this Court has held that in attorney disciplinary proceedings, "The charge must be known before the proceedings commence." In Re Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544, 551. The wrongs upon which the Opinion rested its disbarment conclusions were not contained in the Specification of Charges.

Application of the Due Process balancing test results in a significant tilt toward a requirement of greater Due Process protections for Petitioner than was provided by New Mexico. Mathews v. Eldridge, 414 U.S. 319 at 335 (1975). An attorney's private interest in keeping his license to practice law and his reputation in the community is of first magnitude. It is not for money damages. After the devastation of disbarment, for the rest of his or her life, the name of that attorney will always be modified with the disreputable tag of "a disbarred lawyer," the professional mark of Cain.

Due Process protection from the impact of an erroneous deprivation could have been met by the allowance of adequate discovery tools available to any litigant facing a money judgment on a civil claim.

"It is the obligation of the organized bar and the individual lawyer to give unstinted cooperation and assistance to the Supreme Court . . . in purging the profession of the unworthy." Opinion, Appendix A, 2008-NMSC-013, ¶ 71, 177 P.3d at 529. Likewise, it is the state's obligation under the Due Process requirements of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to have in place adequate procedural safeguards to be sure that lawyers who are not unworthy but wrongfully charged don't have their hands tied in defending themselves from being wrongfully purged from the roll of admitted attorneys.

Allowing full discovery under the Rules of Civil Procedure would assure Due Process procedures to protect against erroneous deprivation of disbarment. Other states have seen fit to allow comprehensive discovery; some equal to the Rules of Civil Procedure, others coming quite close. See, e.g., Florida, F.S.A. Bar Rule 3-7.6(f)(2) (incorporating discovery rules in accordance with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure) Appendix F; Texas, Board of Disciplinary Appeals; Tx.R.Disc.A.Bd.Intl.P. Rule 1.03 (incorporating Texas Rules of Civil Procedure as applicable), Appendix O; and California, Rules of State Bar of Calif., State Bar Court Rules 1201 and 1202 (allowing discovery), Appendix D and E.

The fiscal and administrative burden to grant discovery to an attorney respondent in a disciplinary matter is minimal. Any attempted abuse of the discovery system is subject to motions for protective orders and sanctions well known on the civil side of New Mexico and all state and federal courts.

An alternative to a requirement of the full pallet of discovery under the Rules of Civil Procedure is putting the state and the accused attorney on equal footing to meet minimal Due Process requirements. This Court has noted that although > . . . the Due Process Clause has little to say regarding the amount of discovery which the parties must be afforded . . . it does speak to the balance of forces between the accused and his accuser . . . FN6

> > FN6. This court has therefore been particularly suspicious of state trial rules which provide nonreciprocal benefits to the State when the lack of reciprocity interferes with the defendant's ability to secure a fair trial.
> >
> But we do hold that in the absence of a strong showing of state interests to the contrary, discovery must be a two-way street.

Wardius v. Oregon, 412 U.S. 470, 474-475, 93 S.Ct. 2208, 2212, 37 L.Ed.2d 82 (1973). Although Wardius was a criminal case, there is nothing in reason or logic why the Due Process balancing in a quasi-criminal case of attorney discipline concerning discovery should not also be a constitutionally mandated two-way street. The state is the prosecutor in both.

Under the New Mexico Rules Governing Discipline, the state through its disciplinary counsel has the right to take depositions, propound interrogatories, obtain the production of documents. N.M.R.A. 17-306.A. Appendix I. Lawyers are required to cooperate with disciplinary counsel. N.M.R.A. 16-803.D, infra, page 3. Without allowing accused attorneys in a disciplinary process to have the same discovery tools as disciplinary counsel, the Due Process Clause is violated.

Attorneys charged in discipline proceedings should have at least the same discovery tools allowed to their prosecutor as a matter of Due Process under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments.

E. Clear and Convincing Evidence Is Required in Quasi-Criminal Proceedings.

In New Mexico, absent an allegation of fraud, attorney discipline matters are proved by a preponderance of the evidence. In the Matter of D'Angelo, 105 N.M. 391, 733 P.2d 360 (N.M. 1987), cert. denied, 479 U.S. 1065 (1987). The challenge in D'Angelo was limited to the question of the burden of proof. D'Angelo, 105 N.M. at 392, 733 P.2d at 361. D'Angelo claimed that the proofs did not meet the clear and convincing standard while the Disciplinary Board claimed it did meet that higher standard of proof. Id. The New Mexico Supreme Court agreed, but used the case to change the standard to a "preponderance of the evidence." Id. There was no claim in D'Angelo of lack of parallel or unequal ability of discovery between the prosecution and the accused. Wardius v. Oregon, 412 U.S. 470, 93 S.Ct. 2208, 37 L.Ed.2d 82 (1973). Nor was there a claim in D'Angelo that ethical charges faced in the case were changed after the hearing began. In Re Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544, 88 S.Ct. 1222, 20 L.Ed.2d 117 (1968).

This Court has recognized that an attorney disciplinary hearing is a quasi-criminal proceeding for which Due Process protections are required. In Re

Ruffalo, 390 U.S. 544, 551, 88 S.Ct. 1222, 1226, 20 L.Ed.2d 117 (1968). Concerning the nexus between the Due Process Clause and the required standards of proof, this Court has written:

> The function of a standard of proof, as that concept is embodied in the Due Process Clause and in the realm of fact finding, is to "instruct the fact-finder concerning the degree of confidence our society thinks he should have in the correctness of factual conclusions for a particular type of adjudication."

Addington v. Texas, 441 U.S. 418, 423, 99 S.Ct. 1804, 1808, 60 L.Ed.2d 323 (1979), citing In re Winship, 397 U.S. 358, 370, 90 S.Ct. 1068, 1076, 25 L.Ed.2d 368 (1970) (Harlan, J., concurring.).

"Quasi-criminal" is a description of the nature of the case before the tribunal. This Court has determined that the burden of proof for quasi-criminal matters is the intermediate evidentiary standard, sometimes called "clear and convincing" evidence. Addington, 418 U.S. at 424, 99 S.Ct. at 1808, 60 L.Ed.2d 323 (1979).

> One typical use of the standard is in civil cases involving allegations of fraud or some other quasi-criminal wrongdoing by the defendant. The interests at stake in those cases are deemed to be more substantial than mere loss of money and some jurisdictions accordingly reduce the risk to the defendant of having his reputation tarnished > erroneously by increasing the plaintiff's burden of proof.

Id., emphasis supplied.

Review by this Court is necessary to make clear that attorney discipline proceedings are quasi-criminal in nature and, as such, the Due Process Clause requires that the burden of proof required for violation of ethical rules must be the intermediate standard of proof. That burden would be in between the criminal standard of "beyond a reasonable doubt" and the typical civil standard of "preponderance of the evidence," be it called "clear and convincing" or some other term.

CONCLUSION

For all the foregoing reasons, Petitioner respectfully requests that the Supreme Court grant review of this matter.

Respectfully submitted,

Supreme Court of New Mexico.
In the MATTER of Stuart L. STEIN, Esquire.
An Attorney Licensed to Practice Before the Courts of the State of New Mexico, No. 02-2006-505.
No. 17,349.

Feb. 20, 2008.

Joel L. Widman, Disciplinary Counsel, Albuquerque, NM, for Petitioner.

The Stuart Law Firm, Stuart L. Stein, Albuquerque, NM, for Respondent.

PER CURIAM.

{1} This matter came before the Court to consider whether attorney Stuart L. Stein (Respondent) should be disbarred for violating the Rules of Professional Conduct through his actions associated with his representation of Bruce Clinesmith and his wife, Ruth Clinesmith. For the reasons that follow, we adopt the findings and conclusions of the hearing committee and adopt the recommendation of the disciplinary board to disbar Respondent from the practice of law.

I. BACKGROUND

{2} These disciplinary proceedings commenced with a letter sent by the Honorable Linda M. Vanzi of the Second Judicial District Court, setting forth a complaint regarding Respondent's conduct in a proceeding seeking the appointment of a guardian and conservator for Bruce Clinesmith. The petition for appointment of a guardian and conservator was filed by Bruce's daughter, Cathe Temmerman, because of concerns about her father's emotional and financial well-being.

{3} Respondent appeared on behalf of Bruce and Ruth, and other members of Ruth's family who purported to have an interest in the matter. Respondent filed an answer to the petition requesting that Ruth be appointed as guardian for Bruce, if in fact the court determined a guardian should be appointed. The answer further alleged the existence of a durable power of attorney executed by Bruce in favor of his wife and stated that the court should not disregard Bruce's clear intent, presumably as evidenced by the power of attorney. Upon the filing of the petition, the court appointed Richard Reidy as guardian ad litem for Bruce.

{4} At the time of the filing of the petition in the guardianship case, there were two trusts in existence that were created by Bruce. One was a 1997 revocable trust (the 1997 trust), which provided for the income and principal to be paid to Bruce as needed, with the remainder payable upon his death to the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago (Moody Bible). The corpus of this trust was $6,275,000.00. The second was a 1999 revocable trust (the 1999 trust), the income and principal of which were to be paid to Bruce. Upon his death, the remainder was to be held in trust for his wife. Upon Ruth's death, the remainder was to be paid to Moody Bible. The corpus of this trust was $4,800,000.00.

{5} On the same date that Respondent filed his answer to the guardianship and conservatorship petition, Respondent wrote to the trustee, demanding that the income and corpus of the 1997 Trust and the 1999 Trust be paid to Ruth, individually. When the trustee refused the request, Respondent filed two lawsuits in the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico, which the hearing committee found would affect the manner in which Bruce's estate would be managed, expended, and distributed. Respondent took these actions notwithstanding his knowledge of the pendency of the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding and without notice to Bruce's guardian ad litem.

{6} Respondent, as Bruce's and Ruth's attorney, filed the first federal lawsuit to void the trusts created by Bruce in favor of Moody Bible, and to have the funds declared community property. The Moody Bible lawsuit was filed on Ruth's behalf, individually, and purportedly on Bruce's behalf, "by Ruth M. Cline-smith, his attorney-in-fact," pursuant to the durable power of attorney.

{7} Respondent filed the second federal lawsuit against Citigroup Global Markets, Inc., on behalf of Ruth in her individual capacity, alleging the existence of a joint account in the names of Bruce and Ruth that was restricted by Citigroup without authority. Citigroup had placed a freeze on the account because of its concerns that Bruce's mental health had deteriorated and because of its uncertainty that he fully comprehended his actions. In the Citigroup lawsuit, Ruth sought damages, or in the alternative, full access to the account. However, once again, Respondent did not notify Bruce's guardian ad litem of the filing of this lawsuit.

{8} Significantly, neither lawsuit named Bruce as a plaintiff individually. Also, the two complaints filed by Respondent acknowledge Bruce's potential incapacity. The complaint prepared and filed by Respondent in the Moody Bible lawsuit alleges that in August 2004, when Bruce and Ruth relocated to Albuquerque, Bruce was suffering from "early signs of dementia, be it Alzheimer's Disease or some other dementia diagnosis." In the Citigroup complaint, Respondent states "[t]hat there is a current question about the competence of Bruce C. Clinesmith."

{9} Although the Citigroup complaint requested Ruth's full access to the account as co-tenant with Bruce, Respondent negotiated a settlement which transferred the account to another broker, exclusively under Ruth's name, thus effectively precluding Bruce from accessing the account. During the negotiations Respondent produced a copy of the power of attorney executed by Bruce in his wife's favor. The settlement was confirmed in letters sent by Respondent to Citigroup's associate general counsel. This conduct by Respondent resulted in the removal of assets in excess of $250,000.00 from the state district court's jurisdiction in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding without notice to, or leave of, that court.

{10} During a subsequent hearing Judge Vanzi considered a motion to disqualify Respondent from representing Bruce because of a conflict between his interests and those of Ruth. Of note, during the hearing, was Respondent's statement that "I agree that [Bruce] is incapacitated to the extent that he may need a guardian or conservator." Thereafter, the court disqualified Respondent from representing Bruce, revoked the power of attorney previously granted to Ruth by Bruce, and appointed Decades LLC temporary guardian and conservator of Bruce. The court set forth the following rationale for disqualifying Respondent from representing Bruce.

> The interests of Bruce C. Clinesmith and Ruth M. Clinesmith are adverse to each other in this proceeding and in the federal proceedings currently pending. Representing both individuals in these proceedings constitutes an impermissible conflict of interest and neither Stuart L. Stein, Esq. or The Stein Law Firm can continue to represent the interests of Bruce C. Clinesmith.

The court also ordered the court clerk to "issue letters of full temporary guardianship and temporary conservatorship to Decades LLC upon accepting its duties hereunder" and "in connection with its duties as temporary guardian and temporary conservator, Decades LLC shall consult with the Guardian Ad Litem and promptly retain counsel to represent Mr. Clinesmith's interests in the federal proceedings. . . . " Pursuant to this order, the attorney for Decades LLC sent a letter to Respondent advising him that Decades LLC, in its capacity as Bruce's temporary guardian and conservator, considered Respondent's representation of Bruce to be terminated effective July 18, 2005, and stated that the termination applied to all matters, including the guardianship and conservatorship case, the Moody Bible lawsuit, and the Citigroup lawsuit.

{11} Respondent never advised the federal court in which the Moody Bible lawsuit was pending that he had been disqualified from representing Bruce, that the power of attorney had been revoked, or that a temporary guardian and conservator had been appointed for Bruce. Respondent continued to represent Bruce in the Moody Bible lawsuit after he was disqualified from doing so, by remaining attorney of record and filing a motion to vacate a scheduling order. In addition, at no time did Respondent advise Citigroup, to whom he negotiated a transfer of funds from Bruce to Ruth, that the power of attorney he previously produced had been revoked.

{12} After being ordered to discontinue his representation of Bruce, Respondent went to the dementia unit of the Woodmark, a residential care facility in which Bruce was a patient, and had Bruce removed from the dementia unit and taken to a private room to execute a new will and trust which Respondent had prepared for Bruce's signature. The new will and trust sought to revoke the Moody Bible trusts and create a new trust with Ruth as trustee with all the power "that an absolute owner of such property would have." These documents had the additional effect of removing all of the assets belonging to Bruce from the jurisdiction of the court in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding. Respondent did not notify the court, the guardian ad litem, or the temporary guardian and conservator of his intended visit with Bruce, or of his efforts to have Bruce sign a new will and trust.

{13} Upon learning of the meeting and execution of the will and trust, Decades LLC filed a motion asking for an emergency hearing and seeking an order prohibiting Respondent from interfering with its duties as temporary guardian and conservator and preventing Respondent from having any contact with Bruce. The court held a hearing on the motion and Respondent admitted going to the Woodmark without notifying Decades LLC. Remarkably, he told the court that he "didn't have to" because it was not explicitly stated in the order. Respondent also admitted that he did not notify the guardian ad litem. When asked if it was his practice to approach incapacitated persons without notifying the court-appointed guardian/conservator or any other person caring for the individual, Respondent stated, "[i]n this case this is what I did and I feel that it is fine. It is ethical, and not in contravention of your order. . . ." Thereafter, the court entered an order enjoining Respondent from having any contact with Bruce and voiding the will and trust executed by Bruce. The order states specifically that "Stuart L. Stein, Esq., The Stein Law Firm, and all members or staff of the Stein Law Firm are hereby enjoined from having contact with Bruce C. Clinesmith in any way, shape or form. . . ."

{14} Shortly thereafter, the court disqualified Respondent from any continued representation of Ruth. The court found that "Mrs. Clinesmith's interests, and those of her family, are materially adverse to the interests of Mr. Stein's former client, Bruce Clinesmith" and that "[i]nformation relating to the representation of Mr. Clinesmith by Mr. Stein is being used to Mr. Clinesmith's disadvantage and to the advantage of Mrs. Clinesmith." Despite being disqualified from representing Ruth in state court, Respondent never advised the federal court in which the Moody Bible lawsuit was pending of his disqualification. In fact, Respondent continued to represent Ruth by filing a motion to vacate an initial scheduling order both on her behalf and on behalf of Bruce under Ruth's durable power of attorney. The federal court, however, disqualified Respondent from representing any party in the Moody Bible lawsuit for the same reasons he was disqualified by Judge Vanzi in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding.

{15} By reason of the foregoing conduct, a specification of charges was filed by deputy disciplinary counsel pursuant to Rule 17-105(B)(3)(d) NMRA. The specification of charges detailed the conduct summarized above and alleged that such conduct violated many of the Rules of Professional Conduct. See Rules 16-107(A) and (B), 16-109(A), 16-804(C), (D), and (H), 16-102(D), and 16-402 NMRA.

{16} Respondent's conduct in both the Moody Bible and the Citigroup lawsuits resulted in the hearing committee, after a full hearing, to conclude that Respondent had violated the following Rules of Professional Conduct: (1) Rule 16-107(A) by representing Ruth, whose interests were adverse to those of another client (Bruce); (2) Rule 16-107(B), in that Respondent represented a client (Bruce) where the representation of that client was materially limited by his representation of another client (Ruth); and (3) Rule 16-109(A) by his conduct in the Moody Bible lawsuit, in that Respondent represented a client (Ruth) in the same or a substantially related matter in which that person's interests were materially adverse to those of a former client (Bruce) and without the consent of the former client.

{17} Based upon Respondent's conduct in the Moody Bible lawsuit, the Citigroup lawsuit, and his actions at the Woodmark, the hearing committee found violations of Rule 16-804(C), in that Respondent engaged in conduct involving misrepresentation by neglecting to notify the courts and interested parties of the pending litigations, of the occurrences in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding, and of his visit to Bruce and execution of a new will and trust. The hearing committee also found that Respondent's conduct in the aggregate violated Rule 16-804(D), in that he engaged in conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice, and Rule 16-804(H), in that he engaged in conduct adversely reflecting on his fitness to practice law. Because of Respondent's conduct in the Moody Bible lawsuit, the hearing committee also found that Respondent violated Rule 16-102(D) by assisting his client Ruth to engage in conduct he knew was misleading to the federal court.

{18} Finally, the hearing committee found that by Respondent's actions in relation to the Woodmark visit, he violated Rule 16-402, by communicating directly with Bruce about executing a new will and trust without the consent of Bruce's newly-appointed lawyer.

{19} The hearing committee recommended that Respondent be suspended from the practice of law for a period of six months with automatic reinstatement and that he pay costs. The findings and conclusions of the hearing committee were forwarded to the disciplinary board hearing panel for review. See Rule 17-314(A) NMRA (stating that the chair of the disciplinary board shall appoint a hearing panel upon receipt of the hearing committee's findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations). In its order and decision, the hearing panel accepted and adopted the committee's findings and conclusions. The hearing panel found that Respondent "basically agreed with each Finding of Fact of the Hearing Committee with his limited objections being either stylistic or immaterial to the conclusions." However, the panel rejected the hearing committee's recommended discipline, and instead recommended to this Court that Respondent be disbarred from the practice of law for no less than five years and that he pay costs.

II. DISCUSSION

[20] Respondent argues that there was a "complete failure of proof at the hearing committee level to prove any of the charges in the Specification of Charges." He specifically argues that there was no proof of any conflict of interest or misrepresentations created by representing both Bruce and Ruth in the guardianship and conservatorship case before Judge Vanzi and by his actions in the two federal cases. For the reasons that follow, we hold that there is substantial evidence to support the hearing committee's findings, and that those findings support the committee's conclusions that Respondent violated the conflict of interest and misrepresentation provisions of the Rules of Professional Conduct. We also hold that there is substantial evidence to support the committee's remaining findings, and that those findings support the remaining conclusions.

A. Standard of Review

[21] The findings of the hearing committee are reviewed for substantial evidence and the conclusions of law are reviewed de novo. See In re Bristol, 2006-NMSC-041, ¶¶ 16-18, 140 N.M. 317, 142 P.3d 905 (per curiam); In re Estrada, 2006-NMSC-047, ¶ 7, 140 N.M. 492, 143 P.3d 731 (per curiam). Both the hearing panel and this Court look to see whether substantial evidence exists to support the hearing committee's decision. See In re Bristol, 2006-NMSC-041, ¶ 16, 140 N.M. 317, 142 P.3d 905.

B. Conflict of Interest

{22} Under the New Mexico Rules of Professional Conduct, an attorney "should not represent a client whose interests are adverse to those of a present client, or whose interests are adverse to those of a former client on a matter that is the same or substantially related to the previous matter." United States v. Gallegos, 39 F.3d 276, 279 (10th Cir.1994) (summarizing New Mexico's disciplinary rules regarding conflict of interest); accord Rule 16-107(A) and (B). An objective standard is used when determining whether the lawyer reasonably could believe that the representation of a client with interests adverse to those of another client would not adversely affect the lawyer's relationship with the other client. See In re Houston, 1999-NMSC-032, ¶ 12, 127 N.M. 582, 985 P.2d 752. As such, Respondent's subjective belief that no conflicts existed is irrelevant. Viewed objectively, the facts speak for themselves.

{23} Respondent purported to represent Bruce and Ruth in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding before Judge Vanzi, yet filed two lawsuits in federal court seeking to drastically alter Bruce's estate in favor of Ruth. In the Moody Bible lawsuit, Respondent was representing Ruth individually, and purportedly Bruce, "by Ruth Clinesmith, his attorney-in-fact." Respondent was seeking to void the trusts created by Bruce and to have the corpus of the trusts declared community property. Ruth's interest in gaining control of the trusts was obviously adverse to Bruce's interest in keeping the trusts as he prepared them. With the filing and settlement of the Citigroup suit, Respondent was representing Ruth, individually, whose interests were adverse to Bruce's, violating Rule 16-107(A). Although the Citigroup complaint filed by Respondent requested Ruth's full access to the account as Bruce's co-tenant, Respondent negotiated the removal of the assets from Bruce and Ruth's joint account and the placement of those assets in an individual account in Ruth's name only. Ruth's interests were clearly adverse to Bruce's interests and Respondent was representing both of them, an obvious violation of Rule 16-107(A).

{24} Additionally, Respondent's representation of Bruce was materially limited by his representation of Ruth, a violation of Rule 16-107(B). We have no difficulty seeing how representing Ruth limited Respondent's ability to represent Bruce. Ruth clearly had an adverse interest in the outcome of the guardian and conservatorship proceeding and the federal suits, as each would affect her ability to control Bruce's finances. We agree with the hearing committee that Respondent should have seen the adverse implications of dual representation in this situation.

{25} Furthermore, the complaint prepared and filed by Respondent in the Moody Bible lawsuit alleges that in August 2004, when Bruce and Ruth relocated to Albuquerque, Bruce was suffering from "early signs of dementia, be it Alzheimer's Disease or some other dementia diagnosis." Additionally, Respondent acknowledged in the complaint he filed in the Citigroup case that Bruce's competence was questionable. Accordingly, the court had appointed a guardian ad litem for Bruce before Respondent filed these lawsuits. Later, the court found that good cause existed to appoint a temporary guardian and conservator for Bruce and appointed Decades LLC in that capacity. What is so reprehensible to this Court is that Respondent, acknowledging that Bruce's mental capacity was in question, attempted to take money from him and transfer it to Ruth, while purporting to represent both of them. Certainly, Respondent's ability to represent Bruce was compromised.

{26} Respondent argued before the hearing committee that any potential conflict was waived by both Bruce and Ruth and that Bruce was competent. However, as noted above, whether the lawyer reasonably could believe that the representation would not adversely affect the lawyer's relationship with the other client is determined by an objective standard. See In re Houston, 1999-NMSC-032, ¶ 12, 127 N.M. 582, 985 P.2d 752. Applying the objective standard in Houston, we conclude that it was not reasonable for Respondent to believe these conflicts could be waived. As this Court said, "reasonable" means "the conduct of a reasonably prudent and competent lawyer." In re Houston, 1999-NMSC-032, ¶ 12, 127 N.M. 582, 985 P.2d 752. Simply put, a reasonably prudent lawyer would not have acted as Respondent did.

{27} Through his actions in the Moody Bible lawsuit and the state court guardianship proceedings, Respondent also violated Rule 16-109(A), which provides "that [a] lawyer who has formerly represented a client in a matter shall not thereafter represent another person in the same or a substantially related matter in which that person's interests are materially adverse to the interests of the former client unless the former client consents after consultation." As noted in the federal order disqualifying Respondent from representing any party and from participating in any manner in the Moody Bible lawsuit, Bruce had an attorney-client relationship with Respondent, the Moody Bible lawsuit involved a matter substantially related to Respondent's prior representation of Bruce in the state court proceeding, and Ruth's interests were materially adverse to Bruce's interests. As such, Respondent engaged in an obvious violation of Rule 16-109(A) by representing a person (Ruth) in the same or a substantially related matter in which that person's interests were materially adverse to those of a former client (Bruce) and without the consent of the former client.

{28} Although the hearing committee did not specifically conclude that Respondent's actions in having Bruce execute a new will and trust in Ruth's favor constituted a violation of the conflict of interest provisions of the Rules, we exercise our independent authority to so conclude. See Bristol, 2006-NMSC-041, ¶ 18, 140 N.M. 317, 142 P.3d 905 (recognizing de novo review of hearing committee's conclusions of law). Respondent was disqualified from representing Bruce when he went to the Woodmark. If he was purporting to represent Ruth, as he claimed he was when Judge Vanzi was considering whether to revoke the new will and trust, then this is another obvious instance where Respondent was in violation of Rule 16-109(A).

C. Misrepresentation and Misleading the Court

{29} Respondent also argues there was not substantial evidence to prove that he engaged in misrepresentations during the course of his attempts to represent Bruce and Ruth in the various state and federal court proceedings. Rule 16-804(C) states, "It is professional misconduct for a lawyer to engage in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation." The hearing committee found that due to Respondent's actions in the Moody Bible lawsuit, the Citigroup lawsuit, and the Woodmark visit, Respondent violated Rule 16-804(C) by engaging in conduct involving misrepresentation. There is ample proof for this conclusion.

{30} The history of this case begins with a guardianship and conservatorship proceeding before Judge Vanzi. NMSA 1978, Section 45-5-402 (1975) grants exclusive jurisdiction to the court in which a petition for guardianship or conservatorship is filed "to determine how the estate of the protected person which is subject to the laws of New Mexico shall be managed, expended or distributed to or for the use of the protected person or any of his dependents." Aware of the guardianship proceeding and the appointment of a temporary guardian for Bruce, Respondent filed two lawsuits in federal court, in effect seeking to remove those assets from the jurisdiction of the state district court. He did so without notifying Judge Vanzi, Richard Reidy, Bruce's guardian ad litem, or the petitioner in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding.

{31} In addition, Respondent never notified the federal courts of the pending guardianship and conservatorship proceeding. Indeed, when Judge Vanzi appointed Decades LLC as Bruce's temporary guardian and conservator, Respondent never notified the federal courts of such appointment. In fact, when Respondent was disqualified from representing Bruce, and later Ruth, he never notified the federal courts. When Judge Vanzi revoked Ruth's power of attorney, Respondent never notified Citigroup, with whom he negotiated a settlement in the case, that the power of attorney he relied on to negotiate the settlement had been revoked.

{32} The hearing committee also concluded that Respondent engaged in conduct constituting misrepresentation when he visited the Woodmark. The testimony by deputy disciplinary counsel's witnesses is not contradicted by Respondent's testimony or by that of his witnesses. After having been disqualified from representing Bruce, after Decades LLC had been appointed Bruce's temporary guardian and conservator, and notwithstanding his own recognition of Bruce's incapacity, Respondent nevertheless induced Bruce to execute a new will and trust. The new will and trust would have removed all of Bruce's assets from the jurisdiction of the state court and would have made Ruth trustee with all the power "that an absolute owner of such property would have." Respondent managed to have Bruce sign new legal documents without notifying Richard Reidy, the guardian ad litem, or Decades LLC, the temporary guardian and conservator. Nor did Respondent obtain leave of the court to visit Bruce. Taken together, all of these actions support the hearing committee's conclusion that Respondent's conduct associated with the Woodmark visit amounted to misrepresentation in violation of Rule 16-804(C).

{33} Additionally, by reason of Respondent's conduct in the Moody Bible lawsuit, we find that Respondent violated Rule 16-102(D), which states, "A lawyer shall not engage, or counsel a client to engage, or assist a client, in conduct that the lawyer knows is criminal or fraudulent or which misleads the court. . . . " Respondent did not notify the federal court handling the Moody Bible lawsuit when he was disqualified from representing Bruce or when he was subsequently disqualified from representing Ruth. By continuing with the Moody Bible lawsuit, Respondent assisted Ruth in engaging in conduct he knew to be misleading to the federal court. His motion to vacate an initial scheduling order on behalf of Bruce and Ruth is evidence of his continuing actions taken to mislead the federal court.

{34} Throughout these proceedings, Respondent has suggested he did not misrepresent his authority to represent Bruce or Ruth because he never expressly discussed the actions the state and federal courts had taken to disqualify him. For example, the hearing committee asked Respondent questions regarding the power of attorney that Respondent had sent to the attorney for Smith Barney in settlement of the Citigroup suit. This power of attorney was revoked by Judge Vanzi and Respondent never notified either Smith Barney or Citigroup that the power of attorney had been revoked. When asked about the circumstances surrounding this situation, Respondent said, "I didn't mislead him in saying that the power of attorney is in current force and effect." Respondent also said, "He didn't ask me if it was still in full force and effect. If you don't ask the right question, I won't give you the right answer." Statements like this reveal Respondent's disturbingly skewed perception of what it means to be truthful.

{35} "Lawyers are officers of the court and are always under an obligation to be truthful to the court." Woodson v. Phillips Petroleum Co., 102 N.M. 333, 339, 695 P.2d 483, 489 (1985). "'Candor and honesty are a lawyer's stock and trade. Truth is not a matter of convenience. Sometimes lawyers may find it inconvenient, embarrassing, or even painful to tell the truth.'" In re Mikus, 2006-NMSC-012, ¶ 9, 139 N.M. 266, 131 P.3d 653 (per curiam) (quoting In re Scavone, 106 N.J. 542, 524 A.2d 813, 820 (1987)). As we have previously recognized, misrepresentation can be by either commission or omission. Id.

{36} Respondent had a duty to inform the court and interested parties in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding of the filing of the federal lawsuits, but he did not. Respondent also had a duty to inform those parties of his visit to the Woodmark, a visit he should not have made in the first place, but he did not. Respondent had a duty to disclose to the federal court in the Moody Bible lawsuit what had transpired regarding the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding, particularly his disqualification, but he did not. Respondent had a duty to inform Citigroup and the federal court handling the case that the power of attorney had been revoked, but he did not. In short, Respondent did a serious disservice to his clients and the courts by withholding such necessary information. We accordingly conclude that Respondent's silence and continued course of conduct within the various proceedings under these circumstances rises to the level of misrepresentation.

{37} Based upon the aggregate of Respondent's conduct, the hearing committee also concluded that Respondent engaged in conduct that was prejudicial to the administration of justice, violating Rule 16-804(D), and engaged in conduct adversely reflecting on his fitness to practice law, violating Rule 16-804(H). This Court has concluded that similar conduct violates Rule 16-804(D) and (H) in other disciplinary cases. See, e.g., In re Archuleta, 122 N.M. 52, 54-55, 920 P.2d 517, 519-20 (1996) (per curiam) (recognizing that attorney's intentional failure to report to the bankruptcy court fees he received amounted to violation of rules of professional conduct prohibiting conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice); In re C'de Baca, 109 N.M. 151, 152, 782 P.2d 1348, 1349 (1989) (per curiam) (noting that use of knowledge of former client's assets to request loans for ventures in gold ore processing and a private pay-phone company and conduct involving dishonesty or misrepresentation in dealings with client was conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice and conduct adversely reflecting on fitness to practice law).

{38} We therefore uphold the hearing committee's conclusions that the aggregate of Respondent's conduct was prejudicial to the administration of justice and reflected adversely on Respondent's fitness to practice law in violation of Rule 16-804(D) and (H).

D. Communication with Person Represented by Counsel

{39} In addition, we hold that Respondent's actions in relation to the Woodmark visit constitute a violation of Rule 16-402, which provides that "[i]n representing a client, a lawyer shall not communicate about the subject of the representation with a party the lawyer knows to be represented by another lawyer in the matter, unless the lawyer has the consent of the other lawyer or is authorized by law to do so." Respondent's actions in going to the Woodmark, speaking with Bruce about executing a new will and trust, and, in fact, getting him to execute the new will and trust without notifying Bruce's guardian and conservator, is inexcusable. Whether Respondent purported to represent Bruce or Ruth at this time is of no consequence. The subject matter of the visit was Bruce's finances, and when executing a new will and trust, the legal representatives appointed by the court or hired by Decades LLC should have been present. Respondent did not obtain consent from Decades LLC to take these actions and he had no alternate legal authorization to do so. Accordingly, we agree with the hearing committee's conclusion that Respondent's conduct in this regard also violated Rule 16-402.

E. Respondent's Procedural Challenges

{40} Respondent has argued throughout these proceedings that the disciplinary board disregarded the New Mexico Rules Governing Discipline, engaged in prosecutorial misconduct, and violated his due process rights. Respondent argues that those purported procedural violations warrant a dismissal of the charges against him. The Court concludes that Respondent's arguments have no merit and that he has failed to show any prejudice as a result of these alleged procedural violations.

{41} First, Respondent alleges that the board did not follow Rule 17-307(C) NMRA, which requires that the Respondent be advised of the "general nature of the allegations" and be given "a fair opportunity to present any matter of fact or mitigation the respondent-attorney wants disciplinary counsel to consider." Deputy disciplinary counsel sent Respondent a copy of the complaint filed by Judge Vanzi and requested a response.

{42} Respondent's interpretation of Rule 17-307(C) would require that deputy disciplinary counsel "articulate all acts considered to be violations of every Rule of Professional Conduct for which they intend to incorporate in a formal specification of charges. . . . " However, the Rule states that "the respondent-attorney shall always be advised of the general nature of the allegations." Rule 17-307(C) (emphasis added). Judge Vanzi's letter gave detailed information regarding the general nature of the allegations so as to put Respondent on notice as to the charges against him. Rule 17-307(C) does not require more.

{43} Respondent alleges that deputy disciplinary counsel did not write a summary report or include any opposing positions as required by Rule 17-307(D) before referring the case to a reviewing officer. Respondent also argues that by this violation, deputy disciplinary counsel violated his confidentiality rights under Rule 17-304 NMRA. Additionally, Respondent argues that because there was never an intention by deputy disciplinary counsel to resolve the matter with a dismissal or informal admonition under Rule 17-104(B) NMRA, it was a violation of Rule 17-307(D) for deputy disciplinary counsel to seek review by a reviewing officer. However, deputy disciplinary counsel explains that the case was referred to Norman S. Thayer because of his expertise in the area, and he was requested to give an advisory opinion on conflict of interest questions. As such, deputy disciplinary counsel did not use Mr. Thayer as a reviewing officer for the purpose of approving or disapproving dismissals of complaints for formal investigation and offers of informal admonitions, making Rule 17-104(B) inapplicable.

{44} Moreover, pursuant to Rule 17-307(A), deputy disciplinary counsel was authorized, as part of the initial investigation, to refer this matter "to an appropriate assistant counsel or commissioned investigator for report and recommendations." Mr. Thayer is, therefore, more properly viewed as a "commissioned investigator" or "assistant counsel" under Rule 17-307(A). Thus, the referral did not violate Respondent's confidentiality rights because this is an action deputy disciplinary counsel is authorized to take pursuant to Rule 17-307. Moreover, the referral to a commissioned investigator or assistant counsel was of potential benefit to Respondent because deputy disciplinary counsel was, in essence, getting a second opinion as to whether certain matters were appropriate to pursue. Given that the referral was authorized by the rules and could have benefitted Respondent, we perceive no procedural violation or prejudice as a result of deputy disciplinary counsel's decision to refer the case for advice as a part of his investigation of the matter. See In re Castellano, 119 N.M. 140, 144, 889 P.2d 175, 179 (1995) (per curiam) (holding that an assertion of prejudice is not a showing of prejudice).

{45} Next, Respondent argues that the disciplinary board failed to follow Rule 17-307(E), requiring that chief disciplinary counsel approve charges prior to filing. Although deputy disciplinary counsel acknowledges that there was no written documentation of approval, there was evidence that chief disciplinary counsel did, in fact, approve the charges. Also, as deputy disciplinary counsel correctly points out, there is no requirement in Rule 17-307(E) that the approval be in writing. See Rule 17-307(E) (stating that deputy disciplinary counsel shall present a draft of the proposed specification of charges to chief disciplinary counsel prior to filing, and chief disciplinary counsel shall approve the filing of the charges or recommend an alternate course of action). We therefore find no error on this point.

{46} Next, Respondent argues that fraud was not pleaded with particularity in the specification of charges as required by Rule 1-009(B) NMRA, which states, "In all averments of fraud or mistake, the circumstances constituting fraud or mistake shall be stated with particularity." Respondent's argument is that this rule applies to pleadings in disciplinary cases and that it was not followed. See Rule 17-301(B) NMRA (stating that the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts of New Mexico apply to disciplinary proceedings, except where clearly inapplicable). Without deciding whether Rule 1-009(B) applies to disciplinary cases in New Mexico involving allegations of fraud or misrepresentation, we simply note that deputy disciplinary counsel met the standard in this case by particularizing the instances of misrepresentation sufficiently in the specification of charges so as to leave no doubt in Respondent's mind as to the charges asserted against him. See Steadman v. Turner, 84 N.M. 738, 740, 507 P.2d 799, 801 (Ct.App.1973) (noting that in pleading a claim of fraud, the evidentiary details of the claim need not be alleged); Romero v. Sanchez, 83 N.M. 358, 359, 492 P.2d 140, 141 (1971) (concluding that in the aggregate, the allegations alleged with sufficient particularity a fraudulent plan, scheme, or design). See Delgado v. Costello, 91 N.M. 732, 734, 580 P.2d 500, 502 (Ct.App.1978) (recognizing that even if the word fraud is not used in the pleadings, the allegations should leave no doubt in the defendants' minds as to the fraud claims asserted against them). In conclusion, the specification of charges filed by deputy disciplinary counsel met the pleading requirements of Rule 1-009(B), because the particular factual allegations were alleged in detail and the rules were stated with specificity so as to leave no doubt as to the charges against Respondent.

{47} Respondent also argues that the disciplinary board engaged in prosecutorial misconduct during these proceedings. First, Respondent argues that the failure of chief disciplinary counsel to review any proposed formal specification of charges before filing by deputy disciplinary counsel constitutes prosecutorial misconduct. As addressed above, chief disciplinary counsel did ultimately approve the charges and there is no requirement that the approval be in writing.

{48} Secondly, he argues that deputy disciplinary counsel gave false statements in two instances. The first instance involves the sequestered file in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding before Judge Vanzi, and whether the materials from the file could be used in Respondent's disciplinary proceeding. Respondent filed a motion in limine stating that materials from a sequestered file could not be used outside the proceeding. Deputy disciplinary counsel stated to the hearing committee that Judge Vanzi's complaint letter was accompanied with materials from the sequestered case, and therefore it could be used in the disciplinary case. The hearing committee denied Respondent's motion.

{49} However, Respondent found a letter to deputy disciplinary counsel from Judge Vanzi specifically informing deputy disciplinary counsel that he could not use the materials from the sequestered file and that they had to be kept confidential. Armed with this letter, Respondent filed a motion for rehearing, and the hearing committee reversed its ruling, stating that no documents from the sequestered file would be "entered into evidence unless and until there's an order from Judge Vanzi releasing specific documents and setting forth the conditions under which they may be admitted in this proceeding and to be used in this proceeding." Respondent argues that deputy disciplinary counsel's statements were intentional misrepresentations to the hearing committee and constitute prosecutorial misconduct.

{50} The hearing committee admonished deputy disciplinary counsel for not disclosing the letter. Deputy disciplinary counsel stated to the hearing committee, "There's no question I received the letter. It was just not something that was on my radar screen at the time, and that's all I can say about the letter." Deputy disciplinary counsel said further, "there was no intent on my part to mislead the hearing committee." Respondent asked that the hearing committee dismiss his case for prosecutorial misconduct and the committee denied this motion. In denying Respondent's motion, the chair of the hearing committee stated:

> Mr. Stein, I have made my displeasure with the way Mr. Widman handled and addressed the confidentiality issue very clear already in this case. I don't think it was handled properly. I think it could have been handled much more professionally and expeditiously, but it was not. Nonetheless, I do not believe that there is any ground to dismiss for prosecutorial misconduct.

The other committee members concurred.

{51} A deferential standard of review is used by this Court to review the hearing committee's findings of fact. See In re Bristol, 2006-NMSC-041, ¶ 15-17, 140 N.M. 317, 142 P.3d 905. As this Court stated:

> [T]he hearing committee is the only entity designated to take evidence during the course of a formal disciplinary proceeding. See Rule 17-314(C); see also Rule 17-313. Because the hearing committee directly observes witness testimony, it is in the best position to weigh the evidence, resolve matters of credibility, and choose between the conflicting inferences that may be drawn from the evidence.

Id. ¶ 15. As such, the evidence must be viewed in the light most favorable to the hearing committee's implicit decision that deputy disciplinary counsel did not intentionally mislead the committee regarding confidentiality of the documents from Judge Vanzi.

sought must have had a full and fair opportunity to litigate the issue in the prior actions. See Deflon v. Sawyers, 2006-NMSC-025, ¶ 14, 139 N.M. 637, 137 P.3d 577.

{53} Deputy disciplinary counsel responded below that collateral estoppel was not being used against Respondent. Instead, deputy disciplinary counsel argued that Respondent was barred from collaterally attacking the orders he was charged with violating. Deputy disciplinary counsel pointed out that Respondent has continually attempted to collaterally attack Judge Vanzi's orders by showing that he did not have a fair hearing on the issues that were the subject of the orders. As deputy disciplinary counsel stated in his brief to the hearing panel, "[a] party who disobeys an order may not collaterally attack the validity of the underlying order in the course of an appeal from a judgment holding the party in criminal contempt of court for violating the order." In re Philip Kleinsmith, 2005-NMCA-136, ¶ 11, 138 N.M. 601, 124 P.3d 579 (citing State v. Cherryhomes, 114 N.M. 495, 498, 840 P.2d 1261, 1264 (Ct.App.1992)). Deputy disciplinary counsel also pointed out to the hearing committee that Respondent could have appealed his disqualification by Judge Vanzi, but he did not do so. See Weeks v. Indep. Sch. Dist., 230 F.3d 1201, 1207 (10th Cir.2000) ("Counsel have standing to appeal orders that directly aggrieve them."); see also Cherryhomes, 114 N.M. at 498, 840 P.2d at 1264 (holding that "an order issued by a court with jurisdiction over the subject matter and person must be obeyed by the parties until it is reversed by orderly and proper proceedings" and the "[w]illful violation of a court's order . . . cannot be tolerated" (internal quotation marks and citations omitted)). Although the hearing committee did not make a specific finding as to deputy disciplinary counsel's conduct on this issue, we conclude that deputy disciplinary counsel was simply making a valid legal argument regarding the effect of the district court orders and was not breaching some purported commitment not to use collateral estoppel against Respondent.

{54} In addition to rejecting the factual bases for Respondent's claim of prosecutorial misconduct, we also question Respondent's reliance on the concept of prosecutorial misconduct within the context of a disciplinary proceeding. Relying on the three instances of what Respondent characterizes as prosecutorial misconduct described above, Respondent cites to State v. Breit, 1996-NMSC-067, ¶ 37, 122 N.M. 655, 930 P.2d 792, for support. In Breit, this Court adopted a standard of willful disregard for determining when retrial is barred because of prosecutorial misconduct. Id. ¶ 32. The prosecutor's conduct in Breit was described as "pervasive, incessant, and outrageous," which is how Respondent characterizes deputy disciplinary counsel's actions. Id. ¶ 37.

{55} The alleged actions of deputy disciplinary counsel in no way compare to the actions of the prosecutor in Breit. By contrast, Respondent only points to three instances of purported misconduct. As discussed above, viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to the hearing committee's findings regarding the issue of prosecutorial misconduct, there is no indication that deputy disciplinary counsel proceeded in bad faith or engaged in the level of misconduct contemplated by Breit, assuming of course, that Breit even applies in this context.

{56} Finally, Respondent argues continually throughout these proceedings that he was denied discovery and that the specification of charges should have been dismissed for failure to put him on notice of his actual actions that corresponded to the claimed violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct. We have already rejected Respondent's challenges to the adequacy of the specification of charges for the reasons discussed earlier in this opinion. In addition, we conclude that no facts were found or conclusions drawn that were not alleged in the specification of charges. We also previously rejected Respondent's claims of inadequate discovery when we denied Respondent's petition for extraordinary writ and emergency request for stay filed with this Court earlier in these proceedings.

{57} The record reflects that Respondent received the entire disciplinary board file prior to the hearing. All of the exhibits were available to him, there was nothing he had not seen before, and there was no allegation by Respondent that he was, in fact, specifically prejudiced by any lack of discovery. See Castellano, 119 N.M. at 144, 889 P.2d at 179 (holding that an assertion of prejudice is not a showing of prejudice).

{58} Respondent has repeatedly attempted to assert prejudice in terms of his surprise at the hearing committee's conclusions of law and not as to the evidence relied on by the hearing committee. In fact, the hearing panel brought this to Respondent's attention, stating that "discovery is for facts, not for law." To ensure that Respondent was not prejudiced by any purported lack of discovery, the hearing panel finally asked Respondent to go through each of the findings of the hearing committee and "identify specifically the ones that are not supported or that you are prejudiced because there wasn't discovery, and somehow you would have proved something different." In response, Respondent discussed his objections to some of the findings, but did not point to specific instances where a lack of discovery prejudiced his ability to challenge the evidence in support of these findings. After this thorough questioning, the hearing panel concluded that "[t]he hearing committee did not abuse its discretion in denying Respondent discovery. Respondent was not prejudiced or surprised by the evidence presented by Deputy Disciplinary Counsel and Respondent was given a full opportunity to answer all charges."

{59} We find no basis for overturning the panel's decision in this regard. In fact, Respondent was asked before this Court, "Was there anything at the hearing that surprised you, in terms of not knowing of its existence before?" Respondent replied, "I don't think so, but I didn't know what the impact was." While Respondent may have been in denial about the gravity of his actions, we have no doubt that Respondent was not surprised by evidence submitted in the hearings below, and that he was in no way prejudiced by any purported lack of discovery.

F. Appropriate Discipline

{60} Although the hearing panel adopted the hearing committee's findings and conclusions with regard to Respondent's conduct and violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct, the hearing panel disagreed with the hearing committee's recommendation to discipline Respondent with a suspension. Instead, the hearing panel recommended to this Court that Respondent be disbarred. The disagreement between the hearing committee and the hearing panel notwithstanding, this Court independently determines the appropriate level of discipline. See Bristol, 2006-NMSC-041, ¶¶ 18, 30, 140 N.M. 317, 142 P.3d 905. In this regard, this Court looks to the ABA Standards for Imposing Lawyer Sanctions (1992) for guidance in determining appropriate lawyer disciplinary sanctions. In re Key, 2005-NMSC-014, ¶ 5, 137 N.M. 517, 113 P.3d 340.

1. Intentional Conduct

{61} Within the framework of the ABA Standards, disbarment is generally deemed appropriate for intentional misconduct, suspension for knowing misconduct, and reprimand for negligent misconduct. As deputy disciplinary counsel pointed out to the hearing panel, this Court has repeatedly noted that a pattern of intentional conduct warrants disbarment. See, e.g., In re Arrieta, 105 N.M. 418, 420, 733 P.2d 866, 868 (1987) (per curiam); In re C'de Baca 109 N.M. at 153, 782 P.2d at 1350. Furthermore, "[w]hen an attorney is found to have engaged in acts of intentional dishonesty, there is a presumption that he or she is unfit for membership in the bar of this state." In re Romero, 2001-NMSC-008, ¶ 10, 130 N.M. 190, 22 P.3d 215 (per curiam) (internal quotation marks and citation omitted).

{62} There is ample evidence to prove that Respondent knowingly and intentionally violated the Rules of Professional Conduct. Respondent knowingly failed to avoid a conflict of interest by purporting to represent Bruce and Ruth in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding, yet at the same time filing two lawsuits seeking to drastically alter Bruce's estate in favor of Ruth, while acknowledging Bruce's potential incapacity. See Section 4.31 (stating that a lawyer's intentional simultaneous representation of clients with adverse interests and a lawyer's intentional representation of a client with materially adverse interests to those of another client or former client in a substantially related matter can be cause for disbarment). Further, Respondent intentionally continued to represent Bruce and Ruth after he was disqualified from doing so, which constitutes misrepresentation to the court. See Section 6.11 (stating that a lawyer's intentional falsification, deceit, or withholding of material information can be cause for disbarment). In addition, while the guardianship and conservatorship case was pending, Respondent engaged in misrepresentation and intentional deceit to the court by filing the two federal suits without notifying the court or other interested parties, and having Bruce change his will and trust after being ordered to discontinue his representation of Bruce. Id.; see also Section 5.11 (stating that "disbarment is generally appropriate when a lawyer engages in any other intentional conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation that seriously adversely reflects on the lawyer's fitness to practice").

{63} Respondent argued before the hearing committee that Judge Vanzi's order was not clear, that it contained no prohibition on Respondent changing Bruce's testamentary documents, and that he did nothing wrong. His claims to the contrary notwithstanding, Respondent intentionally violated the plain terms of Judge Vanzi's order, which reads:

> The interests of Bruce C. Clinesmith and Ruth M. Clinesmith are adverse to each other in this proceeding and in the federal proceedings currently pending. Representing both individuals in these proceedings constitutes an impermissible conflict of interest and neither Stuart L. Stein, Esq. or The Stein Law Firm can continue to represent the interests of Bruce C. Clinesmith.

See Section 6.21 (stating that "disbarment is generally appropriate when a lawyer knowingly violates a court order or rule with the intent to obtain a benefit for the lawyer or another, and causes serious injury or potentially serious injury to a party or causes serious or potentially serious interference with a legal proceeding").

{64} As noted above, ignoring a judge's order, whether one agrees or disagrees with it, is impermissible. There are avenues for appealing judges' orders and Respondent did not avail himself of those options. See Weeks, 230 F.3d at 1207 ("Counsel have standing to appeal orders that directly aggrieve them."); Cherryhomes, 114 N.M. at 498, 840 P.2d at 1264 (holding that "an order issued by a court with jurisdiction over the subject matter and person must be obeyed by the parties until it is reversed by orderly and proper proceedings" and the "willful violation of a court's order . . . cannot be tolerated") (internal quotation marks and citations omitted). Respondent cannot now attack the validity of Judge Vanzi's orders simply because his unethical conduct is now cause for his disbarment.

2. Aggravation and Mitigation

{65} In considering the appropriate level of discipline, this Court may consider aggravating and mitigating factors to either increase or reduce the degree of discipline imposed. See ABA Standards, Sections 9.1 to 9.3. In formulating its recommendations, the hearing committee considered several factors in aggravation, including Respondent's history of prior disciplinary offenses, his commission of multiple offenses, his refusal to acknowledge the wrongful nature of his conduct, and his substantial experience in the practice of law.

{66} In reviewing the hearing committee's disciplinary recommendations, the hearing panel found further aggravating factors of dishonest or selfish motive and vulnerability of the victim. The panel concluded that no mitigating factors existed. The hearing panel ultimately concluded that Respondent should be disbarred from the practice of law for not less than five years and that a motion for permission to apply for reinstatement not be filed for a period of at least five years from the effective date of the disbarment pursuant to Rule 17-214 NMRA. See In re Bristol, 2006-NMSC-041, ¶ 3, 140 N.M. 317, 142 P.3d 905 (stating that the hearing panel may accept, reject, modify or increase the sanctions contained in the recommendations of the hearing committee). We agree with the hearing panel's assessment that disbarment is the appropriate level of discipline in this case.

{67} Throughout these proceedings, and before this Court, Respondent has maintained he did nothing wrong. Respondent's attitude during these proceedings and answers to questions asked regarding issues in the case give cause for alarm.

{68} For example, when asked by the hearing panel about Judge Vanzi's order previously cited in this opinion, and what the words "this proceeding" meant, the panel asked if that means "this proceeding dealing with [Bruce Clinesmith's] estate." Respondent said, "[n]o, I don't know what it means." Respondent then answered that "[t]he proceeding was a guardianship and conservatorship proceeding." The panel then asked, "Isn't that concerned with the assets in the estate of the person?" to which Respondent replied, "[s]ure it is. But I didn't do anything." This is just one of many examples where Respondent refuses to accept the order as it is, puts unreasonable interpretations on it, and then insists that he has done nothing wrong.

{69} Another example of Respondent's state of denial concerns his visit to the Woodmark to have Bruce execute a new will and trust. When Respondent was before Judge Vanzi, Respondent did not dispute that he did not notify Bruce's guardian ad litem, or his temporary guardian and conservator, of his visit to the Woodmark. When asked by Judge Vanzi why he did this, Respondent replied, "[i]n this case this is what I did and I feel that it is fine. It is ethical and not in contravention of your order." In light of what Respondent knew and what he intentionally did, it is, to say the least, troubling that he has steadfastly maintained that he has acted ethically.

{70} As further evidence of Respondent's denial and refusal to account for his actions, Respondent filed a motion for rehearing with this Court following the announcement of his disbarment. Respondent again makes the same arguments he has continually made throughout these proceedings and raises no new issues. In particular, Respondent claims that Bruce's incapacity was not at issue during the proceedings. However, Respondent acknowledged in the federal suits he filed and in his statements to Judge Vanzi that Bruce's capacity was in question. Similarly, Respondent claims he did not know that his failure to abide by court orders would be used as grounds for discipline. As is obvious from what is set forth above, there is no doubt that Respondent had knowledge of the charges against him regarding his conduct related to the court orders and that such conduct could result in disciplinary action.

{71} "It is the obligation of the organized bar and the individual lawyer to give unstinted cooperation and assistance to the Supreme Court, and its agency the disciplinary board, in discharging its function and duty with respect to discipline and in purging the profession of the unworthy." Preface, Rules Governing Discipline, 17-101 to -316. Contrary to this obligation, throughout these proceedings Respondent has expressed disdain and contempt for the disciplinary board. He has expressed publicly, through the use of his web site, his displeasure with disciplinary board members. Much like the situation before us in In re Quintana, 104 N.M. 511, 513-14, 724 P.2d 220, 222-23 (1986):

> Rather than recognizing his own shortcomings, he continues to blame others for his acts and omissions. In addition, he has openly chastised disciplinary counsel and this Court for what he evidently perceives as > unjustified "punishment." Our obligation is to protect the public and the reputation of the profession, and safeguard the administration of justice. [Respondent's] sustained inability to grasp any appreciation of how his conduct falls below the standards set for attorneys or any understanding of his professional obligations convinces us that an extension of the previously imposed sanction is required for the protection of the public.

{72} Were this Respondent's first time before this Court, we might be less inclined to impose the ultimate sanction of disbarment. However, Respondent has other disciplinary offenses. Notably, Respondent received a formal reprimand a mere two years ago for conduct similar to his conduct here. In that case, Respondent created a trust for a client that involved a change to an estate plan, making his son and daughter co-successor trustees. Respondent then represented the adverse interests of the son, while he was still representing the father. As stated in the formal reprimand, "You put yourself in a untenable ethical position by attempting to represent the competing interests of [father] and [son]. This is precisely the type of conduct that the conflict of interest rules are intended to prevent." Several factors in aggravation were found in that proceeding, including history of prior disciplinary offenses, selfish motive, committing multiple offenses, engaging in deceptive practices in responding to the disciplinary process, and substantial experience in the practice of law. This Court has noted that repeated instances of the same conduct for which a lawyer previously has been disciplined generally will result in more severe discipline. In re Houston, 1999-NMSC-032, ¶ 19, 127 N.M. 582, 985 P.2d 752.

III. CONCLUSION

{73} In light of the evidence of repeated intentional misconduct by Respondent, we accept the hearing panel's recommendation for disbarment. Respondent is therefore disbarred from the practice of law pursuant to Rule 17-206(A)(1) NMRA. As previously ordered by this Court, Respondent must comply with all requirements of Rules 17-212 and 17-214 NMRA prior to being permitted to apply for reinstatement. Moreover, as previously ordered by the Court, Respondent shall pay the costs in this matter on or before March 19, 2008; any balance remaining thereafter shall accrue interest at the rate of 8-3/4% per annum; and such costs shall be reduced to a transcript of judgment.

{74} Finally, Respondent's motion for rehearing is denied.

{75} IT IS SO ORDERED.

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO

In the Matter of

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Licensed to

of the State of New Mexico

Disciplinary No.
02-2006-505

DECISION OF THE HEARING PANEL

THIS MATTER came before the undersigned Disciplinary Board Panel for oral argument on July 30, 2007, after assignment for review by the Chair of the Disciplinary Board pursuant to Rule 17-314 of the Rules of Governing Discipline. The Respondent and Joel L. Wildman, Deputy Disciplinary Counsel, appeared in person. The proceedings were stenographically recorded. The Board Panel reviewed the transcripts of the Panel Hearing, pleadings filed in the case, the briefs filed by the parties, and heard the arguments of counsel on the issues in each parties Request for Oral Argument and Submission of Briefs and pleadings filed in the case.

The Board Panel finds as follows:

1. Respondent basically agreed with each Finding of Fact of the Hearing Committee with his limited objections being either stylistic or immaterial to the conclusions.

2. The evidence supports the Findings of Fact and Conclusions of Law of the Hearing Committee, which are approved by the Panel.

3. The Hearing Committee did not abuse its discretion in denying Respondent discovery. Respondent was not prejudiced or surprised by the evidence presented by Deputy Disciplinary Counsel and Respondent was given a full opportunity to answer all charges.

4. Respondent was not denied due process by the Hearing Committee, nor did the actions of Chief Disciplinary Counsel or the Deputy Disciplinary Counsel constitute "prosecutorial misconduct."

5. Respondent received a Formal Reprimand in Disciplinary No. 06-2003-458 on November 18, 2005, concerning violations of Rule 16-107(a) involving similar conflict of interest issues. Respondent maintains he did not violate the Rules of Professional Conduct therein or in the present preceding.

6. The Disciplinary Board Panel finds the following factors to be considered in imposing sanctions set out in the ABA Standards For Imposing Sanctions are supported by the evidence herein:

§4.3 Failure to avoid conflict of interest

§4.31 Disbarment is generally appropriate when a lawyer, without the informed consent of clients:

(b) simultaneously represents clients that the lawyer knows have adverse interests with the intent to benefit the lawyer or another and causes serious or potentially serious injury to a client; or

(c) represents a client in a matter substantially related to a matter in which the interests of present or former client are materially adverse and knowingly uses information relating to the representation of a client with the intent to benefit the lawyer or another, and causes serious or potentially serious injury to a client.

§5.1 Failure to maintain personal integrity

§5.11 Disbarment is generally appropriate when:

(b) a lawyer engages in any other intentional conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit, or misrepresentation that seriously adversely reflects on the lawyer's fitness to practice.

§6.1 False statements, fraud and misrepresentation

§6.11 Disbarment is generally appropriate when a lawyer, with the intent to deceive the court, makes a false statement, submits a false document, or improperly withholds material information, and causes serious or potentially serious injury to a party or causes a significant or potentially significant adverse effect on the legal proceeding.

§6.2 Abuse of the legal process

§6.21 Disbarment is generally appropriate when a lawyer knowingly violates a court order or rule with the intent to obtain a benefit for the lawyer or another, and causes serious injury or potentially serious injury to a party or causes serious or potentially serious interference with a legal proceeding.

§9.0 Aggravation and Mitigation

§9.1 After misconduct has been established aggravating and mitigating circumstances may be considered in deciding what sanction to impose.

§9.22 Factors which maybe considered in aggravation

(a) prior disciplinary offenses;

(b) dishonest or selfish motive;

(c) a pattern of misconduct;

(d) multiple offenses;

(g) refusal to acknowledge nature of conduct;

(h) vulnerability of victim; (the husband who was under court supervision)

(i) substantial experience in the practice of law;

§9.3 Mitigation

§9.31 Mitigation or mitigating circumstances or any considerations or factors that may justify a reduction in the degree of discipline to be imposed.

§9.32 Factors which may be considered in mitigation. (none were found herein)

§9.4 Factors which are neither aggravating or mitigating

(b) agreeing to the client's demand for certain improper behavior or result;

(f) failure of injured client to complain

THEREFORE it is the unanimous recommendation and decision of the Disciplinary Board Panel that he recommendations of the Hearing Committee are nodified as follows:

1. The appropriate sanction in this case is disbarment of Respondent's license to practice law for no less than five (5) years, and a motion for permission to apply for reinstatement may not be filed for a period of at least five (5) years from the effective date of the disbarment pursuant to Rule 17-214.

2. Respondent should be assessed the costs of this action, to be paid within ninety (90) days from this decision.

APPENDIX C

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO

In the Matter of

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Licensed to Practice Before the Courts of the State of New Mexico

Disciplinary No. 02-2006-505

HEARING COMMITTEE'S FINDINGS OF FACT AND CONCLUSIONS OF LAW AND RECOMMENDATIONS FOR DISCIPLINE

Comes now the Hearing Committee, pursuant to Rule 17-313(D) of the Rules Governing Discipline, and for its Recommended Findings of Facts and Conclusions of Law, states as follows:

FINDINGS OF FACT

1. Stuart L. Stein, Esq., hereinafter Respondent, is an attorney licensed to practice law before the courts of the State of New Mexico.

2. In March, 2005, a Petition was filed by Cathe Temmerman seeking the appointment of a guardian and conservator for her father, Bruce C. Clinesmith, in the matter entitled In the Matter of Bruce C. Clinesmith, An Adult Incapacitated Person, No. PQ-2005-00063, in the Second Judicial District Court, Bernalillo County, New Mexico, (Ex. A). Richard Reidy was appointed guardian ad litem by the court on March 4, 2005, (Ex. D).

3. By operation of law, after notice of the filing of a petition seeking the appointment of a conservator, the court in which the petition is filed has exclusive jurisdiction to determine how the estate of the protected person shall be managed, expended or distributed (45-5-402 NMSA 1978 (1975)).

4. On July 18, 2005 a hearing was held before Hon. Linda Vanzi, the judge to whom the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding was assigned on a previously filed Motion To Disqualify Respondent from representing Bruce Clinesmith because of a conflict between the interests of Bruce Clinesmith and his wife, Ruth Clinesmith, who Respondent also represented.

5. During the course of the July 18, 2005, hearing the court disqualified Respondent from representing Bruce Clinesmith, revoked the power of attorney previously granted to Ruth Clinesmith by Bruce Clinesmith and appointed Decades LLC temporary guardian and conservator of Bruce Clinesmith. These rulings are contained in the court's written Order of August 5, 2005, (Ex. N).

6. At the time of the filing of the Petition in the guardianship case there were in existence two trusts created by Bruce Clinesmith. One of the trusts was a revocable trust created by Bruce Clinesmith on January 31, 1997, with Moody Bible Institute of Chicago (hereinafter the "1997 Trust") as Trustee and which provided, inter-alia, for the income and principal to be paid to Bruce Clinesmith as needed with the remainder to Moody upon his death. The corpus of the Moody trust was $6,275,000.00.

7. The other trust (hereinafter the "1999 Trust") was a revocable trust created by Bruce Clinesmith on October 29, 1999, the income and principal of which were to be paid to Bruce Clinesmith as required and upon his death the remainder was to be held in trust for his wife, Ruth, with the income and principal to be paid to her as required. Upon Ruth's death, the remainder was to be paid to Moody. The corpus of the 1999 trust was $4,800,000.00.

8. Respondent appeared on behalf of Bruce C. Clinesmith and his wife, Ruth Clinesmith in Cause No. PQ-2005-00063 and on March 28, 2005, filed an Answer to the Petition on behalf of Bruce Clinesmith and Ruth Clinesmith requesting that Ruth Clinesmith be appointed as guardian for Bruce Clinesmith, if in fact the court determined a guardian should be appointed. The Answer further alleged the existence of a Durable Power of Attorney executed by Bruce Clinesmith on January 30, 2004, in favor of his wife and stated that the court should not disregard the clear intent of Bruce Clinesmith, presumably as evidenced by the Power of Attorney, (Ex. B, Ex. C).

9. On March 28, 2005, the same date on which Respondent filed an Answer to the guardianship/conservatorship Petition, Respondent wrote to representatives of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago demanding that the income and corpus of the 1997 Trust and the 1999 Trust be paid to Ruth Clinesmith, individually (Ex. G, par. 27).

10. Notwithstanding his knowledge of the pendency of the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding in state district court together with the above-cited statute, Respondent filed two lawsuits in the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico on behalf of Ruth Clinesmith seeking to affect the manner in which the estate of Mr. Clinesmith would be managed, expended and distributed.

11. The first lawsuit was filed on June 15, 2005 on behalf of Ruth Clinesmith, individually, and purportedly on behalf of Bruce C. Clinesmith, "by Ruth M. Clinesmith, his attorney-in-fact" pursuant to the January 30, 2004, Durable Power of Attorney referred to above, seeking inter-alia that the trusts created by Bruce Clinesmith in favor of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago be voided and that the corpus of the trusts be declared to be community property. This lawsuit will be referred to herein as the Moody Bible lawsuit (Ex. G). The value of the trusts at the time of filing was alleged to be approximately $11,000,000.00.

12. The complaint prepared and filed by Respondent in the Moody Bible suit, alleges that in August 2004, when Mr. And Mrs. Clinesmith relocated to Albuquerque, Mr. Clinesmith was suffering from "early signs of dementia, be it Alzheimer's Disease or some other dementia diagnosis."

13. On July 18, 2005 a hearing was held before Hon. Linda Vanzi, the judge to whom the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding was assigned on a previously filed Motion To Disqualify Respondent from representing Bruce Clinesmith because of a conflict between the interests of Bruce Clinesmith and his wife, Ruth Clinesmith, who Respondent also represented.

14. During the course of the July 18, 2005, hearing the court disqualified Respondent from representing Bruce Clinesmith, revoked the power of attorney previously granted to Ruth Clinesmith by Bruce Clinesmith and appointed Decades LLC temporary guardian and conservator of Bruce Clinesmith. These rulings are contained in the court's written Order of August 5, 2005 (Ex.N).

15. Respondent did not advise the court in which the Moody Bible suit was pending that he had been disqualified from representing Bruce Clinesmith, that the power of attorney had been revoked or that a temporary guardian and conservator had been appointed for Bruce Clinesmith.

16. On September 1, 2005, an Order was entered in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding (Ex. S) disqualifying Respondent from any continued representation of Ruth Clinesmith, (Ex. S par. 34).

17. Respondent did not advise the court in which the Moody Bible suit was pending that he had been disqualified from representing Ruth Clinesmith on September 1, 2005.

18. Respondent continued to represent Bruce Clinesmith in the Moody Bible suit after he was disqualified from doing so on July 18, 2005 and continued to represent Ruth Clinesmith after he was disqualified from doing so by the Order of September 1, 2005 as recited by the Order of November 21, 2005 (Ex. U) which disqualified Respondent from representing any party to the Moody Bible suit.

19. Respondent continued to represent Ruth Clinesmith in the Moody Bible suit until he was disqualified by the Order of November 21, 2005 and, as recited at page 5 of that Order, continued representing Bruce Clinesmith as well.

20. On June 22, 2005, on behalf of Ruth Clinesmith, individually, Respondent prepared and filed a lawsuit against Citigroup Global Markets, Inc. (the Citigroup lawsuit, Ex. H)) alleging the existence of a joint account in the names of Bruce Clinesmith and Ruth Clinesmith and that the account was restricted by Citigroup without authority. In the lawsuit, Ruth Clinesmith sought damages or, in the alternative, full access to the account.

21. The account, which was alleged to be in the approximate amount of $250,000.00, was "frozen" by Citigroup because of their concerns that Bruce Clinesmith's mental health had deteriorated and their uncertainty that he fully comprehended his actions.

22. Respondent negotiated a settlement of the Citigroup suit pursuant to which the account was transferred to another broker, which account was in the name of Ruth Clinesmith only, thus barring Bruce Clinesmith access to the account and the funds on deposit therein. The settlement was confirmed in a letters [sic] of July 13, 2005 and July 15, 2005 (Ex. J. Ex. K) sent by Respondent to Citigroup Associate General Counsel. On July 15, 2005, Respondent contacted Citigroup by letter advising of the account to which the funds were to be transferred and again on July 28, 2005 (Ex. L) complaining of delay in effectuating the transfer.

23. Respondent's conduct in the Citigroup case resulted in the removal of assets in excess of $250,000 from the jurisdiction of the court in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding without notice to or leave of that court.

24. On August 18, 2005, after Respondent had been disqualified from representing Bruce Clinesmith and after Decades LLC had been appointed temporary guardian and conservator of Bruce Clinesmith and notwithstanding his own recognition of Bruce Clinesmith's incapacity, Respondent went to the dementia unit of the Woodmark, a residential care facility in which Bruce Clinesmith was a patient. Respondent had Bruce Clinesmith removed from the dementia unit and taken to a private room, where he presented Bruce Clinesmith with a new will and trust which he asked Bruce Clinesmith to execute and which Bruce Clinesmith did in fact execute.

25. The will and trust executed by Bruce Clinesmith (Ex. O, Ex. P), if not subsequently invalidated by Judge Vanzi, would have revoked the Moody Bible Trusts and created a new trust with Ruth Clinesmith as trustee with all the power "that an absolute owner of such property would have."

26. The effect of the will and trust executed by Bruce Clinesmith on August 18, 2005 would have been to remove all of the assets of Bruce Clinesmith from the jurisdiction of the court in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding.

27. Respondent did not notify Richard Reidy, the guardian ad litem, or Decades LLC, the temporary guardian and conservator, of his visit to Bruce Clinesmith either before or after the visit nor did Respondent obtain leave of court to make the visit to Bruce Clinesmith.

28. Upon learning of Respondent's meeting with Bruce Clinesmith and Bruce Clinesmith's execution of the will and trust prepared by Respondent, Decades LLC filed a Motion To Prohibit Interference With Temporary Guardian And Conservator Decades, LLC's Performance Of Duties And Exercise Of Powers Pursuant To Court Order Dated August 5, 2005, And Request For Emergency Expedited Hearing (Ex. Q).

29. The court held a hearing of the Decades, LLC Motion on August 22, 2005, and entered an Order, inter-alia, enjoining Respondent from having any contact with Bruce Clinesmith, voiding the will and trust executed by Bruce Clinesmith on August 18, 2005, and awarding Decades, LLC the attorneys' fees incurred by it in connection with the Motion.

CONCLUSIONS

30. By reason of the conduct as set forth in Paragraphs 1 through 19 above, Respondent violated the following Rules of Professional Conduct:

a. Rule 16-102(D) by assisting a client (Ruth Clinesmith) to engage in conduct he knew was misleading to the court (Judge Parker);

b. Rule 16-107(A) by representing Ruth Clinesmith whose interests were adverse to those of another client (Bruce Clinesmith).

c. Rule 16-107(B) by representing a client (Bruce Clinesmith) where the representation of that client was materially limited by his representation of another client (Ruth Clinesmith);

d. Rule 16-109(A) by representing a person (Ruth Clinesmith) in the same or a substantially related matter in which that person's interests were materially adverse to those of a former client (Bruce Clinesmith) and without the consent of the former client;

e. Rule 16-804(C) by engaging in conduct involving misrepresentation;

31. By reason of the conduct as set forth in Paragraphs 1-5 and 20 through 23 above, Respondent violated the following Rules of Professional Conduct:

a. Rule 16-107(A) by representing Ruth Clinesmith whose interests were adverse to those of another client (Bruce Clinesmith).

b. Rule 16-107(B) by representing a client (Bruce Clinesmith) where the representation of that client was materially limited by his representation of another client (Ruth Clinesmith);

c. Rule 16-804(C) by engaging in conduct involving misrepresentation;

32. By reason of the conduct set forth in Paragraphs 1-5 and 24 through 29 above, Respondent violated the following Rules of Professional Conduct:

a. Rule 16-402 by communicating during the representation of a client about the subject of the representation with a party he knew to be represented by another lawyer in the matter without the consent of the other lawyer and without authorization of law to do so;

b. Rule 16-804(C) by engaging in conduct involving misrepresentation by failing to obtain leave of Court or otherwise bring this to Judge Vanzi's attention;

33. By reason of the conduct found in paragraphs 30, 31 and 32 to violate the Rules of Professional Conduct, Respondent also violated Rule 16-804(D), by engaging in conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice and Rule 16-804(H), by engaging in conduct adversely reflecting on Respondent's fitness to practice law.

Recommendations for Discipline

34. On April 2, 2007, the Hearing Committee received evidence and heard argument by the Respondent and the Deputy Disciplinary Counsel with regard to the appropriate discipline to be imposed for the foregoing violations found to have been committed by Respondent. After considering the exhibits submitted by Deputy Disciplinary Counsel and oral argument by the parties, the Committee submits the following recommendations for discipline:

1. Respondent should be suspended from the practice of law for a period of six months with automatic reinstatement.

2. Respondent should be ordered to pay the costs incurred in this proceeding including, but not limited to the cost of depositions, exhibits, transcripts and witnesses.

35. In formulating these recommendations for discipline the Hearing Committee considered factors in aggravation that in the Committee's view justify an increase in the degree of discipline which would ordinarily be imposed for the violations found to have been committed by Respondent, including his history of prior disciplinary offenses, multiple offenses, refusal to acknowledge the wrongful nature of his conduct and his substantial experience in the practice of law.

The foregoing Findings of Fact, Conclusions of Law and Recommendations for Discipline were unanimously adopted by the Hearing Committee this 4th day of April, 2007.

APPENDIX D

Rules of Practice of the State Bar of California
Rule 1201. Discovery Requests

Discovery requests served upon an opposing party, as opposed to motions to compel discovery, are not to be filed with the Court.

APPENDIX E

Rules of Practice of the State Bar of California Rule 1202. Format of Discovery Motions

(a) Motion to Compel. A motion to compel further responses to interrogatories, inspection demands, or admission requests and a motion to compel answers to questions propounded at a deposition or to compel production of documents or tangible things at a deposition shall be accompanied by a separate document which sets for each interrogatory, item or category of items, request, question, or document or tangible thing to which further response, answer, or production is requested, the response given, and the factual and legal reasons for compelling it. Material shall not be incorporated by reference, except that in the separate document the moving party may incorporate identical responses and factual and legal reasons previously stated in that document. No other statements or summaries shall be required as part of this motion.

(b) Identification of Interrogatories, Demands, or Requests. A motion for further responses concerning interrogatories, inspection demands, or admission requests shall identify the interrogatories, demands, or requests by set and number.

(c) Reference to Other Responses. If the response to a particular interrogatory is dependent on the response given to another interrogatory, or if the reasons a further response to a particular interrogatory is deemed necessary are based on the responses to some other interrogatory, the other interrogatory and its response must be set forth.

(d) Reference to Other Documents. If the pleadings, other documents in the file, or other items of discovery are relevant to the motion, the party relying on them shall summarize each relevant document.

(e) Compliance with subparagraphs (a) through (d) of this rule is not necessary where the opposing party has failed to respond to the discovery request.

APPENDIX F

F.S.A. Bar Rule 3-7.6. Procedures Before a Referee

(a) Referees. The chief justice shall have the power to appoint referees to try disciplinary cases and to delegate to a chief judge of a judicial circuit the power to appoint referees for duty in the chief judge's circuit. Such appointees shall ordinarily be active county or circuit judges, but the chief justice may appoint retired judges.

(b) Trial by Referee. When a finding has been made by a grievance committee or by the board that there is cause to believe that a member of The Florida Bar is guilty of misconduct justifying disciplinary action, and the formal complaint based on such finding of probable cause has been assigned by the chief justice for trial before a referee, the proceeding thereafter shall be an adversary proceeding that shall be conducted as hereinafter set forth.

(c) Pretrial Conference. Within 60 days of the order assigning the case to the referee, the referee shall conduct a pretrial conference. The purpose of the conference is to set a schedule for the proceedings, including discovery deadlines and a final hearing date. The referee shall enter a written order in the proceedings reflecting the schedule determined at the conference.

(d) Venue. The trial shall be held in the county in which an alleged offense occurred or in the county where the respondent resides or practices law or last practiced law in Florida, whichever shall be designated by the Supreme Court of Florida; provided, however, that if the respondent is not a resident of Florida and if the alleged offense is not committed in Florida, the trial shall be held in a county designated by the chief justice.

(e) Style of Proceedings. All proceedings instituted by The Florida Bar shall be styled "The Florida Bar, Complainant, v. (name of respondent), Respondent," and "In The Supreme Court of Florida (Before a Referee)."

(f) Nature of Proceedings.

(1) Administrative in Character. A disciplinary proceeding is neither civil nor criminal but is a quasi-judicial administrative proceeding. The Florida Rules of Civil Procedure apply except as otherwise provided in this rule.

(2) Discovery. Discovery shall be available to the parties in accordance with the Florida Rules of Civil Procedure.

(g) Bar Counsel. Bar counsel shall make such investigation as is necessary and shall prepare and prosecute with utmost diligence any case assigned.

(h) Pleadings. Pleadings may be informal and shall comply with the following requirements:

(1) Complaint; Consolidation and Severance.

(A) Filing. The complaint shall be filed in the Supreme Court of Florida.

(B) Content. The complaint shall set forth the particular act or acts of conduct for which the attorney is sought to be disciplined.

(C) Joinder of Charges and Respondents; Severance. A complaint may embrace any number of charges against 1 or more respondents, and charges may be against any 1 or any number of respondents; but a severance may be granted by the referee when the ends of justice require it.

(2) Answer and Motion. The respondent shall answer the complaint and, as a part thereof or by separate motion, may challenge only the sufficiency of the complaint and the jurisdiction of the forum. All other defenses shall be incorporated in the respondent's answer. The answer may invoke any proper privilege, immunity, or disability available to the respondent. All pleadings of the respondent must be filed within 20 days of service of a copy of the complaint.

(3) Reply. If the respondent's answer shall contain any new matter or affirmative defense, a reply thereto may be filed within 10 days of the date of service of a copy upon bar counsel, but failure to file such a reply shall not prejudice The Florida Bar. All affirmative allegations in the respondent's answer shall be considered as denied by The Florida Bar.

(4) Disposition of Motions. Hearings upon motions may be deferred until the final hearing, and, whenever heard, rulings thereon may be reserved until termination of the final hearing.

(5) Filing and Service of Pleadings.

(A) Prior to Appointment of Referee. Any pleadings filed in a case prior to appointment of a referee shall be filed with the Supreme Court of Florida and shall bear a certificate of service showing parties upon whom service of copies has been made. On appointment of referee, the Supreme Court of Florida shall notify the parties of such appointment and forward all pleadings filed with the court to the referee for action.

(B) After Appointment of Referee. All pleadings, motions, notices, and orders filed after appointment of a referee shall be filed with the referee and shall bear a certificate of service showing service of a copy on staff counsel and bar counsel of The Florida Bar and on all interested parties to the proceedings.

(6) Amendment. Pleadings may be amended by order of the referee, and a reasonable time shall be given within which to respond thereto.

(7) Expediting the Trial. If it shall be made to appear that the date of final hearing should be expedited in the public interest, the referee may, in the referee's discretion, shorten the time for filing pleadings and the notice requirements as provided in this rule.

(8) Disqualification of Referee. Upon motion of either party, a referee may be disqualified from service in the same manner and to the same extent that a trial judge may be disqualified under existing law from acting in a judicial capacity. In the event of disqualification, the chief justice shall appoint a successor.

(i) Notice of Final Hearing. The cause may be set down for trial by either party or the referee upon not less than 10 days' notice. The trial shall be held as soon as possible following the expiration of 10 days from the filing of the respondent's answer, or if no answer is filed, then from the date when such answer is due.

(j) The Respondent. Unless the respondent claims a privilege or right properly available under applicable federal or state law, the respondent may be called as a witness by The Florida Bar to make specific and complete disclosure of all matters material to the issues. When the respondent is subpoenaed to appear and give testimony or to produce books, papers, or documents and refuses to answer or to produce such books, papers, or documents, or, having been duly sworn to testify, refuses to answer any proper question, the respondent may be cited for contempt of the court.

(k) Complaining Witness. The complaining witness is not a party to the disciplinary proceeding, and shall have no rights other than those of any other witness. However, unless it is found to be impractical due to unreasonable delay or other good cause, and after the complaining witness has testified during the case in chief, the referee may grant the complaining witness the right to be present at any hearing when the respondent is also present. A complaining witness may be called upon to testify and produce evidence as any other witness. Neither unwillingness nor neglect of the complaining witness to cooperate, nor settlement, compromise, or restitution will excuse failure to complete any trial. The complaining witness shall have no right to appeal.

(l) Parol Evidence. Evidence other than that contained in a written attorney-client contract may not be used in proceedings conducted under the Rules Regulating The Florida Bar to vary the terms of that contract, except competent evidence other than that contained in a written fee contract may be used only if necessary to resolve issues of excessive fees or excessive costs.

(m) Referee's Report.

(1) Contents of Report. Within 30 days after the conclusion of a trial before a referee or 10 days after the referee receives the transcripts of all hearings, whichever is later, or within such extended period of time as may be allowed by the chief justice for good cause shown, the referee shall make a report and enter it as part of the record, but failure to enter the report in the time prescribed shall not deprive the referee of jurisdiction. The referee's report shall include:

(A) a finding of fact as to each item of misconduct of which the respondent is charged, which findings of fact shall enjoy the same presumption of correctness as the judgment of the trier of fact in a civil proceeding;

(B) recommendations as to whether the respondent should be found guilty of misconduct justifying disciplinary measures;

(C) recommendations as to the disciplinary measures to be applied;

(D) a statement of any past disciplinary measures as to the respondent that are on record with the executive director of The Florida Bar or that otherwise become known to the referee through evidence properly admitted by the referee during the course of the proceedings (after a finding of guilt, all evidence of prior disciplinary measures may be offered by bar counsel subject to appropriate objection or explanation by respondent); and

(E) a statement of costs incurred and recommendations as to the manner in which such costs should be taxed.

(2) Filing. The referee's report and record of proceedings shall in all cases be transmitted together to the Supreme Court of Florida. Copies of the report shall be served on the parties including staff counsel. Bar counsel will make a copy of the record, as furnished, available to other parties on request and payment of the actual costs of reproduction.

(n) The Record.

(1) Recording of Testimony. All hearings at which testimony is presented shall be attended by a court reporter who shall record all testimony. Transcripts of such testimony are not required to be filed in the matter, unless requested by a party, who shall pay the cost of transcription directly, or ordered by the referee, in which case the costs thereof are subject to assessment as elsewhere provided in these rules.

(2) Contents. The record shall include all items properly filed in the cause including pleadings, recorded testimony, if transcribed, exhibits in evidence, and the report of the referee.

(3) Preparation and Filing. The referee, with the assistance of bar counsel, shall prepare the record, certify that the record is complete, serve a copy of the index of the record on the respondent and The Florida Bar, and file the record with the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court of Florida.

(4) Supplementing or Removing Items from the Record. The respondent and The Florida Bar may seek to supplement the record or have items removed from the record by filing a motion with the referee for such purpose, provided such motion is filed within 15 days of the service of the index. Denial of a motion to supplement the record or to remove an item from the record may be reviewed in the same manner as provided for in the rule on appellate review under these rules.

(o) Plea of Guilty by Respondent. At any time during the progress of disciplinary proceedings, a respondent may tender a plea of guilty.

(1) Before Filing of Complaint. If the plea is tendered before filing of a complaint by staff counsel, such plea shall be tendered in writing to the grievance committee or bar counsel.

(2) After Filing of Complaint. If the complaint has been filed against the respondent, the respondent may enter a plea of guilty thereto by filing the same in writing with the referee to whom the cause has been assigned for trial. Such referee shall take such testimony thereto as may be advised, following which the referee will enter a report as otherwise provided.

(3) Unconditional. An unconditional plea of guilty shall not preclude review as to disciplinary measures imposed.

(4) Procedure. Except as herein provided, all procedure in relation to disposition of the cause on pleas of guilty shall be as elsewhere provided in these rules.

(p) Cost of Review or Reproduction.

(1) The charge for reproduction, when photocopying or other reproduction is performed by the bar, for the purposes of these rules shall be as determined and published annually by the executive director. In addition to reproduction charges, the bar may charge a reasonable fee incident to a request to review disciplinary records or for research into the records of disciplinary proceedings and identification of documents to be reproduced.

(2) When the bar is requested to reproduce documents that are voluminous or is requested to produce transcripts in the possession of the bar, the bar may decline to reproduce the documents in the offices of the bar and shall inform the requesting person of the following options:

(A) purchase of the transcripts from the court reporter service that produced them;

(B) purchase of the documents from the third party from whom the bar received them; or

(C) designation of a commercial photocopy service to which the bar shall deliver the original documents to be copied, at the requesting party's expense, provided the photocopy service agrees to preserve and return the original documents and not to release them to any person without the bar's consent.

(q) Costs.

(1) Taxable Costs. Taxable costs of the proceedings shall include only:

(A) investigative costs, including travel and out-of-pocket expenses;

(B) court reporters' fees;

(C) copy costs;

(D) telephone charges;

(E) fees for translation services;

(F) witness expenses, including travel and out-of-pocket expenses;

(G) travel and out-of-pocket expenses of the referee;

(H) travel and out-of-pocket expenses of counsel in the proceedings, including of the respondent if acting as counsel; and

(I) an administrative fee in the amount of $1250 when costs are assessed in favor of the bar.

(2) Discretion of Referee. The referee shall have discretion to award costs and, absent an abuse of discretion, the referee's award shall not be reversed.

(3) Assessment of Bar Costs. When the bar is successful, in whole or in part, the referee may assess the bar's costs against the respondent unless it is shown that the costs of the bar were unnecessary, excessive, or improperly authenticated.

(4) Assessment of Respondent's Costs. When the bar is unsuccessful in the prosecution of a particular matter, the referee may assess the respondent's costs against the bar in the event that there was no justiciable issue of either law or fact raised by the bar.

APPENDIX G

N.M.R.A. RULE 17-105. DISCIPLINARY COUNSEL

A. Appointment. Subject to the approval of the Supreme Court, the Disciplinary Board shall appoint a chief disciplinary counsel, and a deputy disciplinary counsel. The Disciplinary Board shall appoint such other assistant counsel as may be required for efficient performance of the work and all to serve at the pleasure of the board under its supervision. Subject to the approval of the Supreme Court, the board shall fix the compensation of counsel, if any, and shall promulgate policies for the orderly and efficient conduct of their duties.

B. Powers. Disciplinary counsel shall have the power:

(1) to docket for formal investigation any complaint which sets forth reasonable grounds to believe that a violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct or a violation of these rules has occurred;

(2) to investigate or to refer for investigation to assistant disciplinary counsel or to an investigator, all matters involving alleged misconduct by an attorney subject to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court when called to his attention by the written complaint of any person. If the complaint is initiated by chief disciplinary counsel, it shall be entitled "chief disciplinary counsel complaint." All investigations shall be reported upon as quickly as reasonably possible unless the Disciplinary Board determines that a stay is necessary to avoid interference with pending civil or criminal litigation, prejudice to clients or injury to public interest;

(3) to dispose of all matters involving alleged misconduct by an attorney by:

(a) dismissal of the complaint. A dismissal of a complaint that has been docketed for formal investigation is effective only after review and concurrence by a reviewing officer;

(b) letter of caution;

(c) informal admonition. An informal admonition may be made by disciplinary counsel only after review and approval by a reviewing officer; or

(d) the filing of formal charges with the Disciplinary Board;

(4) to prosecute all disciplinary proceedings before hearing committees, the Disciplinary Board and the Supreme Court either in person or through assistant counsel; and

(5) to seek to resolve informally allegations which on their face would not, even if true, involve violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct but which are of concern to the complainant and could easily be corrected by the attorney.

C. Duties. Disciplinary counsel shall have the duty:

(1) to receive or initiate in the first instance all complaints, and to maintain docket control, files and records upon any matter upon which an investigation is initiated;

(2) to appear at hearings conducted upon motions for reinstatement by suspended or disbarred attorneys; to cross-examine witnesses testifying in support of the motions and to present any evidence in opposition to reinstatement either in person or through assistant counsel;

(3) to maintain permanent records of all matters processed and the disposition thereof, and to act as the general administrative officer for the Disciplinary Board under its direction and supervision;

(4) to file quarterly status reports with the Disciplinary Board and the Supreme Court indicating the receipt, processing, and status of all complaints. A full explanation shall be orally presented to the board for any matters pending in investigation for over ninety (90) days; and

(5) to keep all complaints and other disciplinary matters confidential except as otherwise provided by these rules.

D. Investigators. The Disciplinary Board may appoint one or more experienced investigators to assist disciplinary counsel in the performance of their duties under these rules. Such investigator shall serve under terms and conditions, and for such period and compensation, as may, from time to time, be specified by the board, and shall be subject to the rules of the board regarding confidentiality of investigations conducted by disciplinary counsel.

E. Private Practice Prohibited. Full time salaried disciplinary counsel or assistant disciplinary counsel shall not engage in the private practice of law. With prior permission of the Disciplinary Board, full-time salaried disciplinary counsel may speak, write, lecture, teach and participate in other activities concerning the law, the legal system and the administration of justice.

APPENDIX H

N.M.R.A. RULE 17-301. APPLICABILITY OF RULES; APPLICATION OF RULES OF CIVIL PROCEDURE; SERVICE

A. Application of Rules. This article governs the procedure in disciplinary proceedings before the New Mexico Supreme Court, the Disciplinary Board and its hearing committees and reviewing officers.

B. Application of Rules of Civil Procedure. Except where clearly inapplicable to disciplinary proceedings or inconsistent with or otherwise provided for by these rules, the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts of New Mexico shall be used in formal disciplinary proceedings.

C. Service. Except as otherwise provided in these rules, the specification of changes, all pleadings, notices, motions, orders or other papers required to be served may be served on a party unless the party is represented by an attorney in which case service may be upon the attorney. Service upon an attorney or upon a party shall be made by delivering a copy to him or by mailing it to him at the address listed on the most recent registration statement filed under Rule 17-202. Delivering of a copy within this rule means: handing it to the attorney or to the party; or leaving it at his office with his clerk or other person in charge thereof; or if there is no one in charge, leaving it in a conspicuous place therein; or if the office is closed or the person to be served has no office, leaving it at his dwelling house or usual place of abode with some person of suitable age and discretion therein. Service by mail is complete upon mailing and shall constitute notice as required by these rules.

D. Proof of Service. Except as otherwise provided in these rules or by order of the Supreme Court or Disciplinary Board, proof of service of any pleading, motion, order or other paper required to be served shall be made by the certificate of the attorney of record, or if made by any other person, by the affidavit of such person. Such certificate or affidavit shall be filed with the Disciplinary Board or with the Supreme Court, as appropriate, or endorsed on the pleading, motion or other paper required to be served.

E. Additional Time After Service by Mail. Whenever a party has the right or is required to do some act or take some proceedings within a prescribed period after the service of a notice or other paper upon him and the notice or paper is served upon him by mail, three (3) days shall be added to the prescribed period.

APPENDIX I

N.M.R.A. RULE 17-306. REQUIRED PRESENCE OF ATTORNEY; SUBPOENA POWER

A. During investigation.

(1) Disciplinary counsel, at any stage of an investigation after the respondent-attorney has been notified of the investigation, may serve interrogatories on the respondent-attorney. Each interrogatory shall be answered separately and fully in writing under oath, unless it is objected to, in which event the reasons for objection shall be stated in lieu of an answer. The answers are to be signed by the person making them. The respondent-attorney shall serve a copy of the answers and objections, if any, to the office of disciplinary counsel within thirty (30) days after service of the interrogatories. The chair of the Disciplinary Board may allow a shorter or longer time in which to file answers upon a motion filed by either the respondent-attorney or disciplinary counsel within ten (10) days of service of the interrogatories on the respondent-attorney. The interrogatory answers may be used by disciplinary counsel at any future hearings in the investigation.

(2) Disciplinary counsel at any stage of an investigation after the respondent attorney has been notified of the investigation, may request or invite the respondent attorney to appear before a reviewing officer and answer questions related to allegations under investigation by disciplinary counsel. The invitation or request shall be accompanied by a statement from disciplinary counsel describing the allegations being investigated and the areas about which the respondent-attorney will be asked to comment. At an appearance before a reviewing officer, the respondent-attorney has a right to the presence of counsel, the right to make opening and closing statements and the right to introduce documentary evidence. A taped record will be made of the respondent attorney's responses, a copy of which will be provided to the respondent-attorney.

(3) The chair of the Disciplinary Board, at any stage of the investigation after the respondent-attorney has been notified of the investigation, may issue a subpoena for the production of records and other documents of the respondent-attorney or any other witness necessary to the investigation as well as for requiring the presence and testimony of witnesses or the respondent-attorney under oath. The respondent-attorney shall have notice of the subpoena, shall have the right to be present and cross-examine witnesses and shall have the right to be accompanied by counsel.

(4) If it appears that the respondent attorney or a witness may alter, destroy, secrete or remove from the jurisdiction of this state any books, records, documents or other evidence relevant or material to an investigation, at any stage of the investigation, disciplinary counsel, if authorized by the Disciplinary Board may petition the Supreme Court for an order to compel the attendance of witnesses before a hearing committee and the production before a hearing committee of any books, records, documents or other evidence relevant or material to an investigation before notifying the respondent attorney. The petition shall contain or have attached a sworn written statement of facts showing probable cause to believe that the records may be altered, destroyed, secreted or removed from the State of New Mexico. Any and all proceedings before the Supreme Court pursuant to this subparagraph shall be conducted in camera and shall be kept under the seal of the Supreme Court.

B. Formal disciplinary proceedings. At request of either disciplinary counsel or the respondent-attorney, the chair of a hearing committee may issue subpoenas:

(1) requiring the presence of a witness at a deposition for discovery which has been authorized pursuant to Rule 17-311 NMRA and which, if so authorized, may command the witness to produce the designated books, papers, documents or tangible things;

(2) requiring the person to whom the subpoena is directed to produce and permit inspection and copying of designated books, documents or tangible things in the possession, custody or control of that person, or to permit inspection of premises at a specified time and place. A command to produce evidence or to permit inspection may be joined with a command to appear at a hearing or at deposition, or may be issued separately;

(3) requiring the presence of witnesses at a formal hearing before a hearing committee or the Disciplinary Board;

(4) commanding the person to whom it is directed to produce at a formal hearing before a hearing committee the books, papers, documents or tangible things designated therein.

C. Contents. No subpoena shall be issued pursuant to this rule unless it sets forth:

(1) the reason or purpose for the investigation or hearing;

(2) with reasonable definiteness, any records or other documents to be produced which are relevant to the investigation or hearing;

(3) a statement that the witness has a right to be accompanied by counsel; and

(4) the date, time and place at which the witness is to appear.

D. Enforcement.

(1) Failure to cooperate with an investigation of the Disciplinary Board, or failure to respond to letters from disciplinary counsel regarding an investigation shall be grounds for submission of a motion to the Supreme Court to order that the offending respondent-attorney be held in contempt of court.

(2) Any person who has been served with a subpoena pursuant to this rule may apply to the officer issuing the subpoena for an order to quash the subpoena. If any person fails to comply with a subpoena issued by the chair of the Disciplinary Board or the chair of a hearing committee in accordance with the provisions of this rule or refuses to take the oath or affirmation as a witness or thereafter refuses to be examined, at the request of the officer issuing the subpoena, disciplinary counsel may apply to the Supreme Court for an order directing that person to take the requisite action. The Supreme Court may issue such order or may quash the subpoena. Should any person willfully fail to comply with an order of the Supreme Court, the court may punish such person for contempt of court.

E. Subpoena; request of another jurisdiction. The chair of the Disciplinary Board, or a member of the board designated by the chair, may issue a subpoena to compel the attendance of witnesses and production of documents in this state for use in lawyer disciplinary or disability proceedings in another jurisdiction. The subpoena may be requested by disciplinary counsel of this state when the request is by the disciplinary authority of the other jurisdiction, or an attorney admitted to practice in this state when the request is by a respondent in a proceeding in another jurisdiction. The person seeking the subpoena shall certify that the subpoena has been approved or authorized under the law or disciplinary rules of the other jurisdiction. Service, enforcement and challenges to a subpoena issued pursuant to this paragraph shall be in accordance with the Rules Governing Discipline.

[Amended effective Aug. 31, 1995; Jan. 3, 2006.]

APPENDIX J

N.M.R.A. Rule 17-307 INVESTIGATION OF COMPLAINTS

A. Initiation. Chief disciplinary counsel, deputy disciplinary counsel or assistant counsel designated by the chair of the Disciplinary Board shall initiate all investigations, whether upon complaint or otherwise. Investigations shall be conducted by disciplinary counsel staff attorneys or referred to an appropriate assistant counsel or commissioned investigator for report and recommendations. Investigations, examinations and verifications shall be conducted so as to preserve the private confidential nature of the lawyer's records insofar as is consistent with these rules and law.

B. Disposition prior to formal investigation. If the complaint does not set forth allegations which if true state reasonable cause to believe that a respondent-attorney has violated the Rules of Professional Conduct, a disciplinary counsel staff attorney may dismiss the complaint, provided that all doubts shall be resolved in favor of conducting a formal hearing. Within thirty (30) days after receipt of a complaint, if the allegations are serious enough to warrant a formal investigation the office of disciplinary counsel shall notify the respondent-attorney of the nature of the complaint. Upon good cause shown to the Supreme Court, the Court may order the delay in notifying the respondent-attorney of the pending investigation. Upon the request of any person affected by a dismissal, or sua sponte, the chair of the Disciplinary Board or a board member designated by the chair may, at any time, order further investigation of a complaint that has been dismissed by a disciplinary counsel staff attorney.

C. Procedure of formal investigation. Prior to the filing of a formal specification of charges with the Disciplinary Board the respondent-attorney shall always be advised of the general nature of the allegations and shall be given a fair opportunity to present any matter of fact or mitigation the respondent-attorney wants disciplinary counsel to consider. With the consent of the respondent-attorney, disciplinary counsel may conduct any part of the investigation in the form of an informal hearing allowing parties to present evidence and requiring them to answer questions in compliance with Rule 17-306 NMRA.

D. Investigation report. If disciplinary counsel determines the file should be reviewed by a reviewing officer pursuant to Paragraph B of Rule 17-104 NMRA, disciplinary counsel shall write a brief summary report to include the following:

(1) a summary statement of the facts of the situation with reference to the provisions of the Rules of Professional Conduct or other rule or law claimed to have been violated, and a statement of whether or not disciplinary counsel believes that there is probable cause to believe any violation has occurred;

(2) a statement of the opposing positions of the parties and of the facts disciplinary counsel believes would find support in the evidence, together with an analysis of the probable result of a hearing in the event formal charges were filed;

(3) recommendations for further handling in accordance with this rule.

E. Review prior to filing formal charges. Any deputy disciplinary counsel or assistant counsel designated by the chair of the Disciplinary Board shall present a draft of the proposed specification of charges to chief disciplinary counsel prior to filing the specification of charges. Chief disciplinary counsel shall either:

(1) approve the filing of the specification of charges; or

(2) recommend an alternate course of action consistent with these rules.

F. Special counsel; special board. If an investigation pursuant to Paragraph A of this rule appears appropriate, whether upon complaint filed or otherwise, relating to disciplinary counsel, a member of a hearing committee, or a member of the board; relating to a spouse, parent, child or sibling of disciplinary counsel or a board member; or relating to a partner or associate of a board member, the matter shall proceed in accordance with these rules except that:

(1) the board shall appoint a special counsel, who shall proceed in accordance with Paragraph B of Rule 17-105 NMRA; and

(2) if the respondent is a member of the board or is a spouse, parent, child or sibling of a board member, the chief justice shall appoint a special board consisting of three members of the bar to hear the case and to report its findings, conclusions and recommendations directly to the Supreme Court.

[Amended effective Oct. 25, 1996; Nov. 30, 2004; Jan. 15, 2007.]

APPENDIX K

N.M.R.A. RULE 17-309. FORMAL CHARGES; DESIGNATION OF HEARING OFFICER OR COMMITTEE

A. Institution of proceedings. Formal disciplinary proceedings shall be instituted by the filing of a specification of charges with the chair of the Disciplinary Board and the issuance by the chair of a formal notice to the respondent-attorney. A copy of the notice, together with a copy of the specification of charges shall be served upon the respondent-attorney.

B. Contents of specification of charges. The specification of charges shall contain:

(1) a brief and plain statement of the charge, or if more than one, each of the separate charges of professional misconduct asserted against the respondent-attorney;

(2) the provisions of the Rules of Professional Conduct, court rule, statute or other law claimed to have been violated;

(3) the names and addresses of all known witnesses against the respondent-attorney;

(4) all known factors in aggravation; and

(5) the name and address of the particular disciplinary counsel who is expected to prosecute the matter. Specification of charges shall be signed by chief disciplinary counsel or by the full-time deputy disciplinary counsel.

C. Designation of hearing officer or committee and notice. Upon filing of the specification of charges, the chair of the Disciplinary Board, or the chair's designee, shall forthwith designate a hearing officer or a hearing committee to hear the matter, and shall mail copies of the specification of charges to the hearing officer or to the members of the committee. The chair shall issue a formal notice to the respondent-attorney which shall advise the respondent-attorney that formal charges of unprofessional conduct have been instituted against the respondent-attorney and referred for hearing to a hearing officer or hearing committee giving the names and addresses of the members thereof and identification of its chair. The notice shall formally advise the respondent-attorney of the following:

(1) the right to file an answer to the specification of charges;

(2) the facts alleged in the specification of charges shall be deemed admitted if not specifically denied by answer or if no answer is filed within the prescribed time, in which event the sole issue to be determined by the hearing officer or committee shall be the nature of the officer's or committee's recommendation of discipline to the Disciplinary Board after consideration of any facts in aggravation or mitigation of the respondent-attorney's fault;

(3) the respondent-attorney has the right to be represented by counsel, to appear at all hearings, to confront and cross-examine the witnesses and to present relevant evidence in the respondent-attorneys own behalf;

(4) the right to the assistance of subpoenas to be issued at the respondent-attorney's request and to discovery in accordance with these rules; and

(5) within ten (10) days of receipt of notification of the designation of the members of a hearing committee, the respondent-attorney has the right to object to the qualification of the hearing officer or any member of the hearing committee setting forth facts which establish that such member cannot impartially decide the matter. Any objection to the qualification of any member of the hearing committee to sit and deliberate upon the matter must be filed with the committee chair and will be passed upon by members of said committee in the exercise of their sound discretion. Any objection to the qualification of a hearing officer shall be to the chair of the Disciplinary Board. A hearing officer or any member of a hearing committee who feels unable to sit impartially in any disciplinary proceeding may withdraw upon the filing of a notice of recusal stating the reasons for the recusal.

D. Service. Service of the specification of charges and formal notice shall be made upon the respondent-attorney in the manner prescribed by these rules. A copy of any procedural rules adopted by the Supreme Court or Disciplinary Board which have not been published in the NMRA shall be served on the respondent-attorney with the specification of charges.

If service is by mail it shall be by certified mail, return receipt requested, directed to the respondent-attorney's address of record in the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court and shall be complete upon receipt by the respondent-attorney, or five (5) days after service or mailing, whichever is earlier.

[Amended effective Jan. 15, 2007.]

APPENDIX L

N.M.R.A. RULE 17-313. HEARINGS

A. Time for Commencement. Within thirty (30) days after the expiration of time for filing an answer, the chairman of the hearing committee shall set a time and date for a formal hearing on the charges. The formal hearing shall be set no later than one hundred and twenty (120) days from the date of the expiration of time for filing an answer. Upon a showing of good cause, the chairman of the disciplinary board may extend the time for the commencement of the hearing.

B. Notice of Hearings. The chairman of the hearing committee shall give prompt written notice of the time and place of the hearings to the parties.

C. Record of Proceedings. The chairman of the hearing committee shall arrange for the taking of a record of all evidence received during the course of the hearing. The expense for the transcript of proceedings shall be paid for by the Disciplinary Board, but may be assessed against the respondent-attorney in accordance with Paragraph B of Rule 17-106. The record in all disciplinary hearings may be taken on an audio recording device approved by the administrative office of the courts or the chairman of the hearing committee shall arrange for a stenographic record of the proceedings to be prepared. The committee shall cause a copy of the record to be filed with the Disciplinary Board, together with the hearing committee's file of all pleadings and other material submitted to it and all exhibits. The record of the hearing shall comply with the Rules Governing the Recording of Judicial Proceedings.

D. Procedure of Hearings. Formal hearings will proceed in the following manner:

(1) formal hearings will be adversary in nature, prosecuted by disciplinary counsel and determined by a majority vote of the hearing committee. The chairman of the Disciplinary Board or, in emergencies, the vice chairman of the Disciplinary Board, may designate members of another committee to substitute for any absent or disqualified member, if necessary;

(2) all witnesses shall be sworn;

(3) disciplinary counsel shall present evidence in support of all allegations in the specification of charges, followed by the respondent's evidence;

(4) the committee chairman shall preside and shall make rulings upon questions of admissibility of evidence and conduct of proceedings;

(5) all committee members may ask questions of any witness, including the respondent-attorney, at any stage of the proceedings;

(6) hearings may be adjourned from time to time at the discretion of the chairman of the hearing committee;

(7) the complaining witness or witnesses, the respondent-attorney and disciplinary counsel may be present throughout the formal hearing. Other witnesses may be excluded, except when testifying, at the discretion of the chairman of the committee; and

(8) within ten (10) days after the conclusion of the hearing or within a time period otherwise agreed to by the parties and the committee, both parties shall have the right to submit proposed findings and conclusions after which the hearing committee shall consider the case and shall, within thirty (30) days after the requested findings and conclusions are submitted, prepare, sign and transmit to the Disciplinary Board its findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations for discipline or other disposition of the matter. Upon the request of the chairman of the hearing committee and upon a showing of good cause, the chairman of the Disciplinary Board may extend the time for preparation and transmission to the Disciplinary Board of the committee's findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations, which request may be made before or after the thirty (30) days, but such extension shall not exceed an additional sixty (60) days without a further showing of good cause.

E. Notice of Findings, Conclusions and Recommendations. Upon the filing in his office of the record of the formal hearing and the findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations of any hearing committee, the chairman of the Disciplinary Board shall give written notice of the filing date thereof with copies of the findings, conclusions and recommendations to chief disciplinary counsel, prosecuting disciplinary counsel, the respondent and counsel for the respondent. The respondent may request a copy of the record of proceedings directly from the court reporter and at the respondent's own expense. At the same time, the chairman shall advise the parties that they have ten (10) days from the date of mailing of the findings, conclusions and recommendations to request oral argument or permission to submit briefs before the Disciplinary Board if they wish to do so, and shall advise them of the names of the members of the panel of the board that will be designated to consider the matter.

F. Record Defined. As used in these rules, "record" means:

(1) a tape which was recorded by an audio recording device approved by the administrative office of the courts for use in the district courts of this state. Where the transcript of the proceedings is a tape, the chairman of the hearing committee shall cause an index log to be prepared for the tape. The tapes shall not be transcribed for purposes of an appeal;

(2) a statement of facts and proceedings stipulated to by the parties for purposes of review; or

(3) stenographic notes which must be transcribed when a "record" is required to be filed.

APPENDIX M

N.M.R.A. RULE 17-314. CONSIDERATION BY THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD

A. Appointment of Hearing Panel. Upon receipt of the findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations of the hearing committee, the chair of the Disciplinary Board shall appoint one or more members of the board to serve as a hearing panel, with one member designated as chair.

B. Submission of Briefs and Requests for Oral Argument. On written request of a party or a panel member, the chair of the panel may allow oral argument or submission of briefs. Requests for oral argument and for submission of briefs shall be filed with the panel chair within seven (7) days after service of the findings of fact, conclusions and recommendations of the hearing committee and shall state with specificity the issues to be addressed in the proposed argument or brief

C. No Additional Evidence Before the Board. The Disciplinary Board panel shall consider only evidence in the record of the hearing committee. No additional evidence will be admitted at the hearing before the board.

D. Oral Argument. When oral argument is allowed, the party requesting the oral argument shall proceed first, but may reserve a portion of the allotted time for rebuttal. The amount of time for oral argument may be determined by the panel.

E. Proceedings on Remand. If the Supreme Court remands a matter to the Disciplinary Board for evidentiary proceedings pursuant to Paragraph G of Rule 17-206 or Paragraph B of Rule 17-208, the chair shall assign the case to a panel of one or more members of the Disciplinary Board and shall appoint a member of the panel to chair the panel. The panel shall hold a hearing within thirty (30) days of the assignment. Upon a showing of good cause, the chair of the Disciplinary Board may grant an extension of time within which the hearing may be held. The panel shall follow the procedures set forth in Rule 17-313 as if the panel were a hearing committee, except that the panel shall forward the record of the proceedings and its findings and recommendations directly to the Supreme Court.

[Amended effective May 16, 1994; Jan. 1, 1995.]

APPENDIX N

N.M.R.A. RULE 17-316. REVIEW BY THE SUPREME COURT

A. Decisions subject to review. There are three methods for seeking review by the Supreme Court of a recommendation or decision of the Disciplinary Board entered pursuant to Rule 17-315 NMRA:

(1) if the decision recommends public censure by the Supreme Court, suspension, disbarment, reinstatement after suspension or disbarment or denial of reinstatement after suspension or disbarment, a respondent-attorney or disciplinary counsel may request a hearing before the Supreme Court by filing a request for hearing with the clerk of the Supreme Court within fifteen (15) days of service of the decision and recommendations of the Disciplinary Board on the party requesting the hearing which the court, in its discretion, may grant,

(2) if the decision of the board is to assess costs, to impose a formal public reprimand by the board or to impose or terminate probation, within fifteen (15) days of service of the decision, the respondent-attorney or disciplinary counsel may petition the Supreme Court for a hearing, which the Court, in its discretion, may grant. The petition must allege one of the following:

(a) the decision of the Disciplinary Board is in conflict with a decision of the Supreme Court;

(b) a significant question of law is involved;

(c) there is no substantial evidence in the record to support a material finding of fact upon which the decision of the Disciplinary Board is based; or

(d) the petition involves an issue of substantial public interest that should be determined by the Supreme Court; or

(3) if the decision of the board is to dismiss the charges, within fifteen (15) days of service of the decision, the respondent-attorney or disciplinary counsel may petition the Supreme Court for a hearing, which the Court, in its discretion, may grant. The petition must allege one or more of the following:

(a) the decision of the Disciplinary Board is in conflict with a decision of the Supreme Court;

(b) a significant question of law is involved;

(c) there is no substantial evidence in the record to support a material finding of fact upon which the decision of the Disciplinary Board is based; or

(d) the petition involves an issue of substantial public interest that should be determined by the Supreme Court.

B. Procedure. If a hearing is held in accordance with this rule, the clerk of the Supreme Court shall notify the respondent-attorney and disciplinary counsel of the time and place of the hearing. Proper notice shall be presumed by mailing to the address on file in the Supreme Court office. Briefs shall be submitted only if requested by the Supreme Court. In this event, the clerk of the court will advise the parties of dates when their respective briefs must be submitted and the issues which are to be addressed. The form of any such briefs shall be that which is prescribed by the Rules of Appellate Procedure.

C. Failure to request a hearing. If, within fifteen (15) days from the date that the recommendations of the Disciplinary Board are served, a respondent-attorney or disciplinary counsel has not requested or petitioned for a hearing with the Supreme Court in accordance with this rule, and:

(1) the recommendation is for public censure by the Supreme Court, suspension or disbarment, the Supreme Court may issue a mandate accepting the recommendations of the Disciplinary Board or it may take such other action as it deems appropriate;

(2) the decision is to impose a formal reprimand by the Disciplinary Board or probation, the Disciplinary Board may publish the public reprimand or place the attorney on probation in accordance with its decision.

D. Supreme Court decision. The Supreme Court, in its discretion and under such conditions as it may specify, may:

(1) reject any or all of the findings, conclusions or recommendations of the Disciplinary Board;

(2) accept any or all of the findings and conclusions of the board;

(3) impose the discipline recommended by the board or any other greater or lesser discipline that it deems appropriate under the circumstances including disbarment; or

(4) impose probation or other conditions as a type of discipline by itself or may defer the effect of the discipline imposed.

[Amended effective April 12, 2001; Jan. 15, 2007.]

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO

In the Matter of

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Licensed to Practice Before the Courts of the State of New Mexico

Disciplinary No. 02-2006-505

OBJECTIONS OF DISCIPLINARY COUNSEL TO RESPONDENT'S SECOND REQUEST FOR DISCOVERY

Respondent's "second" request for discovery is, in reality, his fifth request for discovery, the four prior requests having been denied by the hearing committee. The same arguments now being made, namely, that respondent does not understand the Specification of Charges and needs information to connect his conduct with the violations of Rules of Professional Conduct and that he needs to depose the named witnesses to find out what their testimony will be have been made in one form or another in respondent's Alternate Motion To Dismiss filed on May 1, 2006 and subsequently denied; respondent's Motion To Continue and Request For Discovery both of which were filed on July 3, 2006 and both of which were denied and respondent's Motion To Recess made on August 28, 2006 which was also denied. The Second Request is merely a rehash of prior arguments made by respondent and rejected. Moreover, one would be hard put to find a pleading filed by respondent that did not contain a request to delay, recess or continue the hearing of this matter. Respondent's Second Request is no exception.

It is significant that this matter was pending for almost five months before respondent filed his Request For Discovery on July 3, 2006 and then only after a hearing date was set. It is also significant that the Request For Discovery was accompanied by a Motion To Continue. If respondent's professed need for the information he now purportedly seeks was legitimate, he certainly would have proceeded expeditiously to seek discovery instead of waiting until a continuance of the hearing would be required to accommodate his requests unless, of course, a continuance was the purpose of the discovery request in the first place. When one views the procedural history of this matter, respondent's claim that the Chair "rushed the Respondent to the hearing on the merits on August 28, 2006," fully six months after the Specification of Charges were filed, is ridiculous. Respondent's real purpose here is not to obtain discovery but to delay these proceedings.

Respondent would do well to re-examine his prior Request For Discovery before accusing disciplinary counsel of lying to the hearing committee regarding respondent's prior discovery attempts. The fact is that respondent never requested permission to depose Mr. MacKenzie. Respondent's generic request was and is for permission to depose "all witnesses" to "find out what their testimony will be at the final hearing, to explain inconsistencies with any of the positions previously taken based on the other discovery materials then produced and any other matters pertinent to the veracity of their expected testimony," in other words, the broadest kind of fishing expedition. No particularized need was or is shown to take Mr. MacKenzie's deposition or, for that matter, the deposition of anyone else.

Respondent's proposed Request To Produce is moot. Respondent has already been furnished with disciplinary counsel's exhibits as well as all documents responsive to respondent's subpoena.

Respondent [sic] assertion is [sic] support of his proposed Requests For Admissions and Interrogatories, that he needs to identify what actions on his part violates the Rules of Professional Conduct, have similarly been made and rejected. Unlike document discovery, Rules 1-033 and 1-036 of the Rules of Procedure for District Courts, restrict interrogatories and requests for admissions to parties. Disciplinary counsel is not a "party" to disciplinary proceedings any more than a district attorney is a party to criminal proceedings and the service of interrogatories and requests for admissions on disciplinary counsel is improper.

Moreover, the service of interrogatories and requests for admissions on disciplinary counsel is simply an attempt by respondent to secure the testimony of disciplinary counsel by indirect means. This issue has been previously dealt with (as have all of the issues now raised by respondent) by the hearing committee in granting the Motions To Quash the subpoenas served by respondent on disciplinary counsel.

In Stuart L. Stein, Esq. v. Robert P. Tinnin, Jr., Esq., et. al. No. 29, 927, the New Mexico Supreme Court in an Order dated August 23, 2006 summarily denied respondent's Petition For Extraordinary Writ in which he alleged, inter-alia, that a complete denial of discovery in a disciplinary case is a denial of federal and state due process. In short, respondent's discovery contentions have not only been rejected numerous times by the hearing committee in this matter but by the Supreme Court as well. For the reasons stated herein, they should be rejected once again.

APPENDIX R

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEW MEXICO

Case Number: 02-2006-505

IN RE:

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.,

An Attorney Admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court of New Mexico, Respondent.

SECOND REQUEST FOR DISCOVERY

COMES NOW Respondent Stuart L. Stein, Esq., by and through the undersigned firm, and under the authority of Rule 17-311 of the Rules Governing Discipline seeks permission from the chairman of the hearing committee, for a second time, to conduct the following discovery:

INTRODUCTION

The Chair previously denied all discovery in this matter and rushed the Respondent to the hearing on the merits on August 28, 2006. After three days of motions and testimony, it is clear that Deputy Disciplinary Counsel did not professionally and adequately investigate or prosecute this case. Should Respondent only have had his Due Process rights allowed with adequate discovery, this cause could have been determined on motions for summary judgment or on other dispositive motions.

The misleading and unethical actions of Mr. Widman in denying matters concerning the confidentiality of the materials he has received from Judge Vanzi, Mr. MacKenzie and others is already self evident. During the testimony of Mr. MacKenzie, when the undersigned was attempting to get information from the witness the following took place:

> MR. WIDMAN: Well, you know, I think what he's trying to do is conduct discovery in the course of this hearing, I don't think that's proper. He's never tried to take his deposition. He never tried to legitimately take any discovery with respect to Mr. MacKenzie.

Transcript, pg. 500, line 15 to 21, emphasis supplied. This italicized statement is an absolute lie. If there is anything clear on the face of this record from the very beginning of this case is the fact that the undersigned has demanded his Due Process rights to discovery. Mr. Widman's position on the record is clear: he has claimed no discovery is needed and the Chair has agreed and refused to allow any discovery.

The information revealed since the start of the hearing on the merits, including the materials supplied this last week, is proof positive of Mr. Widman's abuse of the system and failure of his duty of candor to this tribunal. The only remedy is to now allow full discovery prior to the re-setting of the hearing on the merits. Discovery must be granted to level the playing field. Therefore, Respondent again asks that the Chair allow the following discovery, as was effectively previously first requested and denied:

I - REQUESTS TO PRODUCE

Showing of Need. Respondent needs to see all materials obtained by disciplinary counsel from third parties in their investigation to discover what will be introduced at the final hearing, what will not be produced at final hearing and written statements of witnesses that may have been obtained. The initial complaining witnesses, Judge Linda Vanzi, has not been listed as a witness by disciplinary counsel. Judge Vanzi may have provided materials to disciplinary counsel that were not forwarded with her initial complaint. Further, four witnesses listed in the Specification of Charges are attorneys. Production of what such attorneys provided to disciplinary counsel may have bearing on the question of any attorney-client privilege with their respective clients and the selective disclosure to prejudice the matter against Respondent. Without having these materials for review prior to deposition of the witnesses, complete preparation for the final hearing will be fatally flawed. This can only be done with a Request for Production directed to Petitioner and responded to by disciplinary counsel. Disciplinary counsel failed to respond to a June 22, 2006 letter from Respondent to obtain this material. See, Exhibit A, attached hereto.

Additionally, without knowing what is in the hands of Petitioner, Respondent is not in a position to know what not to request from the other witnesses upon their deposition(s) to avoid them producing the same materials.

II - REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS

Showing of Need. Respondent needs to narrow and clarify the issues concerning the specific violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct raised in the Specification of Charges. Since paragraph 3 of the Specification of Charges lists violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct different from those listed in paragraph 48 of the Specification of Charges and since this hearing committee has refused to allow the Motion to Dismiss partially based on this inherent inconsistent position, the only way Respondent can identify what violations Petitioner, through disciplinary counsel, intends to prove, amongst other issues, is by responses to Request for Admissions.

III - INTERROGATORIES

Showing of Need. Respondent needs to pin down under oath what actions taken on his part are considered by disciplinary counsel violations of the particular Rules of Professional Conduct. Without knowing what facts sought to be proved violate which Rules of Professional Conduct, Respondent is moving towards the final hearing blind. This can only be done with interrogatories propounded to Petitioner and responded to by disciplinary counsel.

IV – DEPOSITIONS

Showing of Need. Once the above requested discovery is obtained, depositions of all witnesses, including the complaining party, will be required to find out (1) what their testimony will be at the final hearing, (2) to explain inconsistencies with any of the positions previously taken based on the other discovery materials then produced and (3) any other matters pertinent to the veracity of their expected testimony. Further, since some witnesses are out of state, it may be impossible to have them appear at trial without unnecessary expense. Should their depositions be taken, their potential telephone testimony will be better able to be comprehended by this hearing committee and a better record will be had for review, should that be necessary. Further, because of the number of witnesses, the trial date may not find that all these witnesses are available for live testimony and their depositions will have to be read into the record for the hearing committee to consider.

WHEREFORE, Respondent prays that all the requested discovery should be GRANTED.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the original and a true copy of the foregoing was mailed to Robert P. Tinnin, Esq., Committee Chair, 500 Marquette N.W., Suite 1300, Albuquerque, NM 87102, John P. Eastham, Esq., 2201 San Pedro, N.E., Building 2, Suite

REPLY TO DISCIPLINARY COUNSEL'S MEMORANDUM IN OPPOSITION TO RESPONDENT'S REQUEST FOR HEARING, DISCOVERY AND TO CONTINUE

COMES NOW Respondent Stuart L. Stein, Esq., by and through the undersigned firm, and in Reply to the July 14, 2006 Memorandum in Opposition to Respondent's Request for Hearing, Discovery and to Continue the final hearing set for August 28, 2006 states as follows:

1 – INTRODUCTION

At this point, the hearing committee experience from the abbreviated formal hearing in Disciplinary No. 03-2006-507 on July 18, 2006: the Anaya case, is instructive. Respondent will recap the examination of Mrs. Jonas and then go on to proffer the evidence that would have been adduced concerning the actions of the office of Disciplinary Counsel in the Anaya case that, in the light most favorable to that office was questionable and in the light most favorable to the Respondent, outrageous unethical behavior. Respondent asks that the chair and this hearing committee understand that liberal discovery would have allowed disclosure of important information which would have either lead to the voluntary dismissal of the Anaya case by reasonable discipline counsel or the dismissal of the case by this hearing committee upon motion by Respondent after discovery would have supported his points.

A. Examination of Mrs. Jonas

The testimony of the main witness, Mrs. Jonas, would be described by Shakespeare as being full of sound and fury, signifying nothing: she was unable to remember any conversations or statements of Respondent supporting allegations in the Specification of Charges. She was shown to have given one statement under oath on a the simple fact of a telephone call to her mother before this hearing committee and an entirely different statement when she swore before a notary and signed the civil complaint against Respondent.

Mrs. Jonas admitted that the advertising flyer she saw and studied concerning the seminar she and her husband attended concerned long term care in a nursing home paid for by Medicaid. She further admitted that the seminar was two hours in length and what was discussed was long term care in a nursing home paid for by Medicaid. She also admitted that the only issue discussed when she and her mother came to Respondent's office was long term care in a nursing home paid for by Medicaid. Then, incredulously, she testified that neither she nor her mother ever wanted Mr. Anaya to be cared for in a nursing home for long term care. This was the only part of the testimony that sounded truthful. This turned the entire case around. When Mrs. Anaya was questioned concerning the distinction made at the seminar by Respondent between long term care in a nursing home paid for by Medicaid and the Disabled and Elderly (or "D & E") Waiver she feigned forgetfulness and claimed that she was not good at details.

What bottomed the Maya case was not an ethical violation. It was a law school contract case about the failure to have a "meeting of the minds" of the two parties to the legal services agreement: Mrs. Anaya/ Mrs. Jonas and Respondent. Mrs. Jonas and her mother paid the fee subjectively thinking they were getting advice on the D & E Wavier program for part time help at home under Medicaid and Respondent provided advice on long term nursing home care under Medicaid that he spoke about at the seminar and at the consultation. Mrs. Jonas was confused and never correctly communicated her and her mother's desires for Mr. Anaya's care needs correctly to Respondent. Mrs. Jonas testified at least three times that she never conveyed to Respondent that she did not want her father in a nursing home.

Finally understanding the position of Mrs. Jonas and her mother, Respondent was stunned. Respondents' original thought concerning the reason for the refund evaporated: the client could get the same advice concerning long term nursing home care for free so they wanted their money back. Respondent instantly felt sympathy for a confused woman oppressed with the burden of taking care of her then debilitated father and an increasingly dependent mother. Mrs. Jonas and her mother deserved a refund of the fee. That was the essence of the discussion in the hall between Respondent and disciplinary counsel: Mrs. Jonas should not have to suffer further on the stand. She was entitled to a refund. Disciplinary counsel insisted on an informal admonition. Respondent agreed to the mild sanction bringing the matter to a quick conclusion and end what was turning into a painful cross examination of Mrs. Jonas for the purpose of accomplishing the right thing: refund of the fee.

B. Actions of the Office of Disciplinary Counsel.

The actions of one or more members of Disciplinary Counsel in the investigative stage of the Anaya case was despicable. When the fee dispute complaint was made by Mr. and Mrs. Jonas and Mrs. Anaya to the disciplinary board it was forwarded to the Respondent. Respondent suggested that the matter could be resolved by submitting the dispute to the fee arbitration service offered by the State Bar of New Mexico. Discipline counsel agreed to hold off any further investigation pending the resolution of the arbitration.

As soon as disciplinary counsel was informed that the fee dispute matter was going to binding arbitration, the office geared up to illegally and unethically interfere with the process. All of the egregious acts of the office of disciplinary counsel were outlined in federal court in a February 13, 2006 Motion and Memorandum and a February 21, 2006 Addendum to the Motion and Memorandum filed with the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico in case number CIV 04-0840 JB/DJS. See, Exhibits 1 and 2, attached hereto.[1]

As the exhibits irrefutable [sic] prove, Mr. Widman and/or someone from his office, disclosed confidential materials in this file prior to the filing of a Specification of Charges, thus violating the confidential nature of the proceedings under Rule 17-304 by discussing the matter with the Arbitrator prior to the hearing on the arbitration. Mr. Widman continued to have secret contact with the arbitrator and obtained the arbitration decision prior to it being circulated to the Respondent and the complaints' [sic] attorney. These contacts were never disclosed when they happened and were not disclosed by the arbitrator, making the arbitration award void under New Mexico law. See, N.M.S.A. § 44-7A-13(b). The attorney for Mrs. Anaya agreed and requested the district judge to set aside the arbitration award.

[1] Although the federal court denied the relief of leave to file an amended complaint because of technical reasons, the facts supporting the cause of action speak for themselves concerning the actions of disciplinary counsel.

Yet, Mr. Widman, having actual or constructive knowledge that the arbitration award was to be set aside, did nothing to withdraw all allegations in the Specification of Charges that made reference to the arbitration award. Yet, he and/or his office was responsible for the time, effort and monies expended for the arbitration to have been for naught.

As stated in the federal papers, the actions of the office of disciplinary counsel in the Anaya case has been illegal, unethical and corrupt. Such infamous conduct would be of significant import for mitigation of any imposed sanctions, should there have even been a finding of a violation in the Anaya case.

C – Impact of Denial of Discovery.

In the Anaya case, this hearing committee denied a continuance of the final hearing and all requested discovery. It was Mr. Widman who demanded that a final hearing date be set prior to the ruling on the Motion to Dismiss. This hearing committee set the final hearing in Anaya and this instant case prior to the 15 days allowed for a Response by the undersigned on the setting request. The rules require that the final hearing be set no later than 120 days from the time an Answer is due. Pursuant to the Order entered by this hearing committee on June 22, 2006, the Answer was required to be filed on June 30, 2006.[2] That being the case, the Rules Governing Discipline then required the final hearing to be set no later than 120 days after June 30, 2006. Rule 17-313.A. This brings us to Monday, October 30, 2006 since the 120th day comes on the weekend before this date.

In the Anaya case, this hearing committee rushed Respondent to final hearing 18 days after the Answer was due without any discovery what-so-ever. Although the final result of the Anaya case was fair and just, putting aside the admonition, it was not a complete exoneration that Respondent should have experienced because of the complete absence of discovery.

This hearing committee must keep in mind that all the pre-filing fact finding, interview of witnesses, accumulation of documentary evidence and other materials accomplished by disciplinary counsel was done without notice to Respondent. Admittedly, notice to Respondent is not required under the rules. This denies Respondent any right to object to such discovery. Yet, the Rules require the Respondent to request and show need for discovery once a Specification of

[2] The actual Answer was served on July 3, 2006 – the Monday following the June 30, 2006 date.

Charges are filed. Rule 17-311. This is inherently unfair and constitutionally infirm.

C. [sic] Inability to Prove Inherent Unfairness of Attorney Disciplinary System.

This hearing committee has stricken the counterclaim which would have given the ability to Respondent to prove the inherent unfairness of the entire attorney disciplinary system. Although Respondent accepts this ruling, this hearing committee must take notice that disciplinary counsel has all the discovery tools to obtain everything they need to prove their case at a final hearing prior to filing a Specification of Charges. If they did not, the filing of the Specification of Charges, itself, is an unethical act. See, Rule 16-308, Rules of Professional Conduct.

It is only by being conscience [sic] of the past actions of the office of disciplinary counsel, outlined above, that the chair and this hearing committee can make an informed decision on the discovery and continuance requests of Respondent.

II – REQUEST FOR HEARING

Disciplinary counsel does not want a hearing. This is no surprise. Without a hearing, members of this hearing committee are denied the opportunity to question him on his past actions and why he believes Respondent should not have to provide any discovery whatsoever. The experience of this Respondent is that the office of disciplinary counsel by omission or commission goes out of its way to mislead and secret information. Without oral argument to pin them down, one never gets a straight answer. Interference in the search for the truth was evident at the Anaya hearing. When asked for proof that Chief Disciplinary Counsel reviewed and approved the Specification of Charges, Mr. Widman admitted that he has no proof, although Virginia L. Ferrara, Chief Disciplinary Counsel, stated under oath at deposition the following:

A . . . I don't know what it's called, just [a] one page thing that I sign, and it says, on this date I reviewed the charges and approved them for filing or disapproved them or approved them with modification – check, check, check.

Q Okay

A And the date.

Q And that's on the inside of the file itself, or is that kept in a separate place?

A It's in the working file.

Q All right. The working file that is held by the discipline counsel in charge of prosecuting the case?

A Yes.

Q And is this just a one-page item that you sign that just concerns this review prior to filing?

A Yes.

See, Exhibit 3, Page 22, line 6 and following. Although this was raised in the Motion to Dismiss that was denied by this hearing committee, we only found out the truth at the final hearing when Respondent demanded to see this sign-off sheet and Mr. Widman admitted it does not exist when Respondent asked the Chair to require that it be brought in after the lunch break. Mr. Widman never addressed this point in his June 6, 2006 late response to the Motion to Dismiss. This is just another instance of the office of disciplinary counsel misleading by omission when the Rules of Profession Responsibility requires candor. See, Rule 16-303 and 16-304. Disciplinary counsel has been doing this for so many years that their ethical compass could not find true north concerning their own actions if they tried.

Because of the duplicitous past actions of disciplinary counsel, a hearing on every motion should be mandatory to assure that the chair and this hearing committee can ascertaining [sic] that it is being presented with the whole truth.

A hearing will allow both parties to discuss and agree on – or the chair or the committee will rule on – the logistics of the discovery, such as to setting dates and times [sic] periods.

This hearing committee should grant a hearing on the discovery and continuance request to assure fairness and Due Process.

III – RESPONDENT HAS DEMONSTRATED NEED

Putting aside the underlying unfairness that Petitioner did all their discovery and were ready for the final hearing at the time they filed the Specification of Charges and seeks to deny Respondent similar discovery after the filing of charges, Petitioner's position to deny all requested discovery is based on six points: (1) Respondent served his Answer to the Specification of Charges; (2) Respondent should have been served his discovery request on March 20, 2006; (3) requesting materials obtained by discipline counsel wouldn't inform Respondent what will be introduced at the hearing; (4) requests for admissions and interrogatories can't pin down what actions of Respondent violated what charged Rule of Professional Conduct; (5) that depositions won't give Respondent information on what a deposed witness will state at trial under oath and, lastly, (6) that all the discovery requested is only for the purpose of harassment and delay. Each transparent objection will be easily traversed so the chair and this hearing committee can grant the discovery and continuance.

(1) Filing of an Answer Does Not Negate Necessity of Discovery.

This is a false objection. Once a Motion to Dismiss is denied, an Answer needs to be served. Pleadings in civil, criminal and administrative actions allow the parties to determine what they need to prove or refute at a final hearing. Since the hearing committee saw fit not to dismiss the Specification of Charges or require a more definite statement, discovery is used to crystalize the position of the opposite party. Discipline counsel attempts to snooker the chair and this hearing committee with sophomoric reasoning to deny all discovery: it is intellectually dishonest and is not persuasive. Filing an Answer does not negate the requirement for adequate discovery.

(2) Discovery Request Was Timely.

In light of the proven historical lack of candor of disciplinary counsel, it would be foolish for any Respondent to ask for discovery prior to a ruling on a Motion to Dismiss. The Specification of Charges in this matter was an object lesson of poor draftsmanship and a complete absence of effective editing. For instance, there is no separation of specific claimed violations of the Rules of Professional Responsibility into separate Counts – basic pleading practice. And there are no paragraphs 14 to 32. Based on those points, alone, Respondent expected that the Motion to Dismiss would have been granted. It wasn't. If it was, any discovery requested in March directed to a potentially dismissed Specification of Charges would be worthless and a second round of discovery would have been required. The request was made the same day the Answer was served. This objection to discovery by disciplinary counsel is also without merit.

(3) Request for Production is Valid and Important.

In a unprofessional and transparent word game disciplinary counsel claims that production of all the materials he has obtained would not inform Respondent what will be introduced by him at trial. That's not the point. Clearly, some of the materials he has obtained will be introduced in evidence. This will be found out in the discovery process. But there may be materials that Mr. Widman does not plan to introduce for it may tend to prove that the Respondent has not violated a claimed Rule of Professional Responsibility. Respondent is entitled to see, inspect and copy these papers.

Disciplinary Counsel wants Respondent to first see any exhibits at the final hearing. If there is a clearer violation of the Due Process rights of Respondent to be on notice as to what will happen at the final hearing, it is difficult to conceptualize.

The Requests for Production should be allowed.

(4) Requests for Admissions and Interrogatories are Vital for Defense.

Since disciplinary counsel did not divide his Specification of Charges into specific counts concerning specific violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct, only written Requests for Admissions and Interrogatories can pin down what actions or inactions of Respondent amounted to violations. That, on its face, is a showing of need. Further, it is unknown if the attorneys listed as witnesses will be fact or expert witnesses. Since there is no cooperation, professional or otherwise, between the offices of the parties, this can only be discovered by written discovery.

Disciplinary counsel claims there is no provision in the Rules Governing Discipline or the Rules of Civil Procedure that requests for admission can be directed to opposing counsel. Although that statement is correct on its face, disciplinary counsel once again misleads the chair and this hearing committee. Discovery is directed to the opposing party. The opposing party is the Disciplinary Board. The Disciplinary Board acts through disciplinary counsel. Disciplinary counsel files the Specification of Charges. Discovery is sent to counsel for the other side. That's Mr. Widman. If he doesn't want to be the person who signs the interrogatories, he can get Virginia L. Ferrara as Chief Disciplinary Counsel or Sasha Siemel as Chair of the Disciplinary Board to do so. This is not a valid objection to discovery, it's just silliness.

Written Request for Admission and Interrogatories should be allowed.

(5) Depositions are Necessary and Vital to Any Defense.

Clearly, a deposition is a discovery tool that allows an attorney the right to question a person who will be a witness at the trial to find out what they know, what they discussed with opposite counsel or their investigators and what they may testify to at trial. With this completed, one can certainly understand what their testimony could be at the final hearing. That is the goal. A deponent may change their position from a deposition to the final hearing. One never knows what another will testify to at a final hearing until that time comes. This nonsensical argument made by disciplinary counsel should be dismissed out of hand.

Disciplinary counsel claims that Respondent doesn't need depositions of Petitioner's witnesses because Respondent is well aware of their involvement in the proceedings that gave rise to the charges. He's right. They have lied to courts, mislead this office and the clients of this office. Their actions must be pinned down under oath on deposition. Once this is done and their testimony adduced at final hearing, it will be two members of this hearing panel and this writer along with Mr. Widman who will be compelled under Rule 16-803 to report the ethical lapses of one or more of Mr. Widman's witnesses.

Depositions of all witnesses are required and should be allowed.

(6) Discovery is Required and Not Requested for Harassment or Delay.

Initially, disciplinary counsel has not announced what sanctions he will seek if he proves up any of the charges. Therefore, disbarment is possible. To deny any discovery when the punishment can be so severe is a clear violation of Due Process. Mr. Widman writes:

> Respondent ignores the fact that the conduct that is the subject of the Specification of Charges is essentially undisputed and is a matter of record.

Memorandum in Opposition, pg. 3. Well, let's skip the final hearing, set the date for the hanging and order up a picnic. Further, if that was true, Mr. Widman doesn't need any witnesses. All he needs to do is introduce the transcripts and materials he doesn't want Respondent to see. If he would withdraw all his witnesses, Respondent will have no reason to depose them. On the other hand, even if the conduct of Respondent is undisputed, it is the impact and interpretation of those acts that become matters of fact and law upon which this hearing committee needs to pass.

This hearing committee should note that Mr. Widman states that Judge Linda Vanzi initiated this compliant [sic]. Id., pg. 4. Yet, Judge Vanzi is not listed as a witnesses [sic] in the Specification of Charges. Respondent had to list her as an adverse witness. It is incredible that disciplinary counsel claims that a Respondent can't take the deposition of the complaining witness who brought the alleged violations of the Rules of Professional Responsibility to the attention of his office.

Lastly, if discipline counsel believes that any discovery tool is being incorrectly used, he has the right to object to same and ask for a protective order or sanctions from this hearing committee. In Re Chavez, 2000-NMSC-015 ¶ 34, 129 N.M. 35, 44, 1 P.3d 417, 426.

IV - MOTION TO CONTINUE IS WELL FOUNDED AND SHOULD BE GRANTED

Disciplinary counsel had from September 22, 2005 when it got the complaint from Judge Vanzi until February 22, 2006 – five (5) months! – to investigate and file the Specification of Charges. The Rules Governing Discipline allow 120 days from the service of an Answer to the final hearing. This gives Respondent significantly less time that the investigation process to complete discovery and get ready for trial if the matter is continued until October 30, 2006. A continuance to October 30, 2006 should be granted.

WHEREFORE, the Request for Discovery and the Request for Continuance should be granted in their entirety.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the original and a true copy of the foregoing was mailed to Robert P. Tinnin, Esq., Committee Chair, 500 Marquette N.W., Suite 1300, Albuquerque, NM 87102, John P. APPENDIX U

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO

In the Matter of

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Licensed to Practice Before the Courts of the State of New Mexico

Disciplinary No. 02-2006-505

DISCIPLINARY COUNSEL'S MEMORANDUM IN OPPOSITION TO RESPONDENT'S REQUEST FOR HEARING ON PENDING MOTIONS, REQUEST FOR DISCOVERY AND MOTION TO CONTINUE

I. Introduction

The most recent flurry of ill-conceived and baseless pleadings filed by Stein is yet another attempt to delay this matter and to thereby avoid taking responsibility for his conduct as described in the Specification of Charges filed in this matter. Moreover, as will be shown hereinafter, respondent's pleadings are a rehash of either previously filed motions in this case or a restatement of positions taken and rejected in other matters.

II.
Respondent's Request For Hearing On Pending Motions Has Already Been Rejected

The instant Request For Hearing is identical in all respects to the Request For Hearing filed by respondent on June 20, 2006 and denied by the hearing committee on June 22, 2006. No additional reason is advanced by respondent as to why oral argument should be allowed with respect to the pending Motions.. The Request For Hearing on Pending Motions should, therefore, be denied.

III.
Respondent Has Failed To Demonstrate Legitimate Need For Discovery

A recurring theme in the pleadings filed by respondent is his inability to identify what violations disciplinary counsel intends to prove unless the hearing committee grants respondent's request du jour whether it be dismissal of the charges, a more definite statement or now, leave to file requests for admissions, requests to produce, interrogatories and to take depositions. Nevertheless, respondent's request is wholly conclusory and is devoid of any facts on which this Committee could conclude that a need for discovery actually exists.

In respondent's Alternative Motion To Dismiss/ Motion For More Definite Statement, respondent argued in paragraphs 3 and 4 that the charges lacked the specificity desired by respondent and without such specificity "it is impossible for respondent to responsively plead to the allegations or to know how to prepare for final hearing on the charges." This argument was rejected by the committee in its Order of June 26, 2006 as being without merit. The correctness of the committee's ruling is demonstrated by the fact that once respondent's Alternate Motions To Dismiss were denied, he filed an Answer to the charges without apparent difficulty.

Moreover, Stein was served filed [sic] a Challenge To the Appointed Panel on March 20, 2006. If there was in fact a good faith need for discovery, respondent would have filed discovery requests at that time instead of wasting everyone's time with groundless motions and then waiting until the eve of the hearing to claim a supposed inability to prepare without the requested information.

The basis for Stein's supposed need for a request to produce is that discovery of all materials obtained by disciplinary counsel will inform respondent as to what materials disciplinary counsel will introduce at the hearing. The logical disconnect here is obvious. Reviewing all the documents obtained by disciplinary counsel will not in any way serve to identify which, if any, documents will be used at trial.

The purported showing of need for requests for admissions and interrogatories is similarly absurd. The purported basis for this showing, namely, that respondent cannot identify the charges has, as pointed out above, been made and rejected. Disciplinary counsel does suggest, however, that respondent may want to re-read the Specification of Charges since all of the violations enumerated therein will be proved at the hearing. In addition, there is no provision in either the Rules Governing Discipline of the Rules of Civil Procedure that permit requests for admission to be directed to opposing counsel which is what respondent seeks to do here.

A discovery deposition will elicit a witness' knowledge about the occurrence that is the subject of the proceeding in question, not what the deponent's testimony will be if called as a witness.. Respondent is well acquainted with all of the individuals listed by disciplinary counsel as witnesses and is well aware of their involvement in the proceedings that gave rise to the charges herein. Moreover, respondent has failed to identify any of the individuals he proposes to depose nor has he shown a need for the deposition testimony of any particular individual.

Finally, the fact that respondent is seeking discovery for purposes of harassment and delay becomes obvious when his proposed list of witnesses is established. Respondent ignores the fact that the conduct that is the subject of the Specification of Charges is essentially undisputed and is a matter of record. The attempt to depose practically every lawyer involved in the Clinesmith case as well as disciplinary counsel is nothing more than a vindictive attempt by the Clinesmith case as well as disciplinary counsel is nothing more than a vindictive attempt by respondent to harass those who have opposed him.

Respondent's purported showing of need for the requested discovery is disingenuous at best. Respondent forgets that it is his conduct that is the subject of these proceedings and that by virtue of his requests for discovery he is in effect feigning ignorance of his own conduct. Furthermore, practically all of respondent's conduct that is the basis for the charges is documented by the court record in the Clinesmith matter that resulted in Judge Vanzi filing the complaint in the first instance. Respondent is well aware of all of the matters with respect to which he seeks discovery, his requests are nothing more than a fishing expedition, are clearly interposed solely for purposes of delay and should be denied.

IV.
Respondent's Motion To Continue Is Groundless and Should Be Denied

In support of his Motion To Continue, respondent argues that since Rule 17-313 requires that the formal hearing be set no later than 120 days from the expiration of time for filing an answer which respondent states is November 1, 2006, that the hearing should be set for that date to allow respondent to take the requested discovery. Respondent claims that a denial of his request would be a violation of his due process rights.

Again, respondent conveniently ignores the fact that the charges in this matter were filed on February 22, 2006 and that respondent has had at least from March 20, 2006, the date on which he filed a Challenge To Appointed Panel to take the discovery that he claims he needs. Instead, respondent has chosen to waste everyone's time with groundless motions and multiple challenges to the hearing panel. If respondent truly needed the discovery he now seeks, he surely would have proceeded expeditiously to obtain it. Instead, respondent is attempting to use his discovery request as a tool of delay and harassment. Respondent has received all of the process to which he is due.

WHEREFORE, disciplinary counsel moves for the entry of an Order denying respondents Motions.

APPENDIX V

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEW MEXICO

Case Number: 02-2006-505

IN RE:

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court of New Mexico,

Respondent. /

REQUEST FOR DISCOVERY

COMES NOW Respondent Stuart L. Stein, Esq., by and through the undersigned firm, and under the authority of Rule 17-311 of the Rules Governing Discipline seeks permission from the chairman of the hearing committee to conduct the following discovery:

I – REQUESTS TO PRODUCE

Showing of Need. Respondent needs to see all materials obtained by disciplinary counsel from third parties in their investigation to discovery what will be introduced at the final hearing, what will not be produced at final hearing and written statements of witnesses that may have been obtained. The initial complaining witnesses, Judge Linda Vanzi, has not been listed as a witness by disciplinary counsel. Judge Vanzi may have provided materials to disciplinary counsel that were not forwarded with her initial complaint. Further, four witnesses listed in the Specification of Charges are attorneys.

Production of what such attorneys provided to disciplinary counsel may have bearing on the question of any attorney-client privilege with their respective clients and the selective disclosure to prejudice the matter against Respondent. Without having these materials for review prior to deposition of the witnesses, complete preparation for the final hearing will be fatally flawed. This can only be done with a Request for Production directed to Petitioner and responded to by disciplinary counsel. Disciplinary counsel failed to respond to a June 22, 2006 letter from Respondent to obtain this material. See, Exhibit A, attached hereto.

Additionally, without knowing what is in the hands of Petitioner, Respondent is not in a position to know what not to request from the other witnesses upon their deposition(s) to avoid them producing the same materials.

II – REQUESTS FOR ADMISSIONS

Showing of Need. Respondent needs to narrow and clarify the issues concerning the specific violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct raised in the Specification of Charges. Since paragraph 3 of the Specification of Charges lists violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct different from those listed in paragraph 48 of the Specification of Charges and since this hearing committee has refused to allow the Motion to Dismiss partially based on this inherent inconsistent position, the only way Respondent can identify what violations Petitioner, through disciplinary counsel, intends to prove, amongst other issues, is by responses to Request for Admissions.

III – INTERROGATORIES

Showing of Need. Respondent needs to pin down under oath what actions taken on his part are considered by disciplinary counsel violations of the particular Rules of Professional Conduct. Without knowing what facts sought to be proved violate which Rules of Professional Conduct, Respondent is moving towards the final hearing blind. This can only be done with interrogatories propounded to Petitioner and responded to by disciplinary counsel.

IV – DEPOSITIONS

Showing of Need. Once the above requested discovery is obtained, depositions of all witnesses will be required to find out (1) what their testimony will be at the final hearing, (2) to explain inconsistencies with any of the positions previously taken based on the other discovery materials then produced and (3) any other matters pertinent to the veracity of their expected testimony. Further, since some witnesses are out of state, it may be impossible to have them appear at trial without unnecessary expense. Should their depositions be taken, their potential telephone testimony will be better able to be comprehended by this hearing committee and a better record will be had for review, should that be necessary. Further, because of the number of witnesses, the trial date may not find that all these witnesses are available for live testimony and their depositions will have to be read into the record for the hearing committee to consider.

WHEREFORE, Respondent prays that all the requested discovery should be GRANTED.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the original and a true copy of the foregoing was mailed to Robert P. Tinnin, Esq., Committee Chair, 500 Marquette N.W., Suite 1300, Albuquerque, NM 87102, John P. Case Number: 02-2006-505

IN RE:

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court of New Mexico,

Respondent. /

ANSWER AND COUNTERCLAIM

COMES NOW Respondent Stuart L. Stein, Esq., by and through the undersigned firm, and serves this Answer and Counterclaim and in support thereof states as follows:

ANSWER

1. That Respondent hereby ADMITS the allegations contained in paragraph 1 of the Specification of Charges.

2. That Respondent hereby ADMITS the allegations contained in paragraph 2 of the Specification of Charges.

3. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in paragraph 3 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof.

4. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in paragraph 4 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof.

5. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 5 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

6. That Respondent hereby ADMITS the allegations contained in paragraph 6 of the Specification of Charges in that N.M.S.A § 45-5402 speaks for itself but that there is no restriction in such statute for the preparation of testamentary instruments.

7. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 7 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that the trust document speaks for itself.

8. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 8 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that the trust document speaks for itself.

9. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 9 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that the pleading referenced speaks for itself.

10. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 10 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that the writing referenced speaks for itself.

11. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the subjective allegations contained in paragraph 11 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that pleadings in cases filed in the United States District Court speak for themselves.

12. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the subjective allegations contained in paragraph 12 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that pleadings filed in the United States District Court speak for themselves.

13. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the subjective allegations contained in paragraph 13 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that pleadings filed in the United States District Court speak for themselves.

14 to 32. That there are no paragraphs numbered 14 to 32 in the Specification of Charges, but the hearing committee in this cause did not allow the Motion to Dismiss to require that the this error be corrected in an Amended Complaint. Should there be a hidden or unrevealed paragraph(s) 14 through 32, Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in such paragraph(s) of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof.

33. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 33 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

34. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 34 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

35. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 35 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that the writing referenced speaks for itself.

36. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in paragraph 36 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof.

37. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the subjective allegations contained in paragraph 37 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that transcript of the proceedings reference would be the best evidence of what occurred or what was said, subject to clarification.

38. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 38 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and, further, that the pleading referenced in this paragraph.

39. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in paragraph 39 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof.

40. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in paragraph 40 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof.

41. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 41 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

42. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 42 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof and further states that the record of the hearing and the Orders entered thereon will speak for themselves.

43. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in paragraph 43 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof and further states that the record of the hearing and the Orders entered thereon will speak for themselves.

44. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 44 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

45. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 45 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

46. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 46 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

47. That Respondent has no knowledge of all the allegations contained in paragraph 47 of the Specification of Charges and therefore DENIES same and demands strict proof thereof.

48. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations contained in paragraph 48 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof

49 to 53. That Respondent hereby DENIES the allegations of factors in aggravation contained in paragraph 49 through 53 of the Specification of Charges and demands strict proof thereof.

54. That no response is required for the listing of the witnesses in paragraph 54 of the Specification of Charges.

WHEREFORE the Specification of Charges should be DISMISSED with prejudice.

COUNTERCLAIM CHALLENGING THE METHOD OF NEW MEXICO ATTORNEY DISCIPLINE AS CONSTITUTIONALLY INFIRM

COMES NOW Respondent Stuart L. Stein, Esq., by and through the undersigned firm, and serves this Counterclaim Challenging the Method of New Mexico

Attorney Discipline as Constitutionally Infirm and requests a declaratory judgment declaring same and prohibiting further action on the instant Specification of Charges and any other Specification of Charges to be brought in the future, if any, and in support thereof states as follows:

1. That the entire scheme of the procedure in attorney disciplinary proceedings before the New Mexico Supreme Court, the Disciplinary Board and its hearing committees and reviewing officers as currently established under Rule 17-101, et seq., RGD are constitutionally infirm under the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments of the United States Constitution. That the basis for this conclusion is outlined in the following paragraphs:

A. That hearing committees and hearing officers are appointed by the Disciplinary Board upon its own recommendations. Rule 17104.A. The process is not public and the criteria for selection of members of hearing committees or hearing officers is not part of the RGD.

B. That there are no specific rules of procedure in disciplinary matters in which an accused attorney can turn to know how a particular matter will be handled. Rule 17-301.B, RGD, incorporating the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts "except where clearly inapplicable to disciplinary proceedings or inconsistent with or otherwise provided for by" the RGD is fatally flawed since any attorney charged in a Specification of Charges should be able to know, absolutely, the rules of procedure upon which their continued use of their license to practice will be determined.

C. That not strictly applying the Rules of Evidence denies an accused attorney the necessary notice to determine what evidence will be admitted and what will not be admitted, thus making adequate preparation for formal hearing virtually impossible. Further, the question of the evidentiary proof of matters is unclear. Disciplinary counsel considers that the proof necessary for all violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct other than false or fraudulent conduct is preponderance of the evidence. False or fraudulent conduct is proved by clear and convincing evidence. Since attorney discipline matters are quasi-criminal in nature, the level of proof required on all matters to pass constitutional muster is "clear and convincing". Such is required for judicial discipline. See, Rule 30 of the New Mexico Judicial Standards Commission. As a matter of public policy, for the protection of the rights of judges to judicial office or the rights of lawyers to continue their private practice, the burdens of proof for discipline should be identical. The potential harm of a wayward judge to the public is infinitely higher than the harm to be caused by a wayward lawyer.

D. That the investigative advantage of disciplinary counsel to obtain information from attorneys, including from a respondent attorney, over the targeted attorney is fatal to a fair system. Disciplinary counsel consistently reminds target attorneys and attorney witnesses of their affirmative duty and responsibility under Rule 16-803.D to cooperate with them in all investigations. The subjective opinion of disciplinary counsel that an attorney is "non-cooperative" can lead to the filing of formal charges. Such attorneys who cooperate with disciplinary counsel consistently refuse to cooperate in the same fashion with targeted attorneys and/or their counsel.

E. That a further investigative advantage of disciplinary counsel to obtain information is that they have four years, in most cases, in which to conduct an investigation until they are faced with the statute of limitations issue under Rule 17-303 RGD. During this period of time disciplinary counsel can propound an unlimited number of interrogatories to the respondent attorney. Rule 17-306.A.(1) RGD. During this period of time disciplinary counsel can obtain under power of subpoena the deposition, documents and records of the respondent attorney and other witnesses. Rule 17-306.A.(2) RGD. Respondent Attorney has nothing equivalent whatsoever under the RGD for his or her own investigation during this period prior to the filing of a formal specification of charges.

F. That disciplinary counsel consistently violates Rule 17-307.C by ignoring the requirement to advise the respondent attorney of the allegations contained in a specification of charges prior to their filing by claiming that sending a copy of the written complaint filed with the office of the disciplinary board is adequate compliance with this rule. In the instant Specification of Charges there are claimed violations of eight the Rules of Professional Conduct that were not mentioned in the complaint initially filed with the Disciplinary Board. Therefore, this Respondent had no ability to present any matter of fact or mitigation he wanted disciplinary counsel to consider. It is verily believed that disciplinary counsel has never asked for the consent of any respondent attorney to join with him or her to conduct an informal hearing allowing the parties to present evidence and witnesses.

G. That disciplinary counsel alone determines if a file should be reviewed by a reviewing officer. Rule 17-307.D, RGD. A respondent-attorney may not elect to seek this review prior to the filing of a specification of charges under Rule 17-309.A, RGD.

H. That there is no assurance that any determination of the hearing committee or the appeal from any determination of the review of a committee of the Disciplinary Board is given any plenary review by any duly constituted judge or court.

I. That there are other flaws in the attorney disciplinary system that will be uncovered during discovery.

2. That Disciplinary Counsel fails to follow even the infirm Rules of Discipline, as outlined above, to the disadvantage of this individual Respondent and all Respondents who face filed Specification of Charges.

3. That in light of the foregoing, the entire disciplinary system is in violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendment to the United States Constitution as applied to Respondent.

WHEREFORE, Respondent prays for the following relief:

A. That upon adequate discovery, declare that the attorney disciplinary system in New Mexico is in violation of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution.

B. Bifurcate the hearing on the Specification of Charges and the Counterclaim, allowing the Counterclaim to move forward first.

C. That upon the success of the Counterclaim, dismiss all pending Specification of Charges until the attorney disciplinary system will meet constitutional muster.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the original and a true copy of the foregoing was mailed to Robert P. Tinnin, Esq., Committee Chair, 500 Marquette N.W., Suite 1300, Albuquerque, NM 87102, John P. APPENDIX X

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO

In the Matter of

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Licensed to Practice Before the Courts of the State of New Mexico

Disciplinary No. 02-2006-505

ORDER DENYING RESPONDENT'S ALTERNATIVE MOTION TO DISMISS SPECIFICATION OF CHARGES, RESPONDENT'S MOTION FOR GRANTING THE APRIL 29, 2006 ALTERNATIVE MOTION TO DISMISS SPECIFICATION OF CHARGES AND SETTING TIME FOR FILING OF ANSWER, AND RESPONDENT'S REQUEST FOR HEARING ON PENDING MOTIONS

This matter having come before the Hearing Committee on Respondent's Alternative Motion to Dismiss Specification of Charges and/or Motion for More Definite Statement and/or Dismissal for Failure to Follow the Rules Governing Discipline, dated April 29, 2006 and Respondent's Motion for Granting the April 29, 2006 Alternative Motion to Dismiss Specification of Charges and/or More Definite Statement and/or Dismissal for Failure to Follow the Rules Governing Discipline under Rule 1-007.1.D for Failure to Respond, dated May 22, 2006; the Hearing

Committee having considered the Motions, Disciplinary Counsel's Memorandum in Response to said motions and Respondent's Reply, as well as Respondent's Request for Hearing on Pending Motions, and being otherwise fully advised in the premises,

FINDS:

1. Said Motions are without merit and should be denied.

2. While the Committee believes that the fifteen day time limit prescribed by Rule 1-007.1 of the Rules of Civil Procedure is applicable in disciplinary proceedings because said rule is not "clearly inapplicable to disciplinary proceedings or inconsistent with or otherwise provided for by. . . ." the Rules Governing Discipline, the issue is not beyond debate and the Committee should exercise its discretion in favor of resolving the issues raised in this case by a hearing on the merits.

It is, therefore, ORDERED that

A. Respondent's Alternative Motion to Dismiss Specification of Charges and/or Motion for More Definite Statement and/or Dismissal for Failure to Follow the Rules Governing Discipline and Respondent's Motion for Granting the April 29, 2006 Alternative Motion to Dismiss Specification of Charges and/or Motion for More Definite Statement and/or Failure to Follow the Rules Governing Discipline under Rule 1-007.1.D for Failure to Respond should be and hereby are denied.

B. The Committee's ruling with regard to these pending motions alleviates any necessity for a hearing, so that Motion is also denied.

C. Respondent is granted until June 30, 2006 to file his Answer to the Complaint. Dated this 22nd day of June, 2006.

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEW MEXICO

Case Number: 03-2006-505

IN RE:

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.,

An Attorney Admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court of New Mexico,

Respondent. /

RESPONDENT'S REPLY TO DISCIPLINE COUNSEL'S JUNE 6, 2006 MEMORANDUM IN RESPONSE TO RESPONDENT'S APRIL 29, 2006 MOTION TO DISMISS

COMES NOW Respondent, by and through the undersigned firm, and in Reply to the June 6, 2006 Discipline Counsel's Response to Respondent's April 29, 2006 Motion to Dismiss states as follows:

I - INTRODUCTION

The thrust of the Motion to Dismiss was that the Specification of Charges – the charging document – does not articulate what actions of Respondent are claimed to be violations of what specific Rules of Professional Conduct. Further, the Specification of Charges has two sections/paragraphs in which different multiple listings of breaches of the Rules of Professional Conduct are listed. Respondent does not know what particular actions is claimed to have violated what rule or rules of the Rules Professional Conduct. The Due Process section of the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments to the United States Constitution require the pairing of the act or acts and the violation of the rules.

II – DISCIPLINE COUNSEL FAILS TO RESPOND TO FACTUAL ISSUES

Putting aside the issues of ex parte contact(s) which ultimately led directly to the service of the Response to the April 29, 2006 Motion to Dismiss 38 days after service on June 6, 2006, the Response Memorandum of discipline counsel is a non-response. The essence of any ethical charge is to describe particular actions of an attorney and the Rule of Professional Conduct that is claimed to have been violated.

After wrongfully claiming in a blanket statement that the Rules of Civil Procedure doe [sic] not apply, discipline counsel claims that the Specification of Charges filed in this cause is enough notice as to the acts that violate the Rules of Professional Conduct. This is not a response – it is just a blanket denial that anything needs to be done. Proper practice would have the acts of Respondent that rise to one violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct contained in a separate count of a Specification of Charges. It is only when that is done that any Respondent can be put on notice as to what he or she needs to defend at final hearing.

Discipline counsel insults this hearing committee by reference to matters that are not part of the record: the initial complaint presented to the office of discipline counsel by District Judge Vanzi which gave rise to the Specification of Charges. Because the office of discipline counsel sends a copy of the initial complaint papers to Respondent, Respondent is then on notice as to the specific wrongful acts for which he will have to defend at final hearing. Judge Vanzi mentioned some violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct she subjectively felt were violated. The Specification of Charges mentions many more. Further, Judge Vanzi was not listed as a witness in the Specification of Charges. If the undersigned filed a complaint against Judge Vanzi, he is prohibited from discussing same by the confidentiality provisions of the New Mexico Constitution in creating the Judicial Standards Commission and the Rules of the Judicial Standards Commission.[3] If the undersigned responded by asking disciplinary counsel what are the provisions of the Rules of Professional Responsibility that are violated, his response would be that the letter of the client speaks for itself. The June 6, [3] It should be noted that the undersigned did file a federal suit to set aside the confidentiality provisions of the New Mexico Constitution and Judicial Standards Commission. A motion to dismiss was denied by the federal judge on June 15, 2006. After an Answer is filed by Defendant Commission in the federal case, cross motions for summary judgment should be filed and the case resolved on that basis.

2006 written response does not meet Due Process constitutional muster.

Additionally, disciplinary counsel is silent on the review of the Specification of Charges by Chief Disciplinary Counsel Virginia L. Ferrara under Rule 17-307(E). Ms. Ferrara, under deposition, discusses the review process and the way she approves, disapproves or approves with modification all Specification of Charges. See, Exhibit A, Deposition of Virginia Ferrara of May 24, 2006, pg. 21, line 7 to pg. 22, line 25. There is a form that Ms. Ferrara signs to approve a Specification of Charges. Failure to supply this document with the Response can only mean it was not done and this Specification of Charges must be dismissed.

Lastly, discipline counsel is also silent concerning why he failed to respond to the Motion to Dismiss until 38 days after service of the motion. It was this same Hearing Committee that in the Bogarosh case granted relief after neither of the disciplinary counsel on that case failed to timely respond as motion practice is outlined in the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Court. Why the Committee did not do so here is unknown. Discipline counsel says nothing and gives no excuse for serving a timely response and his neglect of a legal matter.

III – CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, for any of the above reasons, the Motion to Dismiss should be GRANTED.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the original and a true copy of the foregoing was hand delivered to Robert P. Tinnin, Esq., Committee Chair, 500 Marquette N.W., Suite 1300, Albuquerque, NM 87102 and copies to John P. Eastham, Esq., 2201 San Pedro, N.E., Building 2, Suite 207, Albuquerque, NM 87110; Ms. Carolyn Tinker, 1801 Carnino Raso, N.W., Albuquerque, NM 87107, Committee Members and Joel L. Widman, Esq., Deputy Disciplinary Counsel, 400 Gold Avenue, S.W., Suite 800, Albuquerque, NM 87103-1809 this June 20, 2006.

[18] Q And it could have been that the lawyer who is under investigation said, "Now, wait a second. Time out. Let's wait until all of this settles out on the civil – on the criminal side, and then I can deal with you guys"?

A Correct.

Q Do you ever recall a time when a request for a stay was made, either by counsel office, discipline counsel's office, or the lawyer where the request for stay was denied?

A Yes, several times.

Q Okay. And tell me what the basis was for the denial, if you can recall?

A That the issues were different, the issues in the two proceedings were totally different, or that in a criminal case, the crime alleged was so egregious that we needed to proceed somehow, and in those cases, often that would involve a motion for summary suspension.

Q So it could be where somebody was stealing money?

A Correct.

Q Or they were charged with a felony crime of violence or something like that?

A Correct.

[19] Q But other than a perceived need to see that this lawyer stopped practicing at once, do you recall any other times where the charges or the activity complained about were not so egregious where such stay was rejected?

A I don't recall specific instances, but I know that there have been some hotly debated requests for stay, and that sometimes board members would say, "No way we are going to keep going on this," sometimes when we will request a stay.

Q That would go against your request?

A Correct.

Q If a lawyer who is being investigated by your office responds back from your request for information saying, "Wait a second. There is a civil case here that these issues are going to be determined about. Let's wait and see," and if discipline counsel decides not to wait and see, are they ever notified they can go to the board or they can go to the chairman?

A We just automatically take that request to the board. See, we have gotten a request from this or that lawyer to hold this in abeyance. They are not notified. It just goes there.

Q Okay. And after it goes to the board and [20] the board decides, no, you shouldn't abate it, do you then notify the lawyer and say, we took this to the board and they said no?

A Yeah. Yes.

Q So that's the way the office works?

A Yes.

Q All right.

A When I think of it, when we get a request from a lawyer, I just write to them and say, "We couldn't stop these proceedings, but I will present it to the board at their next meeting," and let them know what they say.

Q And that's what all discipline counsel should be doing?

A Yes.

Q Now, when a specification of charges is determined to be drafted and served, how is that decision reached?

A The investigating attorney prepares a specification of charges and gives it to me, and I go through it and either approve or disapprove it after talking with the attorney and saying, well, why do you think this and why do you think that? It used to be that the rule required a report, and the same kind of way that the report is now sent to a reviewing [21] officer, but it was determined by the board at some point in time that that was kind of a wasted exercise, that just going over the charges, that we could pretty much determine whether or not there was probable cause.

Q Okay.

A So I will then look at the factual allegations, and from there I will look at the rules violations, and I will say, "I mean, assuming you prove all these facts, why does that involve a violation of this rule, or assuming you prove all these facts, how are you going to do it? By the way, why aren't you alleging the violation of this rule," that kind of stuff.

Q Okay. And that's under that 17-307(E), correct?

A Yes.

Q All right. So this meeting that you have with the investigative assistant discipline counsel or deputy discipline counsel is an informal meeting?

A Correct.

Q And there are no notes taken about that?

A Correct.

Q It's not that I am trying to make the analogy, sometimes in practice when people have to do [22] things on a file, there will be somewhere with their initials and they date it, that we did it on this date?

A There is one of those included.

Q Okay.

A There will be a – I don't know what it's called, just one page thing that I sign, and it says, on this date I reviewed the charges and approved them for filing or disapproved them or approved them with modification – check, check, check.

Q Okay.

A And the date.

Q And that's on the inside of the file itself, or is that kept in a separate place?

A It's in the file, working file.

Q All right. The working file that is held by the discipline counsel in charge of prosecuting the case?

A Yes.

Q And is this just a one-page item that you sign that just concerns this review prior to filing?

A Yes.

Q All right. So once the specification of charges comes to you and you review it and approve it, what is the next step?

[23] A To notify the chairman that this is being filed and provide him with a copy. Once upon a time the chairman kept all of the original copies. They were physically filed with the chairman, but under this system as it operates with a different chairman –

Q Every year?

A – every year, and confidentiality problems and problems with having a chairman who may not have a place to store these things, then the original currently goes to the chairman of the hearing committee. What happens is that Denise, who is our administrative assistant, will call the chairman and say, "We have charges filed against so and so. Who do you want to put on the hearing committee?"

And the chairman will say, "Put so and so and so and so and so and so," and then she will write up a notice in designation of the hearing committee, send the original to the chair, and the copies to each of the other members.

Q Okay. And then the copy of that letter and the copy of the specification of charges then is served or mailed to the lawyer who is the respondent?

A Yes.

Q Okay.

[24] MR. STEIN: You know, I think this was No. 2 and 3, weren't they, Jerry?

MR. WALZ: I think so.

Q (BY MR. STEIN) We called the two orders 2 and 3 before 1 and 2. They should be 2 and 3. No. 1 was the request for production, and what was produced by Mr. Walz on behalf of the defendants in this case is what has been marked as No. 1, and there is about ten pages or so of both lay people on one page and lawyers on another for the three divisions within the state, the Southern, Central, and Northern divisions, of people who are hearing officers or potential members of the committee?

A Yes.

Q Could you tell me if you know where these particular copies came from?

A Mr. Walz, where did he get them?

Q Yes. Did it come from your office?

A It came from our office.

Q Okay:

MR. WALZ: I'm sorry. I thought you were asking where did they get the information to put on the lists.

MR. STEIN: No, no, no.

Q (BY MR. STEIN) I just wanted to know that if [25] we went to your office now and said, could you show us who are the people who are potential members of the hearing committees there, they would pull out these 10 or 15 pages.

A Correct. Probably we would pull out the current list. We – Denise will put out a list. Then people drift off or die or horrible things like that and get taken off the list, and this is like –

Q This is?

A – then a new list is produced and the missing members are no longer there.

Q So here we have – somewhere there are handwritten notations, and that on an irregular basis Denise may just do up a brand new, clean list?

A Yes.

Q And say that is the list as of this date?

A Yes.

Q And these are the people involved?

A Yes.

Q All right. Now, you say Denise will ask the chair who the chair wants on the committee?

A Yes.

Q And does the chair have a copy of this list?

A Yes.

Q And do you know if the chair goes through

APPENDIX Z

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW MEXICO

In the Matter of

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Licensed to Practice Before the Courts of the State of New Mexico

Disciplinary No. 03-2006-505

DISCIPLINARY COUNSEL'S MEMORANDUM IN RESPONSE TO ALTERNATIVE MOTIONS TO DISMISS AND TO MOTIONS TO GRANT ALTERNATIVE MOTIONS TO DISMISS

Respondent's Alternative Motions To Dismiss are based on two faulty premises, first, that the Charges are defective because they do not allege what specific conduct violated the Rules that are alleged to have been violated and, second, that respondent was never advised of the general nature of the allegations prior to the filing of formal charges.

Rule 17-309 NMRA governs the contents of the specification of charges. That Rule provides that the specification contain a brief and plain statement of the charge or charges, the provisions of the Rules of Professional Conduct alleged to have been violated, the names and addresses of all known witnesses and the name and address of disciplinary counsel who is expected to prosecute the matter. There is no requirement that the charges allege what conduct violated which Rules with the particularity required by respondent. Although disciplinary counsel believes the Rules of Civil Procedure to be inapplicable, the requirement for a pleading setting forth a claim for relief is merely a "short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief." The Specification of Charges herein clearly exceeds either standard.

Respondent's contention that without the specificity he requests it is impossible for him to respond to the charges is disingenuous at best. The Charges clearly describe the conduct in which respondent is alleged to have engaged. Certainly respondent is capable of admitting or denying whether he engaged in the conduct alleged in the Specification of Charges.

With respect to respondent's assertion that he was not advised of the general nature of the charges at the investigatory stage as required, by Rule 17-307(C), a copy of the complaint filed by Judge Vanzi was sent to respondent on September 22, 2005. Respondent initially responded by requesting that the matter be stayed because Judge Vanzi's orders were being appealed (an appeal which was never pursued). When that request was rejected, Respondent next stated that he would respond conditioned on a stipulation for full discovery prior to hearing. On October 14, 2005 respondent finally responded stating, inter-alia that it was his intention to file a complaint against Judge Vanzi with the Judicial Standards Commission. At no time until the filing of the instant

Motions has respondent contended that he was not advised of the general nature of the allegations against him or did not understand what this matter was about. Respondent, in effect, claims that he is entitled to a bill of particulars prior to the filing of charges. That is clearly not the case. Respondent was entitled to be advised of the general nature of the charges and he was.

Respondent has also moved to grant his Motions To Dismiss on the grounds that disciplinary counsel did not respond to said Motions within the 15 day time limit prescribed by Rule 1-007.1 of the Rules of Civil Procedure. It is respectfully submitted that since motion practice before hearing committees is provided for by Rule 17-312(A), the Rules of Civil Procedure are inapplicable, Rule 17-301 NMRA clearly states that except where clearly inapplicable "or otherwise provided for by these rules," the Rules of Civil Procedure shall be used. Motion practice is clearly provided for within the meaning of Rule 17-301(B). Even if the Rules of Civil Procedure were applicable, dismissal would not be mandatory but would be within the discretion of the hearing committee. Disciplinary counsel urges the hearing committee to exercise its discretion in favor of resolving this matter by a hearing on the merits.

WHEREFORE, disciplinary counsel moves for the entry of an Order denying respondent's Motions.

Respectfully submitted,

APPENDIX AA

BEFORE THE DISCIPLINARY BOARD OF THE SUPREME COURT OF NEW MEXICO

Case Number: 03-2006-505

IN RE:

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.,

An Attorney Admitted to the Bar of the Supreme Court of New Mexico,

Respondent. /

ALTERNATIVE MOTION TO DISMISS SPECIFICATION OF CHARGES AND/OR MOTION FOR MORE DEFINITE STATEMENT AND/OR DISMISSAL FOR FAILURE TO FOLLOW THE RULES GOVERNING DISCIPLINE

COMES NOW Respondent Stuart L. Stein, Esq., by and through the undersigned firm and serves this Alternative Motion to Dismiss the Specification of Charges and/or Motion for More Definite Statement signed on February 22, 2006 and/or Dismissal for Failure to Follow the Rules Governing Discipline, and in support thereof states as follows:

MOTION TO DISMISS/MOTION FOR MORE DEFINITE STATEMENT

1. That this is a Motion to Dismiss under Rule 1-012 and/or Motion for More Definite Statement of the Rules of Civil Procedure for the District Courts, a rule that is not clearly inapplicable with the Rules Governing Discipline.

2. That the Specification of Charges has 47 paragraphs of allegations and, in paragraph 48, conclusions that Respondent violated 12 different Rules of Professional Conduct.

3. That there is no specific connection made in the Specification of Charges concerning the 47 paragraphs of facts with any of the 12 claimed violation of the Rules of Professional Conduct to put Respondent on notice as to what conduct was violative of which Rule.

4. That without such specificity, it is impossible for the Respondent to responsively plead to the allegations or to know how to prepare for a final hearing on the charges. For instance, in subparagraphs a. and j. in paragraph 48, there are allegations of fraud, dishonesty, deceit or misrepresentation without any connection to allegations of facts contained in prior paragraphs. Rule 1-009.B requires that allegations of fraud "shall be stated with particularity". This was not done. The word "fraud" or "fraudulent" does not appear in paragraphs 1 through 47 of the Specification of Charges. Respondent is not on notice as to what actions contained in paragraphs 1 through 47 constitute what violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct.

5. The Specification of Charges should be DISMISSED with leave to file an Amended Specification of Charges to connect the factual allegations with the violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct.

6. That, in the alternative, Disciplinary Counsel should be ORDERED to file a More Definite Statement that would connect the claimed specific claimed violations of the Rule of Professional Conduct with specific claimed acts of the Respondent. There are twelve (12) Rules of Professional Conduct that are claimed to have been violated in paragraph 48, thirteen (13) in paragraph 3. Upon Disciplinary Counsel identifying the claimed violations of each rule with the claimed acts of Respondent, then Respondent and this Hearing Committee will be able to focus on the individual accusations that make up the wide sweep of this Specification of Charges. It will also allow the Respondent effectively to defend each charge in pretrial motions, seek discovery on each point and file potential dispositive motions. Further, requiring a More Definite Statement will allow the Respondent and this Hearing Committee to organize the presentment and understanding of evidence for each charge to be sure that the burdens are met on all sides.

7. That paragraph 54 of the Specification of Charges makes references to a "Count III". There is no Count III identified prior to paragraph 54. There is also no Count I or Count II.

WHEREFORE, the Specification of Charges should be DISMISSED with leave to file an Amended Specification of Charges or, in the alternative, Disciplinary Counsel should be ORDERED to serve a More Definite Statement connecting all allegations of fact with each and every claim of violation of the Code of Professional Responsibility.

DISMISSAL FOR FAILURE TO FOLLOW THE RULES GOVERNING DISCIPLINE

8. That the Rules Governing Discipline states, in part, as follows:

> Prior to the filing of a formal specification of charges with the Disciplinary Board the respondent-attorney shall always be advised of the general nature of the allegations and shall be given a fair opportunity to present any matter of fact or mitigation the respondent-attorney wants disciplinary counsel to consider.

Rule 17-307.C, Rules Governing Discipline, emphasis supplied. Allegations in a specification of charges are violations of specific Rules of Professional Conduct. At no time prior to the service of this particular Specification of Charges did the office of Disciplinary Counsel inform the Respondent of the twelve (12) claimed violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct and the facts supporting the claimed violations. Respondent, prior to the filing of the Specification of Charges, was only on notice of violations of six claimed violations of the Rules of Professional Conduct made in the initial complaint letter filed with the Office of Disciplinary Counsel and copied to Respondent. Of the six, only four of the rules noted are charged in the Specification of Charges.

Clearly, somewhere along the line disciplinary counsel came up with nine other Rules of Professional Conduct where Respondent was found wanting. Respondent was entitled to notice of the allegations prior to filing under Rule 17-307. The office of disciplinary counsel has consistently failed to follow this Rule. Without the sanction of dismissal, they will continue to conduct themselves contrary to the rules to the detriment of the entire membership of The State Bar of New Mexico.

9. That, further, Rule 17-307.E requires that a draft of the instant Specification of Charges be presented to Chief Disciplinary Counsel Virginia L. Ferrara. Considering the basic errors and omissions in this Specification of Charges, Respondent has legitimate question that this was done. This objection can be adequately met by an affidavit of Ms. Ferrara directed to the date this was done and the paper or papers indicating she performed her required task under this Rule. If this was not done, the Specification of Charges should be DISMISSED.

WHEREFORE, the Specification of Charges should be DISMISSED with instructions to discipline counsel to advise the Respondent of all allegations and give him a fair opportunity to respond as required by Rule 17-307.C and ORDER that Chief Disciplinary Counsel file an Affidavit that she performed her duty of review under Rule 17-307.E. and, if her duty was not done, DISMISS the Specification of Charges for the purposes of having such review and then file the Specification of Charges, if such determination should be made, and re-start the proceeding.

I HEREBY CERTIFY that the original and a true copy of the foregoing was mailed to Robert P. Tinnin, Esq., Committee Chair, 500 Marquette N.W., Suite 1300, Albuquerque, NM 87102, John P. Eastham, Esq., 2201 San Pedro, N.E., Building 2, Suite 207, Albuquerque, NM 87110, Ms. Carolyn Tinker, 1801 Camino Raso, N.W., Albuquerque, NM 87107, Committee Members, and Joel L. APPENDIX BB

In the Matter of

STUART L. STEIN, ESQ.

An Attorney Licensed to Practice Before the Courts of the State of New Mexico

Disciplinary No. 02-2006-505

SPECIFICATION OF CHARGES

1. Rule 17-105(B)(3)(d) of the New Mexico Supreme Court Rules Governing Discipline empowers counsel for the Disciplinary Board to file a specification of charges against an attorney with the Disciplinary Board.

2. Stuart L. Stein, Esq., hereinafter respondent, is an attorney licensed to practice law before the courts of the State of New Mexico.

3. The factual allegations set forth in the Specification of Charges state acts of professional misconduct by the Respondent in violation of Rules 16-102(D), 16-107(A), 16-107(B), 16-109(A), 16-301; 166-303(A)(2), 16-303(A)(3), 16-401(B), 16-402, 16-803(D), 16-804(C), 16-804(D) and 16-804(H) of the Rules of Professional Conduct.

4. Pursuant to Rule 17-309(A) of the Supreme Court Rules Governing Discipline, cause exists to conduct a hearing on the following charges so that the Disciplinary Board and the Supreme Court can determine whether further action is appropriate.

5. In March, 2005, a Petition was filed by Cathe Temmerman seeking the appointment of a guardian and conservator for her father, Bruce C. Clinesmith, in the matter entitled In the Matter of Bruce C. Clinesmith, An Adult Incapacitated Person, No. PQ-2005-00063 in the Second Judicial District Court, Bernalillo County, New Mexico. Richard Reidy was appointed guardian ad litem by the court on March 4, 2005.

6. By operation of law, after notice of the filing of a petition seeking the appointment of a conservator, the court in which the petition is filed has exclusive jurisdiction to determine how the estate of the protected person shall be managed, expended or distributed (45-5-402 NMSA 1978).

7. At the time of the filing of the Petition there were in existence two trusts created by Bruce Clinesmith. One of the trusts was a revocable trust created by Bruce Clinesmith on January 31, 1997, with Moody Bible Institute of Chicago (hereinafter the "1997 Trust") as Trustee and which provided, inter-alia, for the income and principal to be paid to Bruce Clinesmith as needed with the remainder to Moody upon his death. The corpus of the Moody trust was $6,275,000.00.

8. The other trust (hereinafter the "1999 Trust") was a revocable trust created by Bruce Clinesmith on October 29, 1999, the income and principal of which were to be paid to Bruce Clinesmith as required and upon his death the remainder was to be held in trust for his wife, Ruth, with the income and principal to be paid to her as required. Upon Ruth's death, the remainder to be paid to Moody. The corpus of the 1999 trust was $4,800,000.00.

9. Respondent appeared on behalf of Bruce C. Clinesmith and his wife, Ruth Clinesmith in Cause No. PQ-2005-00063 and on March 28, 2005, filed an Answer to the Petition on behalf of Bruce Clinesmith and Ruth Clinesmith requesting that Ruth Clinesmith be appointed as guardian for Bruce Clinesmith, if in fact the court determined a guardian should be appointed. The Answer further alleged the existence of a Durable Power of Attorney executed by Bruce Clinesmith on January 30, 2004, in favor of his wife and stated that the court should not disregard the clear intent of Bruce Clinesmith, presumably as evidenced by the Power of Attorney.

10. On March 28, 2005, the same date on which respondent filed an Answer to the guardianship/conservatorship Petition, respondent wrote to representatives of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago demanding that the income and corpus of the 1997 Trust and the 1999 Trust be paid to Ruth Clinesmith, individually.

11. Notwithstanding his knowledge of the pendency of the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding in state district court together with the above-cited statute, respondent filed two lawsuits in the United States District Court for the District of New Mexico on behalf of Ruth Clinesmith seeking to affect the manner in which the estate of Mr. Clinesmith would be managed, expended and distributed.

12. The first lawsuit was filed on June 15, 2005 on behalf of Ruth Clinesmith, individually, and purportedly on behalf of Bruce C. Clinesmith, "by Ruth M. Clinesmith, his attorney-in-fact" pursuant to the January 30, 2004, Durable Power of Attorney referred to above, seeking inter-alia that the trusts created by Bruce Clinesmith in favor of Moody Bible Institute of Chicago be voided and that the corpus of the trusts be declared to be community property. This lawsuit will be referred to herein as the Moody Bible lawsuit. The value of the trusts at the time of filing was alleged to be approximately $11,000,000.00.

13. The second lawsuit was filed on June 22, 2005, on behalf of Ruth Clinesmith, individually, against Citigroup Global Markets, Inc. (the Citigroup lawsuit) alleging the existence of a joint account in the names of Bruce Clinesmith and Ruth Clinesmith and that the account was restricted by Citigroup without authority. In the lawsuit, Ruth Clinesmith sought damages or, in the alternative, full access to the account.

33 [sic] The account, which was alleged to be in the approximate amount of $250,000.00, was "frozen" by Citigroup because of their concerns that Bruce Clinesmith's mental health had deteriorated and their uncertainty that he fully comprehended his actions.

34. [sic] Respondent negotiated a settlement of the Citigroup suit pursuant to which the account in question was to be transferred to an account with another broker, which account was in the name of Ruth Clinesmith only, thus cutting off Bruce Clinesmith's access to the account and the funds on deposit therein. The settlement was confirmed in a letter sent by respondent to Citigroup Associate General Counsel on July 13, 2005, forwarding a copy of the power of attorney in response to their request. The letter also confirmed Citigroup's representation that the freeze on the account would be lifted and that the case was "effectively settled upon the account being transferred to another broker. . . ."

35. [sic] On July 15, 2005, respondent again contacted Citigroup by letter advising of the account to which the funds were to be transferred and again on July 28, 2005 complaining of delay in effectuating the transfer.

36. [sic] In none of these letters or other verbal communications between respondent and Citigroup did respondent advise Citigroup of the following:

a. A Verified Petition For The Appointment Of A Guardian And Conservator for Bruce Clinesmith had been filed in state District Court on March 4, 2005 and that a Guardian

Ad Litem had in fact been appointed for Bruce Clinesmith by the court on that date;

b. On June 3, 2005, the court in which the guardianship proceeding was pending issued a Notice scheduling a hearing on July 18, 2005 to determine whether a guardian and conservator should be appointed for Bruce Clinesmith;

c. On June 27, 2005, the court in which the guardianship proceeding was pending issued a Notice of Hearing scheduling a pending Motion To Disqualify respondent from representing Bruce C. Clinesmith because of a conflict of interest between him and his wife, Ruth Clinesmith.

d. On July 18, 2005, a hearing on the pending matters was held and the court granted the Motion to Disqualify respondent from representing Bruce Clinesmith in both the guardianship/conservatorship proceeding and in the lawsuit against the Moody Bible Institute because representing both Ruth Clinesmith and Bruce Clinesmith constituted an impermissible conflict of interest.

e. In the course of the July 18, 2005 hearing, the court also appointed Decades, LLC as full temporary guardian and temporary conservator for Bruce Clinesmith and revoked the durable power of attorney of January 20, 2004 pursuant to which Bruce Clinesmith had appointed Ruth Clinesmith as his attorney in fact.

37. [sic] During the course of the July 18, 2005, hearing respondent stated on the record: "I agree that Mr. Clinesmith is incapacitated to the extent that he may need a guardian or conservator."

38. [sic] In the complaint prepared and filed by respondent in the Moody Bible suit, he alleged that in August 2004, Mr. Clinesmith was suffering from "early signs of dementia, be it Alzheimer's Disease or some other dementia diagnosis."

39. [sic] On August 18, 2005, after respondent had been disqualified from representing Bruce Clinesmith and after Decades LLC had been appointed temporary guardian and conservator of Bruce Clinesmith and notwithstanding his own recognition of Bruce Clinesmith's incapacity, respondent went to the dementia unit of the Woodmark, a residential care facility in which Bruce Clinesmith was a patient. Respondent had Bruce Clinesmith removed from the dementia unit and taken to a private room, where he presented Bruce Clinesmith with a new will and trust which he asked Bruce Clinesmith to execute and which Bruce Clinesmith did in fact execute.

40. [sic] Respondent did not notify Richard Reidy, the guardian ad litem, or Decades LLC, the temporary guardian and conservator, of his visit to Bruce Clinesmith either before or after the visit nor did respondent obtain leave of court to make the visit to Bruce Clinesmith.

41. [sic] Upon learning of respondent's meeting with Bruce Clinesmith and Bruce Clinesmith's execution of the will and trust prepared by respondent, Decades LLC filed a Motion To Prohibit Interference With Temporary Guardian And Conservator Decades, LLC's Performance Of Duties And Exercise Of Powers Pursuant To Court Order Dated August 5, 2005, And Request For Emergency Expedited Hearing.

42. [sic] The court held a hearing of the Decades, LLC Motion on August 22, 2005, and entered an Order, inter-alia, enjoining respondent from having any contact with Bruce Clinesmith, voiding the will and trust executed by Bruce Clinesmith on August 18, 2005, and awarding Decades, LLC the attorneys' fees incurred by it in connection with the Motion.

43. [sic] On September 1, 2005, by Order of that date, the court in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding disqualified respondent from any continued representation of Ruth Clinesmith. The grounds for the disqualification were that respondent formerly represented Bruce Clinesmith, that the continued representation of Ruth Clinesmith was substantially related to the representation of Bruce Clinesmith, and that the interests of Ruth Clinesmith are materially adverse to those of Bruce Clinesmith.

44. [sic] Respondent did not advise the federal court in the Moody Bible lawsuit of the entry of the July 18, 2005 Order revoking the power of attorney (pursuant to which he purported to represent the interests of Bruce Clinesmith in that matter) and disqualifying him from representing the interests of Bruce Clinesmith in that proceeding as well as in the guardianship/conservatorship proceeding.

45. [sic] Respondent did not advise the federal court in the Moody Bible lawsuit of the September 1, 2005, Order entered in the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding disqualifying him from representing Ruth Clinesmith.

46. [sic] Notwithstanding the Orders of July 18 of September 1, 2005, respondent continued to represent Ruth Clinesmith in the Moody Bible lawsuit and continued to purport to represent the interests of Bruce Clinesmith in that lawsuit as well.

47. [sic] On November 21, 2005, an Order was entered by the United States District Court in the Moody Bible suit disqualifying respondent from representing any party to that action for the same reasons that he was disqualified by Judge Vanzi in her Order of September 1 in the guardian and conservatorship proceeding.

48. [sic] By reason of the foregoing conduct respondent violated the following Rules of Professional Conduct:

a. Rule 16-102(D) by assisting a client (Ruth Clinesmith) to engage in conduct he knew was fraudulent or misleading to the court;

b. Rule 16-107(A) by representing Ruth Clinesmith whose interests were adverse to those of another client (Bruce Clinesmith).

c Rule 16-107(B) by representing a client (Bruce Clinesmith) where the representation of that client was materially limited by his representation of another client (Ruth Clinesmith);

d. Rule 16-109(A) by representing a person (Ruth Clinesmith) in the same or a substantially related matter in which that person's interests were materially adverse to those of a former client (Bruce Clinesmith) and without the consent of the former client;

e. Rule 16-301 by bringing a proceeding that was frivolous;

f. Rule 16-303(A)(2) by failing to disclose a material fact to a tribunal when the disclosure was necessary to avoid assisting a client in a fraudulent act;

g. Rule 16-303(A)(3) by failing to disclose to a tribunal legal authority in the controlling jurisdiction known to the lawyer to be directly adverse to the position of the client (Ruth Clinesmith) and not disclosed by opposing counsel;

h. Rule 16-401(B) by failing to disclose a material fact to a third person when disclosure is necessary to avoid assisting a fraudulent act by a client;

i. Rule 16-402 by communicating during the representation of a client about the subject of the representation with a party he knew to be represented by another lawyer in the matter without the consent of the other lawyer and without authorization of law to do so;

j. Rule 16-804(C) by engaging in conduct involving dishonesty, fraud, deceit or misrepresentation;

k. Rule 16-804(D) by engaging in conduct prejudicial to the administration of justice and

l. Rule 16-804(H) by engaging in conduct adversely reflecting on respondent's fitness to practice law.

FACTORS IN AGGRAVATION

49. [sic] Respondent was disciplined by the issuance of a Formal Reprimand on November 18, 2005 for substantially similar conduct involving a conflict of interest in violation of Rule 16-107(A) of the Rules of Professional Conduct. ABA Standards For Imposing Lawyer Sanctions, Standard 9.22(a).

50. [sic] Respondent has engaged in a pattern of misconduct constituting multiple offenses. ABA Standards For Imposing Lawyer Sanctions. Standard 9.22(d).

51. [sic] Respondent has refused to acknowledge the wrongful nature of his conduct, ABA Standards For Imposing Lawyer Sanctions, Standard 9.22(g).

52. [sic] Bruce Clinesmith, the person adversely affected by the conduct of respondent, is suffering from advanced dementia and was and continues to be under the protection of a court appointed guardian. ABA Standards For Imposing Lawyer Sanctions, Standard 9.22(h).

53. [sic] Respondent has substantial experience in the practice of law. ABA Standards For Imposing Lawyer Sanctions. Standard 9.22(i).

TAPE 1, SIDE A

[2] BAILIFF: The honorable Supreme Court of the State of New Mexico. Court is now in session.

CHIEF JUSTICE: Please be seated. We have one matter on the docket this afternoon in the matter of Stuart L. Stein. Case number 17,349. Joel Widman on behalf of the petitioner. He's asked for ten minutes only, and ten minutes rebuttal. Is that correct?

MR. WIDMAN: Yes sir, that is correct.

CHIEF JUSTICE: Mr. Stein, 20 minutes?

MR. STEIN: [Inaudible].

CHIEF JUSTICE: Okay. Proceed.

MR. WIDMAN: Good afternoon, Mr. Chief Justice. Justices, uh, my name is Joel Widman. I am at the office of, uh, disciplinary counsel. Uh, may it please the court. The purpose of discipline is stated in the preamble to the rules governing disciplinary three. The protection of the public. The protection of the profession. And the protection of the administration of justice. Whereas here, there is no real question of fact as to the conduct engaged in by the Respondent. The issue becomes what discipline is appropriate where the Respondent has failed to grasp any appreciation of how his conduct falls below the standard set for attorneys in this state, and continues to blame others for his acts and omissions. And shows disdain for the disciplinary system. In that regard, the statements that have been made by the Respondent in the course of this proceeding are relevant. Before the hearing committee in this case, the Respondent made the following comment. "I have been through this whole thing before this committee on the Boatrush case. "You," referring to the hearing committee, "gave me a 15-day [3] suspension. We go up on appeal, to the disciplinary board, they increase it to 90 days. We go to the Supreme Court, nothing. A slap on the wrist; a public reprimand. There is something wrong with the system." At the hearing on aggravation and mitigation in this case, the Respondent said, "but as far as mitigation concerned, I have done nothing wrong." And perhaps most telling is the response that was made to the inquiry of Mr. Shucarage, the chair of the board panel hearing committee when he posed to the Respondent the following question.

Mr. Shucarage: "What did you get out of Judge Vanzi's letter that started this whole thing? That started this whole process as far as what you did wrong, according to her at least." Mr. Stein: "She just didn't like me. I was too tough." Mr. Shucarage: "Is that what her letter said?" Mr. Stein: "No, you said, what did I get out of it?" Whereon, Mr. Shucarage continues: "Do you still take the position that you have done nothing that violates the rules of professional responsibility?" Mr. Stein: "Absolutely. Absolutely. You know if the answer to practicing law to avoid disciplinary counsel is to make all close decisions against your client and for the other side so nobody complains, then I don't want to practice law anymore."

This court has dealt with a similar attitude in the case of Elias Quintana. In that case, this court stated, "Rather than recognizing his own shortcomings, he continues to blame others for his acts and omissions. Quintana's sustained inability to grasp any appreciation of how his conduct falls below the standards set for attorneys, or any understanding of his professional obligations, convinces us that an extension of the previously imposed sanction is required for the protection of the public." And Mr., uh, Quintana, uh, as this court, I recollect, [4] was suspended indefinitely.

Finally, I would like to refer to Mr. Stein's website. That has been introduced in evidence as Exhibit "D," at the hearing on aggravation and mitigation. The first paragraph is captioned, hearing committee needs help diagramming sentences. Judge Vanzi's cut and running accusations – judicious or cowardly? Disciplinary counsel's office drags feet on bar complaint filed against their lap dog lawyer. Referring to Greg McConsey who was a witness, uh, for, uh, disciplinary counsel, uh, in this matter. Want a lifetime appointment to a hearing committee? Call Virginia. This, unfortunately, is the mental state that we are dealing with. And there is no discipline short of disbarment that is going to accomplish the objectives that are set out in the preamble. To protect the public. To protect the profession, or to protect the administration of justice. Anything short of that is going to enable the Respondent to walk out of here, uh, thinking that he was unjustly dealt with, which is no doubt going to happen regardless of what this court does, but enable him to go back to the practice of law ultimately, and continue on the same course of conduct that he has embarked on and continued without remorse. And it is, uh, our request that this court, uh, put a stop to it now by disbarring Mr. Stein permanently.

JUSTICE: Counsel, uh, what did the hearing committee recommend, as opposed to the hearing panel?

MR. WIDMAN: Uh, the hearing committee recommended a six-month suspension.

JUSTICE: Do you know why? There's a big difference between that and what was recommended by the board. Do you know why?

MR. WIDMAN: I'm sorry?

[5] JUSTICE: Do you know why they recommended, uh, the six-month suspension as opposed to the disbarment that you've been seeking?

MR. WIDMAN: Uh, no I don't.

JUSTICE: Okay.

JUSTICE: The panel was five years, right?

MR. WIDMAN: The panel was, uh, a five-year, uh, a minimum five-hear [sic] disbarment, yes.

JUSTICE: And the other was six months. What do you, what do you propose that we do given this disparity, between the two bodies?

MR. WIDMAN: Well, I, I think, and I, I can only speculate as to, uh, in response to your question and Justice Daniel's question. Uh, I, I think that at the hearing committee level, uh, particularly, uh, in response to the question, uh, that was posed by Mr. Shucarage. I think it became painfully aware to the hearing committee that, uh, there was no grasp on the part of the Respondent as to, uh, the seriousness of his conduct, the gravity of his conduct. Uh, how his conduct impacted the administration of the case. And when he said what I got out of Judge Vanzi's letter is that she just didn't like me because I'm too tough, I think that set it off, and I think that the hearing committee, uh, at, at that point, uh, probably gave that great weight. I think there's another factor, and that is the hearing committee in this case did something that I've never seen done before. Uh, and that is in the course of, uh, oral argument, uh, Mr. Fish went through every allegation, uh, uh, I'm sorry, every finding of fact that was made by, uh, the, uh, hearing, uh, committee, and asked Mr. Stein whether or not he agreed with it. And as a result of his responses to those questions, the hearing committee concluded that there is really no issue of fact in this case, uh, and one can see that [6] by, uh, by looking at the briefs he filed. His briefs are, are primarily an attack on the system of disciplinary counsel, uh, on everybody in sight. But there is nothing, uh, in the, uh, briefs that Mr. Stein filed either before this court or before the hearing panel, uh, that addresses the substantive issues. And in fact, uh, he can't address the substantive issues because it's kind of, it's a matter of record, all of the conduct, uh, that he is, uh, that forms the basis for the discipline that's been imposed in this case, was conduct, uh, it's a matter of record in the proceeding before Judge Vanzi.

JUSTICE: But the hearing committee recommended six months.

MR. WIDMAN: That's correct.

JUSTICE: And subsequently the board recommended a minimum of five year disbarment. Is that because you just had different human beings looking at the same matters, and coming up with different conclusions, or did something happen the, in the interim that made the board inclined to believe that something stiffer was required?

MR. WIDMAN: I'm not aware of anything that happened in the interim. Uh, I think that, uh, uh, the hearing panel, that's opposed to the hearing committee, uh, probably had more time, uh, to reflect on the exhibits, particularly, uh, uh, Exhibit "D," which was a copy of, uh, the Respondent's website, and again, I'm, I'm simply speculating here. Uh, and I, I believe that, uh, they had more time than the hearing committee to look at it, and to give it weight. Uh, and I think again it was the answers that, uh, uh, that were posed to Mr. Stein by the hearing panel that were not posed to him by the hearing committee.

JUSTICE (FEMALE): And I just have one question, were there any mitigating circumstances found by either of the, uh, either the panel or the [7] committee?

MR. WIDMAN: Uh, no, I don't think there were.

CHIEF JUSTICE: Thank you, Mr. Widmann Mr. Stein?

MR. STEIN: Thank you. Mr. Chief Justice, Justices of the Supreme Court, may it please the court. Uh, because I thought I would have opening and closing as to the last time that we were here with my other lawyer, I was a little disjointed because of this middle part. So what I propose to do is respond to what Mr. Widman said, and then go into my presentation. Uh, uh, Mr. Widman is quoting from the record about what happened at the hearing committee, and what we were trying to do was remind the hearing committee that the last time, on the Boatrush case, that they gave 15 days. It then went to 90 days. And then this court said it was a, uh, public reprimand. What I was trying to show to them was that they were looking at what I did much more severely than this court did. And I was trying to show that there was really no proof of anything at this particular case. Mr. Widman says that I said that I did nothing wrong. I did say that. I say that to this court. There was nothing proved. There was nothing alleged. All we have are conclusions based on facts. I filed two federal lawsuits on behalf of my clients. I represented them in a guardianship, a conservatorship matter, and everybody said you're not allowed to do that, and therefore you have a conflict of interest, but no one ever articulated the conflict of interest. And all of the other things that were said, as I'll get into in my, uh, uh, presentation, were just not true.

JUSTICE: Are you saying that there was no conflict of interest, or that they just didn't sufficiently allege conflict of interest?

MR. STEIN: Well, if we look at the record, they didn't prove it. If we, if you're asking me, Justice Daniels, was there a conflict of interest, the answer is [8] no. And there wasn't. Uh, the, uh, other things that were, uh, said here, uh, that were quoted, that Mr. Shucarage said to me, well, you've read Judge Vanzi's letter. What is your reaction? And I said, "I don't think Judge Vanzi likes me." And the proof of that pudding is that, and this came out before the hearing committee. When the issues came up about what happened in the Clinesmith matter, and there was a hearing on less than 24 hours notice. We all have to run to court. And the judge, Judge Vanzi, starts interrogating me. Starts questioning the lawyers from the other side, and then I say to Judge Vanzi, "But judge, you haven't heard the other side yet." And her quote in the record is, "I don't need to hear the other side." When I'm before a judge who will say on the record they don't have to hear the other side, that includes my client's position, and this particular place, ca-, particular case and instance, my position, I find that is not appropriate. And that indicates to me a personal animus by the judge against either me or my client. The court should also take into consideration that when Judge Vanzi's letter was written, she was still sitting on that guardianship case. She has not yet ruled. Yet, she has spent, I think, I look at that letter, and if I had to do that letter on someone else, I would have spent at least a day, maybe longer, to put it all together, with all the backup material that she presented, to disciplinary counsel, and she's doing this while she is sitting as the judge on my client's case after she threw me off.

When I say, when Mr. Widman complains I did nothing wrong, I did nothing wrong. I'm concerned when an officer of the State of New Mexico gets upset because a lawyer has a website. I do complain. And I make it public. I'm not worried about the public coming in and seeing it. At the hearing committee, we had, for most of the presentation, a reporter, from the Albuquerque Journal.

[19] filed the lawsuit did have jurisdiction. And, uh, I submit that these are not only inconsistent arguments, but the fact is that this is not in rem proceeding. It's an in personem proceeding, and the individual that had, uh, the authority over these trusts was Bruce Clinesmith, and then by implication, the guardians. And they are located in New Mexico, and Judge Vanzi did have jurisdiction, and his attempt two months after the guardianship and conservatorship proceeding was started, uh, to in effect end run Judge Vanzi's jurisdiction is, is simply that. Uh, he wasn't getting the relief that he thought he would get, as fast as he thought he would get it, so he runs into federal court, under a power of attorney. Uh, under, uh, uh, a purported power of attorney, and asks the federal court to void the trust, and to in effect pay the proceeds, uh, or, uh, put the proceeds, uh, within the control of, uh, Ruth Clinesmith. Uh, and his entire course of conduct from not advising the federal court to continuing to represent Bruce Clinesmith in the federal proceeding, uh, after he was disqualified, to continue to represent Ruth Clinesmith in the federal proceeding after he was disqualified until finally November, the federal court disqualified him, realign the parties, and dismiss the lawsuit for lack of diversity jurisdiction. And that's how that case wound up. But, uh, uh, his conduct has been repre-, reprehensible. Uh, there is no question that, uh, Mr. Stein, uh, should not be practicing law in New Mexico.

CHIEF JUSTICE: Thank you, Mr. Widman.

MR. WIDMAN: Thank you.

CHIEF JUSTICE: The court will retire, and deliberate this case. If we are able to reach a resolution, we will return to open court and announce our decision. I ask that you remain very near the courtroom. Uh, we, if we are unable to reach a resolution today, we will let the clerk know, and the clerk will, uh, let [20] you know that the matter will be taken under advisement.

BAILIFF: [inaudible].

CHIEF JUSTICE: Please be seated. The court has deliberated. And have reached a unanimous decision in this case. Mr. Stein, it is the decision of the court unanimously to disbar you effective immediately. You may seek reinstatement pursuant to the provisions of 17-214. You must comply with the provisions of rule 17-212, with respect to the notification of clients and pending matters, and there are details in that rule which will specify exactly how you go about doing that in litigated matters and any matters, uh, with respect to unauthorized practice of law. How to do affidavits of compliance, etcetera. You are responsible for the costs of these proceedings. The court has found, uh, that the findings are supported by sufficient evidence. And we will write in this case to explain our findings and conclusions. But in summary, when a lawyer represents two clients, one who may have advertised or at least acknowledged he is potentially if not clearly incapacitated, seeking to take money from them, find in favor of the other client, there is a conflict of interest. To ignore the judge's order, whether you agreed with it or disagreed with it, is impermissible. We have avenues that are available to litigants who disagree with a judge's order, and that is something that you should have availed yourself of. But simply refusing to honor the judge's order is a problem. Uh, seeking to have a client who has a guardian to re-write the will, to undo any of the trust provisions is also a conflict. And a violation of codes. So your disbarment is effective immediately. And the court will, as I say, publish an opinion in this case.

MR. STEIN: Will the court consider a 30-day situation where I can [inaudible] up certain matters in the courts that I have for pending clients?

[25] Well, you never told me I couldn't.

Well, you know that is essentially what we are dealing with here. We are dealing with somebody that cannot take responsibility for what he does in the course of his practice. Everything is somebody's else fault, and all you have to do is look at his website. It's my fault, its Judge Vanzi's fault. Everybody is out to get him, and there is no focus, by the respondent on what he did, what was wrong with what he did, and how he might change his behavior so he avoids situations like this in the future. And that is why we are basically arguing that he should be disbarred, because discipline does not have an effect here. And that's essentially our case.

MR. SHOOBRIDGE: Thank you, Mr. Widman. Mr. Stein.

MR. STEIN: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

I want to respond in a little disjointed. Mr. Fish mentioned something about the Bogarosh case that came up. The original hearing committee recommended a 15 day suspension. When it got to the review panel, they increased it to 90 days. Originally discipline counsel asked for a one year suspension before the committee. At the review panel, they asked for six months, and then when we [73] specificity, part of a fraud complaint would be the misrepresentation. If the misrepresentation could stand as an independent violation of the rules of professional conduct, I would have been on notice, but I wasn't on notice.

And then as far as the prosecutorial misconduct, I think those matters speak for themselves. Even today, Mr. Widman talks about my website. You can go to my website. I haven't heard anyone say that the things that were on the website were untrue.

The question about 45-5-402, there was nothing, nothing in Judge Vanzi's letter that mentioned that statute. It was heard in the hearing committee that Judge Vanzi was told about that by Mr. MacKenzie, and Judge Parker was told about that statute by Mr. Reid, and neither of those judges did anything about it, because they agree, I think, with me, that it had no application.

MR. SHOOBRIDGE: Okay. Thank you, Mr. Stein. I'm going to move now to Mr. Widman, and we will come back to you here shortly.

MR. CAMPBELL: You up for a break?

MR. SHOOBRIDGE: Yes. Let's take a five minute break.

[16] involving Virginia Ferrara that happened 18 years ago.

And there is no glimmer here of any recognition that anything that the Respondent did may even have been inappropriate. There's just none. Everything that happened is everybody else's fault. There's no responsibility for his own conduct.

And this is evident by his Web site. And this is a printoff of his Web site, dated March 12th, 2007. And this is a matter that the Supreme Court takes very seriously.

And I think the best language is In The Matter of Quintana, 104 NM 511, in which they state, "Rather than recognizing his own shortcomings, he," the respondent, "continues to blame others for his acts and omissions. In addition, he has openly chastised Disciplinary Counsel and this Court for what he evidently perceives is unjustified punishment. Our purpose in disciplining Quintana or other attorneys is not to impose punishment. Our obligation is to protect the public and the reputation of the profession and safeguard the administration of justice. Quintana's sustained inability to grasp any appreciation of how his [22] Because how is anything less than that going to protect the public? And I think the answer is, it's not. And all one has to do is read through the Respondent's Web site to be convinced of that.

You know, neither Virginia Ferrara nor I nor anybody on this hearing committee nor Judge Vanzi told the Respondent to prepare a will and go down to the nursing home and have Bruce Clinesmith sign it. But somehow or other, now that that conduct has become the subject of a disciplinary proceeding, it's everyone else's fault.

And it's that kind of a mindset that is impossible to deal with by progressive discipline. It just doesn't work.

The cases that we feel are appropriate are Matter of Arrieta, 105 NM 418 –

CHAIRMAN TINNEN: 418?

MR. WIDMAN: 418. And in that case, the respondent was disbarred because his conduct was found to be willful and deliberate and as a result of negligence.

Matter of Quintana, which I previously cited at 104 NM 511. The Matter of C'deBaca, 109 NM 151, and the Matter of Chavez, 122 NM 504. Chavez did not involve disbarment. It involved an [40] can't have a house.

And Mr. Widman says I'm too aggressive, that I go into Federal Court. Probably just one lawyer in 50 would even know how to get there.

I've had cases in over 25 states all over this country, criminal and civil. I think I know what I'm doing.

Mr. Widman has into evidence my blog. What I write there I believe is true. I'm not allowed to do it because my First Amendment rights don't count, not as far as Discipline Counsel is concerned.

I'll tell you what I should never be. I should never be a judge. I should never be Discipline Counsel. I have some marks against me, but that doesn't mean I should be disbarred. If it does, I'm out of the state. You'll be rid of me.

I don't think in a million years would the State of Florida take away my license. Because as soon as I tell them I have no discovery, they will disregard this. And then unfortunately, the state that I love will be considered, at least by the Florida Supreme Court, a state where due process doesn't live.

In my opinion, it didn't live in this
